CHIANG REPORTED SEEKING PERMISSION FROM U.S. TO BOMB BASES ON MAINLAND

TALKS 6 HOURS WITH ADM. FELT; MORE SUPPLIES REACH QUEMOY

State Dept. Denies U.S. Warned Red Chinese It Might Support Raids If Islands Were About to Fall.

TAIPEI, Formosa, Sept. 23 (UPI) — Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Adm. Harry Felt, commander of United States Pacific Forces, met in secret for more than six hours today. There were reports that Nationalist China was seeking United States permission to bomb Communist mainland artillery bases opposite Quemoy.

(In Washington the State Department denied reports that Red China had been warned that United States-backed Nationalist bombers would attack the Communist mainland if Quemoy were about to fall.

(Press officer Lincoln White, asked about the published reports, said "I know of nothing that is not on the public record." He said he referred to speeches and statements by President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in which they have pledged support of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek in defense of Formosa and ruled out appeasement.

("I would like to point out," White said, "that since the beginning of the Formosa crisis both the United States and Nationalist China have used the utmost restraint in the face of continued provocation by the Chinese Communists.")

Retaliation With Artillery.

The Nationalists thus far have retaliated against the four-week bombardment of the Quemoys only with artillery dug in on the island. There were unconfirmed reports the Nationalists had sent in larger artillery pieces but news from Quemoy has been blacked out for more than a week.

The bar imposed Sept. 15 on trips of news correspondents to Quemoy, Matsu and the Pescadores islands was lifted today, however.

A spokesman for both sides said newsmen could accompany supply convoys to the offshore islands on either Nationalist or American ships.

United States and Nationalist military officials agree that the only way to stop the shelling is to bomb the Communist artillery. But this step has not been taken, apparently in belief the Reds would send their bombers over Formosa and directly involve the United States in a shooting war.

Part of Political Question.

Nationalist sources said bombing of the mainland is in part a political question rather than a purely military problem. Should Chiang make such a recommendation to Felt, the admiral could only submit it to Washington for consideration by the Pentagon and the State Department.

LODGE, GROMYKO CLASH ON SEAT FOR RED CHINA

By ALVIN H. GOLDSTEIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 23—The United Nations General Assembly pressed for a vote today on the recommendation of its Steering Committee to shelve the issue of U.N. membership for Communist China.

With 17 countries listed to speak, prospects were that a showdown vote would not be reached until this afternoon. The first eight speakers this morning—Nepal, Ceylon, Romania, Yugoslavia, Byelo-Russia, Burma, the United Arab Republic and Poland—all favored putting the issue on the agenda.

At yesterday afternoon's meeting Henry Cabot Lodge of the United States and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko engaged in bitter exchanges. The temper of disputing delegates was reflected in an attack by Gromyko on Assembly President Charles A. Malik of Lebanon.

Malik told members of the 81-nation world organization that it would be advisable to continue night debate because several foreign ministers were anxious to conclude the discussion and return home. He made this observation before recognizing Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon.

Menon, sponsor of the move to get Assembly consideration of Red Chinese membership, promptly moved adjournement after chiding Malik for violating rules of order by speaking ahead of him. Malik retorted tartly that foreign ministers were important people as were defense ministers, but the Assembly was more important.

In what seemed to some observers a rebuff to Malik, the Assembly then voted 51 to 0, with nine abstaining, to force a vote. Gromyko then declared that "he could not pass over in

SHOWS AT THE ZOO ENDING 'BIGGEST SEASON' SUNDAY

Animal shows at the Zoo have had "the biggest season in their history" in terms of number of spectators, Zoo Director George P. Vierheller said today. The 1958 show season will end Sunday.

Schedule for next Sunday will be as follows: Lion show, 11 a.m. and 2:45 p.m.; chimpanzees, noon and 3:45 p.m., and elephants, 1:45 p.m. Daily schedule this week: Elephant show at 1:45 p.m., lions, 2:45 and chimpanzees, 3:45.

Duke, star of the chimpanzee show, came up with a sprained wrist as a result of a scuffle following last Thursday's show, Vierheller reported. True to his calling, however, Duke protested noisily at efforts to keep him from performing, so he now walks around the ring, shielding his wrist as best he can, the director said.

STUDIO ORDERED TO RETURN $15,890 IN DANCING FEES

DENVER, Sept. 23 (AP) — A district court judge has ordered the return of $15,890 to Mrs. Myrtle K. White, 40 years old, of Pocahontas, Ia., representing money she invested in unused dancing lessons.

Judge Robert J. McWilliams ruled Sept. 12 that Budd Howard, operator of the Arthur Murray school of dancing in Denver, must repay the money to the widow, who formerly lived here.

The woman said in a suit filed to recover the money that after her husband died in 1952, she became interested in dancing. Between February and June of 1953, she said, Howard sold her three life memberships at the dance studio for $6880 each.

Howard declined comment on the judge's decision. He did say that life memberships for which Mrs. White paid $6880 five years ago now cost $10,000. He disclosed that five students have invested $20,000 each in lessons.

Howard said students may win medals ranging from bronze to gold for proficiency in ballroom dancing.

HOFFA, GIBBONS ATTACK SENATE INQUIRY GROUP

Teamster Officials Took Fifth Amendment to 'Protect Families,' Chief Says.

By ROBERT H. COLLINS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23—Teamsters officials summoned before the Senate Rackets committee invoked the Fifth Amendment's protection against self-incrimination to "protect their families, themselves and their union," James R. Hoffa International Teamsters President, declared today.

Hoffa and his chief assistant, Harold J. Gibbons, of St. Louis, sharply attacked the Senate Committee and its members in frequently-applauded addresses before the Central Conference of Teamsters here.

Keeps Conference Post.

Hoffa decided to retain the title of chairman of the Central Conference, which he had been expected to relinquish. The announcement was made at a press conference by Hoffa, who said John (Sandy) O'Brien, international union vice president of Chicago, will be executive vice chairman and actually in charge of the conference.

A bitter denunciation was directed by Hoffa against the AFL-CIO executive board, which expelled the Teamsters, and against George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO.

"Meany should take off his stuffed shirt and parade around in front of a mirror and decide whether he is for labor or management," Hoffa suggested. The Teamster boss predicted that restrictive labor laws will be enacted as a result of congressional hearings.

CHEHAB TAKES OFFICE, ASSERTS U.S. TROOPS WILL LEAVE LEBANON

In Inaugural Talk, He Lists Internal Security, Collection of Arms From Civilians as Problems.

BEIRUT, Sept. 23 (AP) — Gen. Fuad Chehab was sworn in today as the third president of independent Lebanon. He immediately pledged the withdrawal of American troops.

Chehab was elected by nearly all factions of parliament on July 31 as a compromise choice to end political tension which erupted into open rebellion more than four months ago.

American troops came here in mid-July in response to the call of Chehab's predecessor, President Camille Chamoun, who charged that Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic was attempting to overthrow Chamoun's pro-western regime.

Shooting again broke out in Beirut last night and tension again climbed after a lull since Chehab's election. A curfew was in force around the clock as a result of mass kidnapings by political factions.

Will Collect Arms.

In his 10-minute inaugural speech, Gen. Chehab, the former army chief of staff, promised to collect the arms that are in the hands of civilians of all factions. He said this would be done "without distinction."

Speaking to a special session of parliament which witnessed the swearing in ceremony, Chehab also said his new government will attempt to remove the tension between Lebanon and "some of its brother Arab countries."

He started his speech by listing what he called six problems. Withdrawal of foreign troops was put last.

The points were internal security; collection of arms from the population; reviving Lebanon's industrial capacity; reconstruction of buildings damaged during the rebellion; removal of tension between Lebanon and some of the other Arab countries, and withdrawal of foreign forces.

24th Infantry Remains.

About 8000 troops of the United States Twenty-fourth Infantry Division from Germany and about 1700 Marines are still here of the original force of nearly 15,000 men.

Three Marine battalions already have pulled out as a result of agreement between the United States on the one hand and Chamoun and Chehab on the other.

During the inauguration no one was moving in the streets except Lebanese army patrols, American Army and Marine units and diplomats and newspaper men with special curfew passes. There was some firing by celebrators and a barrage of fireworks filled the sky.

A military man who trained at France's St. Cyr military school, Chehab is a Christian. Under the constitution of this half-Christian, half-Moslem country the president must always be a Christian while his premier must be a Moslem.

Premier Candidates.

Chehab did not disclose whom he would select as premier. Chamoun's premier, Sami Solh, a target of assassination attempts, already has gone to Turkey to live.

The two leading candidates for the premiership are both rebel leaders—Rashid Karami of Tripoli and Takieddine Solh of Beirut.

Chehab said the United Nations and the Arab League are pillars of Lebanon but he stressed that unity of the nation's Moslem and Christian people is the key to its existence.

The people of Lebanon "want to be governed by the sword but by the sword of justice," he declared.

This remark was taken by many Moslems to be an oblique reference to the outgoing regime of Chamoun, a regime which Chamoun's opponents considered too pro-Christian.

After the inauguration ceremony Chehab rode to the presidential palace where he was received by Chamoun. They held a brief discussion and then the retiring president took his departure.

Killings Reported.

Two persons were reported killed in the flareup last night. The shooting occurred in the area of the Christian Falangists, a pro-Chamoun political movement incensed by the recent kidnaping of a newspaper columnist, Fuad Haddad. Haddad whereabouts still is not known.

In revenge Falangist bands kidnaped many rebels who were accused of abducting the columnist. There were counter-kidnapings. Altogether about 400 persons were seized by both sides. Most of them were released.

Fence Wrecked 19th Time.

BURNSVILLE, N.C., Sept. 23 (AP) — Zona Stiles is about ready to give up on the picket fence in front of his home. An automobile swerved out of control on a curve yesterday, knocking the fence down for the nineteenth time in the last 10 years and for the third time in 11 months.

COUPLE KILLED WHEN CAR IS HIT BY AUTO RACING WITH ANOTHER

Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Ellis, 8922 Lawn avenue, Brentwood, were killed last night when their automobile was struck by a car drag racing with a third machine on the Daniel Boone Expressway in Ladue.

The Ellis car was eastbound in the highway when the other automobile, traveling at a speed in excess of 90 miles an hour, crashed into the rear of the Ellis machine three-tenths of a mile east of Lindbergh boulevard, police reported. The Ellis car overturned, struck a culvert and caught fire. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis were thrown from the automobile.

Ellis, a line foreman for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. was 54 years old and his wife 47. They were pronounced dead on arrival at St. Louis County Hospital.

Manslaughter Charged.

Donald Cox, 23-year-old porter, 423 West Jefferson avenue, Kirkwood, driver of the car which struck the Ellis machine, was charged with manslaughter in two warrants issued today by Magistrate William H. Preiss at Clayton.

The warrants were issued on complaint of Prosecuting Attorney Edward W. Garnholz after a verdict of homicide was returned by a coroner's jury at Clayton.

Cox was treated at the hospital for multiple lacerations. Two passengers in his automobile, Eugene O. Bowman, 19, of the Jefferson avenue address, and Earl G. Simpson, 19, of 931 Cornell avenue, Webster Groves, suffered minor injuries.

Cox at first told Ladue police the steering apparatus of his machine failed as he was passing the Ellis car.

After further questioning, however, he admitted he was drag racing with another automobile occupied by friends with whom he and his companions had been drinking earlier. He said they decided to "test" their automobiles.

"We dragged from Brentwood boulevard west in the highway to about two miles west of Lindbergh," Cox told police. "Then we turned around and were drag racing east. I had just passed the machine I was racing when this other machine (Ellis's) loomed up ahead of me. I was unable to stop because I was going between 90 and 100 miles an hour."

Testimony at Inquest.

Cox, Simpson and Robert W. Dandridge, 20 years old, 125 Thornton avenue, Webster Groves, driver of the automobile which Cox was racing at the time of the accident, all testified at the inquest, telling substantially the same story Cox related to police earlier.

Patrolman Harold White of the Ladue Police Department testified there were skid marks of the Ellis car 240 feet from the point of impact, and the skid marks of Cox's machine started 21 feet before the point of impact and continued for 333 feet.

White testified police found 17 unopened cans of beer in Cox's machine, an empty half-pint whisky bottle and an unopened pint bottle of whisky.

The officer testified Cox had told him he had reached maximum speeds of 100 to 110 miles an hour during the eastward race which ended in the Ellis deaths. White estimated Cox must have been traveling at a speed in excess of 90 miles an hour at the time of the impact because of the amount of damage done to the two machines. He testified Cox's machine struck the Ellis car "almost directly" in the rear.

Raced West, Turned Back.

Cox and Dandridge testified they had raced westward in the highway to a point west of Highway Patrol Troop C headquarters at Ballas road, before turning back. They proceeded at a normal speed until after they had passed the patrol headquarters, they testified.

Then, Dandridge testified, they began racing again. Dandridge said he took the lead at the start and attained speeds of 85 to 90 miles an hour, but had slowed to about 70 miles an hour at the time Cox passed him.

Cox did not testify as to his speed, but said that, just after passing Dandridge, he came over a hilltop and the Ellis car was right ahead of him. He said he "hit the brakes" and the machine pulled to the right. Cox said he did not know just how fast he was going at the time.

Coroner Harris disclosed at the inquest that an intoximeter test given Cox about an hour and a half after the accident showed only .01 per cent of alcohol in his system. A showing of .15 per cent, or more, indicates intoxication.

SHERMAN ADAMS RESIGNS, BOWS TO DEMANDS FROM WITHIN REPUBLICAN PARTY

Announcing Resignation

PRESIDENT'S AID INSISTS IN TALK ON TV-RADIO HE DID NO WRONG

(Texts on Page 9B)

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—Sherman Adams, bowing to the demands of Republican politicians, announced his resignation as President Eisenhower's principal assistant in a brief and dramatic television and radio appearance late yesterday.

President Eisenhower, who returned to Washington today from his Newport golfing vacation, accepted the resignation "with sadness." He was faced with the difficult task of finding a successor to the official he has called his "good right arm" or of dividing up among the present White House staff the many duties and responsibilities of the office of "the" assistant to the President.

To the end, Adams insisted that he "had done no wrong" in accepting expensive gifts and lavish hospitality from his old friend, Bernard Goldfine, for whom he interceded when the Boston industrialist was having trouble with Federal agencies over his real estate and textile businesses.

'Campaign of Vilification.'

Adams, who has been intimately associated with Mr. Eisenhower since the 1952 presidential campaign, told his radio and television audiences he had been the target, "up to this very moment," of "a campaign of vilification by those who seek personal advantage by my removal from public life."

"These efforts, it is now clear," he said, "have been intended to destroy me and in so doing, to embarrass the Administration and the President of the United States."

Accepting the resignation in a "Dear Sherman" letter made public during the broadcast, Mr. Eisenhower "deeply deplored the circumstances" that caused Adams to leave the White House.

"Your performance," the President wrote, "has been brilliant; the public has been the beneficiary of your unselfish work. After our six years of intimate association you have, as you have had throughout, my complete trust, confidence and respect."

President Watched.

(Mr. Eisenhower watched Adams on television. Asked about the President's reaction, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said: "The President had seen Mr. Adams statement before he made it on TV.")

After the House special legislative oversight subcommittee made the public disclosure in June that Adams had interceded for Goldfine with the Federal Trade Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission and had received costly favors from him, President Eisenhower told a press conference that while his chief assistant may have been "imprudent" he wanted him to stay in the White House position, because, among other reasons, "I need him."

Adams declined to reveal yesterday what he intended to do as soon as "an orderly transition can be arranged for the assumption of my duties and responsibilities."

Asked after the broadcast, which took only about eight minutes, the wiry, stone-faced New Englander kept in character by telling reporters, "I have no further statement."

The $22,500-a-year assistant to the President was at his office at the usual hour, about 7:30 this morning. The President conferred with him as soon as he returned to Washington.

Possible Successors.

Those most often mentioned as a successor are Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, president of the American Red Cross, who was Gen. Eisenhower's chief of staff as NATO commander in Paris; Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton, newspaper owner and former Senator from Nebraska; Henry Cabot Lodge, a former Senator from Massachusetts and now head of the American delegation at the United Nations; Gen. Wilton M. Persons, who was a special assistant to Gen. Eisenhower at SHAPE and presently Adams's deputy, and Brig. Gen. A. J. Goodpaster, present White House staff secretary

BUTLER TO REPLY TO ADAMS ON AIR AT 5:35 P.M. TODAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler will address the nation tonight on "the other side of the Adams case."

The television and radio networks had granted free time to Sherman Adams to announce his resignation last night as assistant to the President. Butler contended the announcement was partisan and political and asked for equal time.

CBS and NBC will carry Butler's speech over their television and radio networks from 5:35 to 5:45 p.m. (St. Louis time) and Mutual over its radio network.

ABC said it still was considering the matter.

(In St. Louis the talk will be transmitted at 5:35 by television stations KSD-TV and KMOX-TV and by radio station KMOX. Radio station KSD will rebroadcast the talk at 6:45.)

GOLDFINE SILENT ON RESIGNATION OF FRIEND ADAMS

BROOKLINE, Mass., Sept. 23 (UPI)—Bernard Goldfine maintained silence today about the resignation of his longtime friend Sherman Adams.

Goldfine made himself unavailable to the press after Adams resigned last night, climaxing a political furor that began when Goldfine's gifts and hospitality to Adams were revealed.

The millionaire's wife said Goldfine was not home. She said she did not know where he could be reached.

Goldfine attorney Samuel P. Sears said last night that he doubted Goldfine would comment on Adams' resignation.

PREDICTS USE OF SATELLITES AS MAILMEN

DETROIT, Sept. 23 (AP)—Far-ranging uses of missiles to forecast the weather, carry mail and serve as radio-television relays were predicted yesterday by Dr. Wernher von Braun.

The Army's civilian missile expert told the Detroit Economic Club that some day an international program might be developed to distribute weather information gathered by missile stations.

"An orbital vehicle can be utilized for continuing surveillance of the total cloud cover of earth," he said. "It would alert us to imminent storms and act as an all-seeing weather eye to provide a foundation for efficient forecasting and warning."

As a mailman, Von Braun said, a satellite passing over Detroit could, within seconds, take on messages for Washington and other points, relaying them to ground stations as its orbit passed over.

"Possibly the most appealing use of orbital communication systems is that of the television-radio relay," he said. "It could provide a world-wide, instantaneous transmission of radio and TV signals far more efficient than any other device."

WIDE RANGE OF COMMENT ON ADAMS'S ACTION

It Runs From 'Tragic' to 'Good Riddance,' But No One Was Surprised.

This is a sample of the flood of comment touched off by Sherman Adams's announcement last night that he had resigned as President Eisenhower's chief of staff.

Some of the comments were kind; some were not. But no one was surprised.

"Because to do his job well he had to say 'no' more often than 'yes,' he has his share of critics," Nixon said, "but any fair-minded observer who examines the whole record will conclude that he made a superb contribution to the efficient operation of the executive branch of the government."

Truman's View.

In Kansas City, former President Harry Truman said: "I don't think there is any reason for me or anyone else to comment further on the matter except to say that the facts speak for themselves very eloquently." He added there were "much more important failures and bunglings of the Administration than the lack of ethics in the White House. I think we should point up these real issues and go out and campaign on them against the Republicans. Those are the things that count, not Sherman Adams."

Representative John E. Moss (Dem.), California, a member of the House subcommittee that investigated charges of White House influence on federal agencies, said, "Adams improperly intervened and used the considerable powers of his office to secure information for his friend (Bernard) Goldfine which, under the law, could not have been made available through any other source."

Harris Plans Reply

Representative Oren Harris (Dem.), Arkansas, chairman of the subcommittee, indicated he would make a statement after consulting other members of his subcommittee.

"Adams took what I thought was an unnecessary and uncalled for slap at the committee," Harris said, "and I think it's a very serious charge—certainly in view of the record—and it should be properly replied to."

Representative Peter F. Mack (Dem.), Illinois, also a member of the subcommittee and the first to demand Adams's ouster, said, "When Mr. Adams

Navy Finds 'Sootable' Way To Cloud Skies or Clear Them

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP) — The Navy said today it had managed to create clouds and to destroy others by seeding them with ordinary carbon black.

The woman scientist who discovered the new method said experiments over southern Georgia produced a series of clouds "at a cost of 18 cents a cloud."

Much experimentation must be done before the value of the new technique can be determined. But if it proves successful, it could open the way to cheap and reliable means of making rain, or of breaking up storm clouds, or of dissipating fog.

The new technique was developed by Dr. Florence W. van Straten, who livened up a desk job with the Chief of Naval Operations by theorizing along new lines as to how rain is formed.

Earlier cloud-seeding methods using more expensive dry ice and silver iodide have been confined to super-cooled clouds. The carbon method, Dr. Van Straten said, "apparently works with clouds at any temperature."

In the Georgia experiments, a Navy airplane dropped carbon black in both solid and liquid-suspension form into clouds and into clear skies.

Results to date indicate that when the carbon is sprayed or sprinkled into a clear sky it causes clouds to form, and when it is introduced into clouds it clears them up. Whether it actually produces rain in this process has not yet definitely been determined.

Carbon black, a common product used in printers' ink and automobile tires, is nothing more than soot. It is available cheaply, in commercial quantities, as a byproduct of the burning of natural gas.

Vacation Over, Eisenhowers Return to Nation's Capital

(Picture in Everyday Magazine.)

The President, looking tanned and rested, smiled and waved to a small crowd on hand as he left his plane, the Columbine III. Mrs. Eisenhower was with him.

Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the White House physician, said the Newport vacation did Mr. Eisenhower much good.

The President got in 18 holes of golf almost every day and he went fishing three times. Twice he interrupted his vacation to return to Washington briefly.

CONCERN RISES AS BOTH SIDES STAND FIRM IN WARSAW TALKS

Conflict Feared Unless Break Is Achieved in Formosa Deadlock—Khrushchev Stirs Worry.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—The third round of talks between the United States and Red China at Warsaw reportedly has brought no fresh hope of a break in the Formosa deadlock.

President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles conferred today on the critical situation.

There is increasing concern in high official quarters that unless there is a favorable break, Red China's avowed determination to take Chinese Nationalist territory by force and drive United States forces from the Formosa area may lead to conflict.

United States Ambassador Jacob D. Beam and Ambassador Wang Ping-nan of Red China held their third session on the crisis in Warsaw yesterday. It lasted 1¾ hours.

Red China Firm.

Diplomatic informants said Red China was standing firm on its demand that the United States agree to abandon Formosa. United States officials said this was so completely contrary to basic American policy in the Far East as to be entirely beyond serious consideration.

The United States, for its part, insisted again that the Reds agree to a cease-fire that would halt their shelling of the Nationalist-held island of Quemoy.

Beam and Wang agreed to meet again Thursday. Some officials said the United States would not break off the talks as long as the Reds want to continue them. But reports persisted that if there is no progress in the next few days the United States would take the crisis to the United Nations.

One dangerous element in the situation as seen here is evidence that Soviet Premier Khrushchev is becoming extremely confident and arrogant in his attitude toward the United States and other Western countries. If this is true, the fear is that his backing of Communist China may not be restrained by careful judgments of United States intention.

Without restraint on both sides as the showdown develops, officials said, the crisis could easily explode into a war between Soviet-backed Red China and the United States.

Top United States authorities still think this will not happen. They feel that the Reds are trying to break down United States support of Nationalist China by threats of war. But they concede that the essential question is one of Soviet and Red Chinese intentions, and these are unknown here except for what Moscow and Peiping say about them.

Concern with Communist intentions has made State Department authorities unusually sensitive to Khrushchev's behavior in recent days. Two things he has done have led them to wonder whether he is in a frame of mind for rash action, or perhaps believes—as he said in his last letter to President Eisenhower — that the balance of power in the world is now in the hands of the Communist bloc.

Blunt Threat to U. S.

One of these was the nature of his letter to the President, with its blunt threat that if the United States does not pull its forces out of the Formosa area the Chinese Communists, with Soviet support, will undertake to throw them out. The White House called the letter intemperate and abusive, and returned it to the Soviet Foreign Office.

The other was Khrushchev's extraordinary intervention Sunday in domestic French politics, assailing the new constitution proposed by Gen. Charles de Gaulle. Normal international practice would bar the head of one nation from speaking out openly on a strictly domestic issue in another.

Officials said Khrushchev may have been motivated by desire to strengthen the hand of the French Communist party or by a wish to embarrass France and therby win favor in the Arab world. But whatever his immediate purpose, they said, his action suggests that he is in a cocky and belligerent mood.

Izvestia Terms U.S. Leaders Deaf to Voice of Wisdom.

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP)—The Soviet Government newspaper Izvestia charged today that President Eisenhower's rejection of Premier Krushchev's latest Far East message was "proof of the unwillingness of American ruling circles to listen to the voice of wisdom."

Izvestia repeated Russian claims that the United States action was a "violation of generally accepted diplomatic regulations" and was "conducive to deterioration in the international situation."

"The cynical gesture of the American leaders has once again confirmed the truth is biting them," said Izvestia.

Departing Adams Was Locomotive Among Boxcars on White House Staff

President Not Only Must Replace Him, But Must Rebuild Entire System.

By JAMES RESTON
© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—In his resignation from the White House staff late yesterday, Sherman Adams said he would remain on the job long enough to permit an orderly transition of his duties to somebody else.

This will not be an easy transition. He and he alone knew the full range of his duties. The White House staff, while owing primary allegiance to the President, was essentially Adams's staff, largely picked by Adams, and trained to work under the rigorous discipline of the Adams system.

In a period when executive energy has been scarce at the pinnacle of the Government, he was the general manager of an institutionalized presidency. He was the locomotive among the box cars in the White House. Others had authority, notably the staff secretary, Brig. Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, and the press secretary, James C. Hagerty, but they exercised that authority in accordance with Adams's will.

Undistinguished Staff.

Thus the President is confronted not merely with the task of replacing a man but with rebuilding a system. The general feeling here is that, with a few notable exceptions, this is an undistinguished staff. Adams chose for the White House, not a stable of giants, but a group of competent technicians, none of whom is likely to be moved up into Adams's post.

Ironically, the departure of Adams may now make it easier for the President to introduce into the White House the staff system Adams himself always talked about but never put over.

He once said his job was "to do whatever needed to be done in the White House that the President himself was not doing." But he was not altogether happy with this vast and vague grant of unaccountable power.

For years he toyed with the idea of recommending the appointment of "three vice presidents"—one to help with the ceremonial duties of the presidency; one to help co-ordinate foreign affairs, and one to supervise the administration of domestic affairs.

Plan Was Dropped.

When Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had to undergo a serious operation about two years ago, the President and Adams agreed that a foreign affairs co-ordinator should be brought into the White House. They picked Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, but this was dropped when acting Secretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr. objected.

In both cases it was Adams's view that the presidency had become so large and complicated an operation that it had to be "intitutionalized," with the work-load immediately under the President shared by at least two or more principal assistants.

He even thought for a time that the "three vice presidents" should be elected, so that the principal aids to the President in the White House would be exercising powers specifically granted to them by the people.

This, however, proved to be too difficult to work out, and so long as Adams was there carrying the load, Mr. Eisenhower showed little interest in any reorganization.

A Difficult Time.

Now he must act under difficult circumstances at a difficult time. Either he can pick another general manager of the White House and rely on an individual, as he relied on Adams and on Gens. W. Bedell Smith and Alfred Gruenther to be his chiefs of staff during and after the war, or he can split up the Adams job and appoint two or three new principal assistants.

A strong case is being made here for splitting the job. Part of the reason for Adams's difficulties was that he was asked to exercise so much authority that his powers were greater than those of most of the Cabinet. He stood between the President and the heads of most of the departments and agencies of the executive branch, and during the President's illnesses he was perhaps the most powerful man in the United States.

In the present controversy over United States foreign policy, too, there is some feeling here that Secretary of State Dulles's ideas have been put into practice without much prior consideration at the White House. For this reason, some officials in the Administration are hoping that a White House foreign affairs co-ordinator, as well as a domestic affairs co-ordinator, will be selected to fill the gap.

Mentioned for Post.

Among those mentioned for the job have been Henry Cabot Lodge, United States Ambassador to the United Nations; Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton, Gen. Gruenther, and Clifford Folger, United States Ambassador to Belgium.

It is known that Vice President Richard M. Nixon has also been eager to get experience in the executive branch of the Government. Though he has been permitted to know much about the formation of policies and has assumed a great deal of responsibility for ceremonial functions, he has never had any executive responsibility either at the state or federal level.

In some Republican circles, the idea of bringing Nixon into the White House to do at least part of the Adams job is strongly supported. For this would, it is felt, increase the validity of the political argument inu 1960 that he has been carefully prepared for presidential responsibility.

President Not Interested.

Mr. Eisenhower, however, showed little interest in such a move when he discussed it with the Vice President some time ago. Though President Roosevelt gave Vice President Henry A. Wallace great authority, even over the Cabinet, during the war, President Eisenhower has taken the position that the place of the Vice President was on Capitol Hill, presiding over the Senate.

Even so, the Vice President's strength is likely to increase with the departure of Adams. It was Adams who moved into the primary role in the Administration during the President's first prolonged illness, and some of Nixon's supporters felt that Adams was behind the President's delay in supporting Nixon for renomination in 1956.

Accordingly, even if Nixon is not given new duties, his place in the power relationships of the Administration is likely to rise.

STAY IS DENIED ON INTEGRATION AT NORFOLK, VA.

Ruling on Admission of 17 Negroes Almost Certain to Close Six Schools.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 23 (AP)—The Norfolk (Va.) School Board today lost its latest bid for a delay in admitting 17 Negroes to six all-white schools.

Chief Judge Simon E. Sobeloff of the Fourth United States Circuit Court of Appeals rejected a request to postpone for one year a lower court order directing admission of the 17 Negroes to the schools.

The six schools, with a total enrollment of 10,000, were scheduled to open next Monday. It appeared virtually certain that, in view of Judge Sobeloff's action, Gov. J. Lindsay Almond of Virginia would order these schools closed.

Almond already has closed Warren County High School at Front Royal and Lane High and Venable Elementary at Charlottesville. Judge Sobeloff earlier refused to delay integration at those schools.

Developments yesterday indicated the growing concern of parents, school officials and the children themselves regarding closings.

A 15-member committee of the Warren County High School Parent-Teacher unit went into its fifth session in three days to debate possible action on the part of the patrons.

A spokesman for a Negro group said a movement is under way to get the Front Royal high school reopened on a segregated basis by attempting to get the 26 Negro petitioners to the integration suit to withdraw their names.

The spokesman, who asked not to be identified at this time, said, "Our main purpose will be to get the school open as soon as possible."

He said most of the petitioners "did not know what they were signing," and added, "We are talking to them now and given a little more time I believe we can get them to withdraw their names and bring racial relations back to normal in Warren county."

In a conference yesterday Gov. Almond talked with William J. Story, superintendent of South Norfolk schools, and James G. Martin, head of the Norfolk organization trying to set up a private school program.

Seventy students at Norfolk's Northside Junior High School signed a petition to Gov. Almond urging that the public schools in the city be kept open.

"Not as segregationists or integrationists but as students who want an education, we ask you to please keep our schools open," was the request in the petition.

A petition circulating among students at the closed Lane High in Charlottsville asks Gov. Almond to reopen the facility or return it to local control. The Lane petition, too, takes no stand on segregation.

Charges Ex-FCC Head Solicited, Took Bribes Bared at Hearing

House Investigator Repeats Allegations in Sworn Statement—Doesn't Reveal Name.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (UPI)—A House staff investigator repeated under oath today charges made to him that a former Federal Communications Commission chairman both received and solicited offers of bribes in a Pittsburgh television channel case.

The investigator did not identify the former chairman.

The investigator, Oliver Eastland, also testified that the "Mayor of a large city, who is a prominent politician" and a United States Senator made behind - the - scenes contacts with members of the FCC regarding the same case. Eastland did not name them.

Eastland, assistant chief investigator of the House influence investigating subcommittee, testified about the charges in a complicated 30-page statement at a subcommittee hearing opening an inquiry into the award of Pittsburgh TV Channel 4 to Television City, Inc., by the FCC in 1957.

'Dear George.'

At no time in his testimony did Eastland name the former FCC chairman. But he testified that the former chairman, after leaving the commission, entered into a law office partnership with an attorney for one of five applicants involved in the Pittsburgh case. Eastland read a "Dear George" letter addressed to the former chairman from an applicant in the case.

Eastland testified that "principles" in the case repeated to him "rumors from some source or sources" that the former chairman "was soliciting or was attempting to solicit $50,000" for his vote in the case.

Eastland also testified that a principal in the case told him of "another rumor from sources" that the former chairman "was attempting to set up an arrangement under which he would receive $20,000 a year for a period of 10 years from one of the other applicants" in return for his vote.

Told of Bribe Offer.

The investigator said, however, that the former chairman told him that "one of the principals" in the case "offered a bribe for his vote."

Eastland noted when the former chairman testified before the subcommittee he "had every opportunity to reveal the information which was given to the investigator when he (the former chairman) was not under oath."

"If the allegations made by the former chairman to this subcommittee's investigator are true, it appears, after reading the record, that the witness has committed perjury," he said.

The subcommittee's procedure of not naming names in its new case apparently resulted from previous criticism that it had permitted witnesses to make unsubstantiated charges before it in the past—particularly during the Adams-Goldfine hearings earlier this year.

Ex-FCC Chairman McConnaughey Denies Bribery.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23 (UPI)—Former Federal Communications Commission Chairman George C. McConnaughey said today he had never solicited and received bribes in connection with a Pittsburgh television channel case.

McConnaughey is an attorney here.

"I never got any law business from television channel applicants, never expected any nor would I take any if offered," McConnaughey said.

He confirmed a House staff investigator's story, however, that an applicant for Channel 4 in Pittsburgh had offered to steer law business to his son.

McConnaughey said the applicant did not ask for a favorable vote, because "when he brought up the matter, I quickly changed the subject."

BOMB FOUND NEAR TOP OF EIFFEL TOWER

PARIS, Sept. 23 (AP)—A crude lime bomb was discovered today atop the Eiffel tower, which is visited by thousands of tourists annually.

It contained about five pounds of dynamite, police said, and was powerful enough to have blown off the entire top framework which consists mainly of television installations.

The bomb was found in the public toilet at the top observation platform. The tower is about 1000 feet high and the platform is about 100 feet from the top.

Set for 7 O'Clock.

The bomb had an electric battery and an alarm clock which was set for 7 o'clock. The clock had stopped.

At 7 a.m. the platform would have been empty; at 7 p.m. it would have been crowded.

Police viewed the bomb scare as another incident in the wave of terrorism being conducted by Algerian nationalists against Premier De Gaulle's proposed constitution which fails to give Algeria immediate independence. Algerians will go to the polls Friday and Saturday to vote on it. France will vote Sunday.

Three Algerian terrorists were killed by police early today after they opened fire on a police squad car in the Aubervilliers section of Paris near the municipal slaughterhouse.

French Soldier Killed.

On a street in Metz in eastern France about the same time an Algerian fired three bullets into a French noncommissioned army officer, killing him instantly.

Police said about 30 to 40 leftwing agitators, wearing helmets and armed with clubs, insulted and attacked Simca auto factory workers in a Paris suburb for supporting De Gaulle. The agitators beat some workers, injuring 17.

Across the Mediterranean in Algeria, authorities said French soldiers came across the mass grave of between 400 and 500 Algerian nationalist rebels.

An official French announcement last night said notes found with the bodies proved they were killed by former comrades in arms for threatening to abandon the four-year-old rebellion. All belonged to a rebel unit led by a Col. Amirouche, the French said.

WEST KEEPS CHINESE REDS OUT OF ATOMIC AGENCY

VIENNA, Sept. 23 (UPI)—The West defeated today a Soviet bloc attempt to bring Communist China into the International Atomic Energy Agency.

By a vote of 43 to 16, with one abstention, the delegates defeated a Czech Communist motion proposing admission of the Chinese Reds as "observers" to the second general conference of the world atoms-for-peace pool which opened here yesterday.

A group of Asian-African nations, among them India and the United Arab Republic, voted along with the Soviet Union and its satellites in favor of the Czech motion.

GERMANS ACCEPT CZECH DEFECTOR BUT NOT HIS DOG

PASSAU, Germany, Sept. 23 (AP) — A 21-year-old Czech soldier crossed into West Germany with his army dog today and asked for political asylum.

The soldier told authorities he feared imprisonment because of anti-Communist activity.

Border police said he will be granted asylum but the dog will be returned to Czechoslovakia.

LAWYERS JOIN CAMPAIGN FOR SCHOOLS VOTE IN LITTLE ROCK

62 Attorneys Opposing Faubus Plan Urge Large Turnout for Saturday Election on Integration Issue.

By SAM B. ARMSTRONG
National Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 23.—A group of Little Rock lawyers who announced their opposition to Gov. Orval E. Faubus's plan for operation of Little Rock schools as private, segregated institutions, joined a women's campaign today to get out a large vote for racial integration at next Saturday's election.

Many of the 62 attorneys appeared before neighborhood groups, assembled by the Women's Emergency Committee to Open Our Schools, to emphasize their opinion that the real issue at the election will be whether "we shall open our schools under the court-approved plan of limited integration or close them altogether."

In a newspaper advertisement for which they paid, the lawyers declared that public school facilities could not be operated legally with public funds on a segregated basis, as Gov. Faubus proposes to do under legislation recently enacted at a special session of the Arkansas Legislature called by him.

No Chance to Win.

The women's organization, headed by Mrs. Joe R. Brewer, realizes that the law under which Gov. Faubus acted in closing the schools to evade a federal court order admitting seven Negro students to Central High School, gives them no opportunity to win in Saturday's election.

The law calls for the election on the question of whether all schools in the Little Rock school district shall be integrated. It provides for integration only if a majority of the "qualified electors" of the district approve. This has the effect of counting each person who has paid his poll tax but stays at home and does not vote as opposing integration.

Nevertheless, an effort is being made to demonstrate extent of the popular feeling that compliance with the law as interpreted by the Supreme Court of the United States, calling for admittance of the Negro students to a high school with an enrollment of 2000, is not too high a price to pay for preserving an excellent school system.

Citizens Council Rally.

On the other hand, the Capital (white) Citizens Council held a spirited rally last night in a jam-packed ballroom of the Marion Hotel. They cheered a lengthy speech by William Gerber, a segregationist, who was introduced as being from "Memphis, down in Dixie," in the hall decorated with banners and a Confederate flag.

Gerber was counsel for a House subcommittee, consisting of five Southern Congressmen and one from Nebraska, which investigated public school standards and conditions in integrated District of Columbia schools.

A minority report by two of the subcommittee members declared the majority report was "provocative" and "deals with the sordid headline items almost entirely."

Much of Gerber's oration consisted of reading excerpts from the committee report which attributed the ills of the unbalanced Washington education system to integration which was carried out on a wholesale basis without opportunity for planning.

Clergymen Denounced.

The crowd was made up principally of middle-aged and elderly people, at least half of whom were women due to the efforts of the Mothers' League, organized last September at Central High School as the result of activities of the Capital Citizens Council.

The meeting was opened by the Rev. Wesley Pruden, president of the Capital Citizens Council. He denounced influential Little Rock clergymen who have been urging that schools be reopened.

"The integration preachers have been kicking up their heels and saying Gov. Faubus is losing public support," he shouted. Previously, he went on, they had used as "a blind" the statement that the findings of the Supreme Court was "the law of the land." The "blind" now, he said, was the cry to "save our schools."

Amis Guthridge, counsel for the Capital Citizens Council, in his speech introducing Gerber, urged the members of the audience to go to the polls Saturday, describing the election as one which was "being watched closely by the Communists in Moscow and Washington." He paid his compliments to "imported modern-day carpet-baggers which we find in the clergy, editorial offices and in the school system."

TV Classes Under Way.

Little Rock high school teachers yesterday began conducting classes on television, time being contributed by the three Little Rock stations. Superintendent of schools Virgil T. Blossom expressed pleasure at the reception given the venture. Students receive no academic credit but will make profitable use of the time lost while schools are closed. They are on the "honor system" as far as watching the program is concerned.

SIX NEW POLIO CASES IN CITY AND COUNTY

Concern Voiced Over Fact Many Children Have Not Been Inoculated.

Six new cases of poliomyelitis in St. Louis and St. Louis county were reported today by the St. Louis-St. Louis county chapter of the National Foundation.

The six new cases bring the total in the city and county to 38 so far this year, compared with only 25 cases in the same period last year. There were 27 cases reported for all of 1957.

Pointing out that many of this year's cases involved children too young to participate in the school polio inoculation program started two years ago, Dr. Carl F. Vohs, chairman of the chapter's medical advisory committee, said:

"Pediatricians must do everything possible to obtain inoculations for children under their care. I am afraid a very large number of children are not protected. The rise in the number of new cases this year is an ominous sign that we may well expect large outbreaks of the disease unless these children are inoculated."

Dr. Vohs also urged parents to make sure their children are inoculated. He emphasized that all persons under 40 years old should receive the vaccine.

"Polio occurs in the St. Louis area throughout the year, although incidence of the disease tapers somewhat in winter months," he said.

Inoculations may be obtained from the city and county health departments, Dr. Vohs said.

The city and county chapter of the National Foundation will continue to provide complete financial assistance to new polio patients, he said.

Of the six new cases reported, five are children. Three of the children had not received any polio vaccine. One child had received three inoculations and another had received one shot. The adult, a man 28 years old, had not received any shots.

AUTUMN BEGAN OFFICIALLY THIS MORNING AT 8:10

Astronomical autumn began today at 8:10 a.m.

The autumnal equinox, when night and day are of equal length, occurs when the earth reaches a point in its annual orbit around the sun at which the earth's axis is at right angles to the rays of the sun. The spring equinox occurs in March.

The sun's apparent movement toward the south will continue until Dec. 22, when the northern hemisphere reaches its maximum inclination away from the sun. This is the winter solstice.

WHOLESALER FINED $600 FOR WAGE-HOUR VIOLATIONS

Ralph Friedman, wholesale grocer, was fined a total of $600 today when he pleaded guilty to two charges of violating the federal wage and hour law.

He admitted that he had paid seven of his employes less than the minimum $1 an hour over a period of 20 months, and also that he had failed during this period to pay 11 workers at the required time-and-one-half rate for work in excess of 40 hours a week. United States District Judge Randolph H. Weber imposed a $300 fine on each charge.

CASKET FOUND, GRADING OF OLD CEMETERY HALTS

Plans to convert an old cemetery in Florissant into a soccer field for use by the St. Ferdinand Parish Athletic Association have been dropped, it was announced today.

It was thought that all remains interred at the cemetery, at St. Louis and St. Ferdinand avenues, had been removed in 1879 to the new St. Ferdinand Cemetery on Graham road. However, when a bulldozer began to level the property, a casket was found, a spokesman for the archdiocese said.

Since further grading operations might turn up additional caskets and funds were insufficient to permit reburial at another location, the project was dropped, it was explained.

The property, which had become overgrown with weeds, was a grant to the parish by the Spanish in 1790. There were no records available to indicate that any caskets remained in the cemetery, the spokesman said.

RACCOON STAGES HIGH COMEDY FOR ELLISVILLE PUPILS

(Picture in Everyday Magazine)

A raccoon with a sense of showmanship delighted a crowd of Ellisville school children yesterday by skillfully eluding capture for nearly two hours atop a utility pole.

The show began with the arrival of James Ray, field supervisor of the Animal Protective Association of Missouri, and a Union Electric Co. trouble shooter, summoned by teachers at Ellisville School, unhappy because their classes were disrupted.

As the two men went aloft for the capture, the wily raccoon ran lightly over the high wires between two poles, about 100 feet from the ground. As the chase continued, school let out and a crowd of about 100 children—cheering wildly for the animal — gathered. The school is at Frosel road and Henry drive.

The animal finally climbed down a pole held by Ray, but scampered under the Union Electric truck. William Ellis of Ellisville crawled under and grabbed the raccoon which was quickly turned over to its owner, Lloyd Hunter of Ellisville. Hunter was happy but the children were disappointed.

EMPLOYE UNITS ATTEND RALLIES FOR UNITED FUND

Requests for Speakers Indicate Early Interest in Drive to Raise $8,598,000.

Rallies among employe groups in the St. Louis area in support of the fourth annual United Fund campaign continued today. The campaign was launched officially yesterday at a meeting addressed by clergymen of Catholic, Protestant and Jewish faiths.

Similar rallies for employes will continue the rest of this week to spur interest in the drive. Goal is $8,598,000 to support the fund's 122 health and welfare agencies, Felix N. Williams, campaign chairman, said.

"Judging from the requests for speakers and for tours," Williams said, "there seems to be an unprecedented early interest in the drive. We like to think it stems from the realization on the part of many that the drive must be taken more seriously than ever before if we are to succeed."

At one of the largest rallies held yesterday, 800 Wabash Railroad employes were addressed by Frank Eschen, director of special news events for Post-Dispatch Stations KSD and KSD-TV.

"The United Fund can provide a fair amount to each of its agencies only if you give your fair share, a pledge of an hour's pay a month for 12 months," Eschen said.

William J. Schreiber of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, was among more than 30 union and management representatives who talked to a rally of 680 employes of the Frisco Railroad.

Schreiber said: "More people benefit from the United Fund campaign than from any other voluntary project. These victims of human misery deserve assistance from the community."

STRIKE CONTINUES HERE AT MERCURY AUTO PLANT

A strike of employes of the Mercury assembly plant in Hazelwood over local grievances continued today. Spokesmen for both the firm and Local 325 of the United Auto Workers union, representing the employes, expressed hope that negotiations might be resumed today.

Walter Dahl, president of the local, said the company at a meeting yesterday rejected union demands relating to pay rates, union representation and contracting of work to facilities outside the plant.

About 350 employes of the plant went on strike over local issues last Wednesday despite the national contract settlement between the UAW and Ford Motor Co., which ended walkouts at most of the firm's plants last week. About 950 other workers employed at the Hazelwood plant were awaiting recall to work following a shutdown for model changes when the strike occurred.

HEAVY FOG ROLLS INTO DOWNTOWN AREA FROM EAST

Downtown St. Louis was blanketed early today with heavy fog which obscured the tops of the high buildings, and reduced visibility to less than a quarter-mile at 7:45 o'clock.

The Weather Bureau at Lambert-St. Louis Field reported that the fog, mixed with some smoke, rolled in from the east in the early morning hours. It had dispersed by about 9 a.m.

The fog was localized in the downtown area. Elsewhere in the city skies remained clear, the bureau said.

FIRES AT FLEEING BURGLAR SECOND TIME IN THREE DAYS

Patrolman Carl Depper, Lucas avenue district, early today fired his revolver at a fleeing burglar for the second time in three days.

Walking through the alley at the rear of the K. & F. Liquor Store, 3344 Laclede avenue, he surprised a burglar who had drilled a hole through the wall of the store to circumvent the burglar alarm. Depper fired five shots into the automobile in which the burglar fled, but failed to halt the machine. Investigation revealed a small quantity of liquor had been stolen.

BRITISH-TRAINED POLICE DOGS HAVE HOUSES WAITING

When four St. Louis policemen return from London early next month with British-trained police dogs, each dog will find a brand-new house ready for occupancy at the home of its master, it was reported today.

In the rear yard of each officer a doghouse has been built to British specifications, so that the new arrival may feel more at home. Costing $316 each, the houses are on a concrete slab, and have weather-treated siding and shingled roofs. There is an entrance door and a cleaning hatch and in summer a canvas awning will provide shade. Food and water will be served in aluminum containers.

Each doghouse is surrounded by a chain link fence seven feet tall. The fence has a top to protect the police dog from curious children—and adults too—Maj. Andrew Aylward of the bureau of services explained.

Five St. Louis officers have been in training in London to inaugurate the canine corps here. The fifth officer will remain six weeks longer than the others for a course on how to train other officers in handling the dogs.

PATROL PLANE AIDS IN CAPTURE OF WANTED MAN

East Side Suspect Is Said to Have Shot and Wounded His Rival.

Howard Moore of Washington Park was captured last night after a two-hour search by East Side police, aided by an Illinois Highway Patrol airplane. Police said Moore shot and wounded a man seriously.

Moore, 33 years old, was arrested as he walked along United States Highway 40 near Mounds State Park. Twenty members of the patrol and deputies from the St. Clair and Madison county sheriff's offices took part in the hunt.

The patrol airplane was called into the search when it was believed that Moore, who lives at 1809 Brinson drive, had fled into a large field overgrown with high weeds.

The patrol reported that Rubin G. Moore, a truck driver, 8419 Cole street, State Park place, was shot during an argument with Howard Moore. Rubin Moore, 36, who is not related to Howard Moore, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis suffering from a bullet wound in the left side of the chest.

The shooting occurred in an argument between the two men over Howard Moore's wife, Monon, who formerly was the wife of Rubin, the patrol reported. She had left her home Sunday and gone to the home of a relative in the 200 block of Bernice street, State Park place, following a quarrel with her husband, the patrol stated.

The argument between the two men developed when they met after arriving almost simultaneously at the Bernice street address last night, the patrol reported.

After the shooting, the patrol said, Howard Moore threatened several witnesses with a .22-caliber rifle. He then fled in his truck, which was found abandoned a short distance away. The spot at which he was arrested was about five miles west of the scene of the shooting.

CHARLES CARL COLLAPSES, DIES ON DOWNTOWN STREET

Charles H. Carl, general traveling auditor for the Frisco Railroad, collapsed and died yesterday when walking at Eleventh and Locust streets.

Mr. Carl, 58 years old, was walking with Sheldon Ross, a friend, when he complained of a severe pain in his leg. He collapsed after stopping to rest and was pronounced dead at Frisco Hospital.

Mr. Carl, an employe of the railroad for 30 years, lived at 10001 Sheldon drive, St. Louis county.

Lodge, Gromyko

The angry exchanges last night began with Gromyko supporting the Indian request for consideration of the Red Chinese application. Gromyko asserted that the "abnormal and inadmissible situation" whereby one of the great founding powers of the U.N. was absent from its deliberations was due to the "hostile policy" of the United States and the pressure it exerted on other governments.

Washington's dream of "the disappearance" of Red China was like "dreaming of draining the oceans," he said. The false hope of "two China's in the U.N." was vain, he added, and Formosa, despite "illegal occupation by the United States," remained an inalienable part of the Communist mainland, "awaiting its liberation."

Denies Charges.

Lodge hotly denied Gromyko's charges. He said Gromyko was confusing the United States with Russia by referring to "ruling circles" directing interference with other nations. He added: "No country has ever been enslaved by the United States. It ill-becomes the Soviet Union, with its record of slavery, to make such charges."

No one in the United States is closing its eyes to the existence of Communist China, Lodge continued, but most deplored its rule by the present regime" in the same manner we deplore that fact of the group that took possession of Germany under the Hitler regime."

Lodge said he had learned that a "new high of 5000 persons a week" were fleeing from East to West Germany." They were the "most eloquent testimony to the humane character of Communism," he said.

Turning to the situation in the Far East, Lodge said the Chinese Reds were seeking by force of arms to conquer territory they never held. Referring to the bombardment by mainland artillery of the off-shore islands of Quemoy and Matsu, Lodge said 300,000 rounds of high explosives had fallen on Quemoy recently.

"In this latest barrage a thousand civilians have already been killed," he said. "We think this is not only a further disqualification to be added to the already long list, insofar as U.N. membership is concerned; we also think it would justify the U.N. in taking strong steps against that kind of behavior."

Formosan Situation.

It has been made clear by members of the U.N. delegation that although the United States has no present intention of bringing the issue of the Red Chinese assault in the Formosa strait before the U.N., such action might be taken if diplomatic talks now going on in Warsaw were inconclusive.

"The Chinese Communists are rapidly shooting themselves—and shooting the world—out of a chance to settle this question as it should be settled," Lodge warned. He concluded with the suggestion that Moscow withhold accusations against the United States and persuade the Chinese Communists to "cease" their violent and murderous activities.

Yesterday afternoon, the representatives of the United States, China, the United Kingdom, and Canada spoke in favor of the general committee's recommendation.

The opposite line was taken by the representatives of India, Russia, Bulgaria, Sweden, Finland, Czechoslovakia, Albania, Afghanistan, Indonesia, and Ireland.

The delegations of Afghanistan, Burma, Ceylon, India, Indonesia, Nepal and the United Arab Republic submitted amendments which would recommend inclusion of the Indian call for consideration of the admission of Red China. It deleted the proposal to exclude for the duration of this session all moves to change the representation of China in the United Nations.

Sherman Adams

and the presidential assistant on national security.

(Secretary Seaton said today: "Nobody has discussed the matter with me." He added he was "not a candidate" to succeed Adams. "As Secretary of the Interior, I have enough trouble in my present job and I know what the 14 to 16 hours a day in Gov. Adams's job mean," he said.)

Duties May Be Divided.

It is more than possible that no one will be officially named "the" assistant to the President and that Adams's duties will be distributed among the already large White House staff.

There has been talk lately that Vice President Richard M. Nixon would be brought more closely into White House administrative work, particularly in the political area, where Adams exercised wide—many observers believe decisive—influence.

In his broadcast, which was comparable in political effectiveness with Vice President Nixon's dramatic "checkers" broadcast at the height of the 1952 presidential campaign, Adams sought to make his resignation a partisan issue by denouncing the oversight subcommittee headed by Democratic Representative Oren Harris of Arkansas.

Asserting that his testimony and that of every other responsible official had clearly established that he had never influenced or attempted to influence any agency, official or employe of any agency in any case whatsoever, Adams continued that "a calculated and contrived effort has nevertheless been made to attack and discredit me."

'Irresponsible Testimony.'

He added: "As part of this effort the committee received completely irresponsible testimony and without conscience gave ear to rumor, innuendo and even unsubstantiated gossip."

Adams, speaking in a conversational tone against a conventional studio backdrop picturing an executive office, barely touched on the real reason for his quitting the White House—the effect of the subcommittee's disclosures on voters in the November congressional elections.

He implied that the Democrats had been responsible for the "campaign of vilification" against him. Actually, national Democratic leaders shrewdly refrained from publicly exploiting the affair when they saw that Republican candidates and professionals were demanding Adams's resignation or ouster by President Eisenhower.

Although he said the campaign against him had "continued up to this very moment," Adams said he was not running away in the face of adversity. He said that despite his distaste for giving any grounds whatever for the charge that he was quitting under fire, he had to give full consideration to the effect of his continuing presence on the public scene.

Put Questions to Self.

"Under the circumstances," he said, "and in light of the events of the past three months in which I have been made to be directly concerned, I must ask myself whether my retention in office might conceivably delay or retard, even in small degree, the achievement of those goals of President Eisenhower which yet are ahead.

"Another factor that I feel I must consider is whether the retention of my services might possibly diminish the chances my party has of regaining control of the Congress in the November elections."

Republican candidates for the Senate and House had already found their own answer to the questions Adams put to himself. It was that Adams was a political liability that could not be advantageously explained to the voters and that he should have resigned long before yesterday.

His resignation or discharge was demanded by such influential Republicans as Senate minority leader William F. Knowland, now a candidate for the governorship of California, Representative Kenneth Keating, candidate for the Senate from New York; Representative Robert W. Kean, candidate for the Senate from New Jersey; Senators Charles E. Potter of Michigan and Barry Goldwater of Arizona, candidates for reelection this year.

The Clincher.

The clincher came with the overwhelming defeat of Republican Senator Frederick G. Payne in the pre-national Maine election this month by Gov. Edmund Muskie, together with the election of a Democratic governor and the defeat of veteran Republican Representative Robert Hale of the Portland district.

Payne, like Adams, was a beneficiary of Goldfine's generosity. He, too, received a vicuna coat and expensive hotel hospitality from Goldfine. He also accepted a $3500 noninterest loan for the down payment on a Washington home. Like Adams, he described Goldfine as a close friend of many years and like Adams insisted that his inquiries at federal agencies about Goldfine's legal difficulties had been "routine," a Washington activity he would undertake for any citizen.

The day after the Maine election, Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn, whom Adams had on occasions treated with arrogance, confirmed that he had received many demands from Republican candidates, national committee members and state chairmen, insisting on Adams's immediate removal from the White House.

Decision Was His Own.

(Alcorn was asked today whether he personally handed Adams an ultimatum to step out. He replied: "The decision made by Gov. Adams was his own. I am sure he consulted many people, but in the final analysis the decision was his. I reported to Gov. Adams the comments that were coming to me from G.O.P. leaders around the nation."

(Alcorn said he had discussed the matter with President Eisenhower and also had given him a report on the sentiments expressed.)

The Adams-Goldfine affair is still a liability for the Republicans. An earlier resignation might have lessened its effect by removing it temporarily from the front pages. Goldfine's cases are still under congressional and Department of Justice investigation.

Adams, who did not mention Goldfine by name in his brief address to the nation, but identified him as a friend of some 15 years standing, concluded his address by announcing that his resignation was "final and unqualified" and "not open to reconsideration."

"I believe," he said, "that I can now best serve my President and contribute to the support of his objectives by the course I have undertaken to follow."

Serious and Subdued.

His voice, which had only traces of his flat, New England accent, became serious and subdued, when he described his pride and satisfaction in serving under President Eisenhower for six years.

Early in his address, he had smiled frequently and the only traces of nervousness were an occasional pursing of the mouth and wetting of the lips. An evident note of sadness came into his voice when he ended with these words:

"I am now about to retire after six years in the position in which I have served with pride, in which I have given my best efforts to hold with honor.

"Now nearly 20 years of public service come to a close. But I can say that it has brought a depth of satisfaction that will always be with me."

Adams spoke his farewell address with dignity and restraint, and on television presented a warmness of personality that is not often shown by him in public. With his image on the TV screen, his words were more impressive than when heard over the radio or read in print.

Wife Watches by TV.

Adams came to the broadcasting studio from the White House driving a gleaming green station wagon, accompanied by White House policemen. Mrs. Adams remained at home and watched by television. To the reporters and photographers awaiting him, Adams merely said "Greetings." In the studio, he was joined by White House press secretary Hagerty, presidential counsel Gerald Morgan and Gen. Persons.

Hagerty supervised the studio arrangement and, just before the broadcast started, quickly removed a book that might have shown in the picture. It was conspicuously titled, "The Happiest Man in the World." Only the White House aids were allowed to remain in the studio during the broadcast.

Shortly after finishing his speech, he left the studio, telling reporters he had no statement regarding his future plans. The fact that he had said that nearly 20 years of public service had come to a close, indicated he would not immediately take another position in the Federal Government.

Chiang's Plea

dence on Cool Grass mountain. Their talks were interrupted by a lunch attended by United States and Nationalist military leaders.

Seriousness of the Formosa crisis was reflected in the list of those conferring yesterday and today on new military moves to end the Red blockade of Quemoy and ease the Nationalist position.

Gen. Laurence Kuter, commander of United States Pacific Air Forces; Ambassador Everett Drumright; V. Adm. Roland Smoot, United States Taiwan (Formosa) defense commander; Nationalist Premier Chen Cheng; Defense Minister Yu Tai-wei; chief of staff Gen. (Tiger) Wang Shu-ming and the Nationalist army, navy, air force and marine commanders.

The United States has the Seventh Fleet in position with six aircraft carriers and probably 800 planes. In addition there are United States bombers on strategic bases around Formosa and F-100s and F-104s based on Formosa itself. Also there are land-based missiles and fleet-based missiles available.

The defense ministry announced that Nationalist ships and planes broke through the Communist blockade again yesterday and delivered supplies to the Quemoys. United States government sources said 26 cases of medical supplies had been parachuted onto the Quemoys.

Red artillery shelled Quemoy for the thirtieth day today. A Nationalist defense ministry communique said that during one five-minute period the Communists fired 66 guns simultaneously, hurling 719 shells during that brief spell. The communique said the Reds fired 2663 shells up to 2 p.m.

Nationalist artillery knocked out eight Communist gun positions and damaged two others yesterday, it said.

Communist broadcasts reiterated Communist determination to "liberate" Formosa and charged the United States was planning "aggression."

Lt. Gen. Richard Hull, commander of British Far East land forces, said in Manila he considered the Formosa crisis a dangerous one. He disclosed that Britain was modernizing its Far Eastern bases with guided missiles equipped with atomic warheads.

CRESTWOOD OIL STATION BURNS; LOSS SET AT $6000

A service station at 9715 U. S. Highway 66, Crestwood, was damaged by fire which broke out in a storage room today, Crestwood police reported.

Damage was estimated at $6000 by Crestwood Fire Chief John Dishon. Operator of the station, Curt Brostron, told police he had closed the building for the night, and discovered the fire as he was about to leave. Damage was confined to a rear storage room and a lubricating room where grease, oil, batteries and tires were stored.

HEAT WITH ELECTRICITY

Already proved in more than 1,000 St. Louis homes, stores and offices

Whatever your heating problem in home, office, store or factory, it will pay you to investigate the distinct advantages offered only by modern electric heat.

ELECTRIC RESISTANCE HEATING offers you the cleanest, most carefree winter comfort possible. You heat with resistance wires mounted in a metal unit, or concealed in baseboards, or buried in ceiling plaster. You enjoy delightful radiant heat instantly . . . a warmth like the healthful, pleasant, penetrating heat of the sun, not the dry, uncomfortable blasts from a hot-air register.

You can heat each room independently with electric resistance heating controlled by separate thermostats. Since radiant heat provides fast comfort, temperatures in bedrooms and other part-time rooms can be kept low when not in use.

Electric resistance heating requires no expensive duct work, saves space and installation costs . . . makes no noise and requires no maintenance through years of service. And electric resistance heating is so clean, cuts cleaning chores and redecorating costs.

ELECTRIC HEAT PUMPS keep homes, stores, offices, factories warm in winter and cool in summer, automatically. Set the thermostat and forget it. An electric heat pump floods rooms with warm air when temperatures dip in early fall, or with refreshing cool air when they rise in spring.

One compact, efficient, automatic unit takes heat from the outside in winter, compresses it, and pumps it inside your home. In summer, it reverses the process, takes the heat out of indoor air and dissipates it outside.

What about the cost of electric heating? With proper insulation, you'll be surprised how reasonable it is to operate. The cost of installation is often less than with ordinary methods of heating. And with most electric heating units you can expect to save money on maintenance over the years.

3-YEAR SENTENCE FOR REFUSING DRAFT

George C. Christ of Mascoutah, 23-year-old brush salesman and part-time Jehovah's Witnesses minister, was sentenced to serve three years in prison at East St. Louis today on his plea of guilty of violation of the Selective Service Act. He refused to accept civilian work in a state hospital instead of military service.

United States District Judge William G. Juergens twice offered the young man a chance to reconsider his decision.

Christ, however, shook his head, voiced several scriptural references and said: "I will stand firm in my belief even as Jesus did."

The court pointed out to Christ that his draft board had arranged for him to work at Elgin (Ill.) State Hospital.

"In doing this, your board recognized your belief," Judge Juergens said, as Christ continued to reject the offer.

"But law is law, and this court must obey it as everyone else," the judge said. "If you refuse to serve your country in a non-combatant status, the court has no alternative but to follow the law."

Christ's attorney, Samuel Ross, asked for leniency, but did not urge probation. He said his client was sincere, but recognized the court could not extend probation "to all the cowards and charlatans who might plead to be excused as conscientious objectors."

6 MORE LAWYERS TO BE HEARD ON CONSTABLE TIPS

The circuit court grand jury will hear six more lawyers next Thursday in an investigation it began yesterday into reports that a few constables and deputy constables have solicited and received tips and gratuities for serving summonses.

At yesterday's session, the jury heard seven lawyers and two business men from firms having litigation in magistrate court. The jury also had before it records from magistrate court which Chief Clerk John F. Dougherty transmitted under subpena duces tecum.

Fee for serving a summons or notice is $1, and the solicitation or acceptance of an extra fee or gratuity for the service is forbidden by state statute. Violation is a misdemeanor punishable on conviction by up to one year in jail and a fine of up to $500.

Circuit Attorney Thomas F. Eagleton said he did not intend to call any of the constables or deputy constables suspected of the practice because he considered their appearance before the jury would produce little evidence of value. He declined to make public the names of witnesses. The inquiry will continue next Monday.

Last March the 10 constables in the city voluntarily signed an agreement that neither they nor their deputies would expect or receive gratuities for performing their duties.

SACB AID STANDS PAT ON RED REGISTRATION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP) —The Communist party should still be required to register with the Government as a tool of Moscow, in the opinion of Francis A. Cherry of the Subversive Activities Control Board.

Cherry acted as a member-examiner for the SACB in a court-ordered reappraisal of the evidence that prompted the SACB to make its original finding that the party should register.

The United States Court of Appeals ruled Jan. 9 that the board would have to produce certain records, including FBI reports, concerning Mrs. Mary Stalcup Markward. It sent the case back to the board.

Mrs. Markward was an active agent for the FBI for years. She testified as a Government witness in the registration proceedings against the Communist party.

Cherry recommended, in a suggested decision made public yesterday, that the board stand pat. He said that the board considered Mrs. Markward's testimony cautiously in the first place and that the papers, which were produced as ordered by the court, did not establish any reason in his mind for changing SACB's position.

Among the items disclosed by the papers in question was that Mrs. Markward received $24,026.45 from the FBI in 10 years, of which $147 was designated as paid for expenses and the remainder for services. The board had known of the payments, but not the schedule they followed.

Another paper that was produced on order covered Mrs. Markward's testimony at a security board hearing that she knew a Mrs. Annie Lee Moss, a Defense Department employe, as a Communist. Mrs. Moss was fired from her job but subsequently re-employed after a question arose as to whether Mrs. Markward had mistaken her for someone of similar name.

CENTREVILLE PETITIONS TO ANNEX 3 SUBDIVISIONS

A petition was filed by Centreville in St. Clair County Court at Belleville yesterday seeking annexation of three subdivisions — City View, Bridgedale and Parkfield Terrace. They have a total population of about 5500.

Some residents of City View and Parkfield Terrace meanwhile announced their own plans to seek annexation by the City of Cahokia.

MAJ. GEN. MOSHE DAYAN LEAVES ISRAELI ARMY

TEL AVIV, Sept. 23 (AP) — Maj. Gen. Moshe Dayan, chief of staff of the Israeli army from 1953 to last January, was released from Israel's armed forces yesterday.

He resigned as chief of staff Jan. 26 and had asked to be released from service as of Nov. 1. When he stepped down as chief of staff, some quarters said it was likely he might take up a political career. He has been a leader in the Social Democrat Mapai party headed by Prime Minister Ben-Gurion.

TESTIMONY ON GLOVES IN BERRY'S HOME

Gloves found in an apartment where Marvin Dale Berry, former convict, was arrested, along with two other men, for the $6642 holdup of a Granite City tavern last Jan. 31, were described today as the type of those worn by the holdup men.

The witness, Thomas San Souci, the bartender at the tavern, testified at Berry's trial before a jury in the court of Circuit Judge James O. Monroe at Edwardsville.

SanSouci said he was in the bar at about 6:10 a.m. on the day in question when the three robbers entered. They wore rubber Halloween masks and brown cloth gloves. All were armed with .38-caliber revolvers. A former police officer, SanSouci said he knew weapons and could state that three revolvers found in the apartment were of the same type as those used in the holdup.

Officer Tells of Arrest

Berry was identified yesterday as one of the three men arrested in the apartment seven hours after the robbery. Patrolman Kelly Hodges testified Berry was standing outside the apartment house at 2232 Alexander street when Hodges arrived in a police car. The witness said he handcuffed Berry and then arrested Robert Emmett Burns as he came out the door.

Tells of Anartment Search.

Hodges told the jury that smoke was drifting from the front door of the apartment, and firemen were called. The officer testified he entered the apartment with the firemen, and found three rubber masks burning on the floor. Forrest A. Parker, now serving a term in the Missouri penitentiary for possessi on of burglary tools, was arrested on the premises by other policemen.

A search of the apartment disclosed "stacks of money" on a shelf in a closet, Hodges related. Three suede jackets and three pairs of brown cloth gloves were in the closet, the witness said.

From a bin in the refrigerator Hodge recovered three revolvers, an automatic pistol and two boxes of ammunition, he testified. All of the articles, including the partly burned masks, were placed in evidence at the trial.

State's Intentions.

Glen Hodge, Granite City real estate operator, testified the apartment was rented to a man who gave his name as Ted Cummings. The rent was paid by check signed with that name, the witness related. The state indicated it expects to show that Cummings was registered as a patient in a St. Louis hospital under another name at the time of the robbery.

An earlier witness identified Berry as the man who on Jan. 28 purchased the three revolvers found in the refrigerator following the holdup. Elmer Reichling, proprietor of a gun shop in Belleville, made the identification and said Berry signed a weapons register with a name similar to that of an East St. Louis detective.

Parker and Burns, also a former convict, were indicted jointly with Berry in the same robbery, but cannot be tried because they are serving terms in the Missouri penitentiary. Burns is serving a 75-year sentence for assault with intent to kill.

The trial is being heard by a jury of seven men and five women.

GEORGIANS HELPING WOMAN WHO STABBED REV. MR. KING

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 23 (AP) — A group of white citizens today mailed a cash contribution to Mrs. Isola Ware Curry, the Negro woman who stabbed the Rev. Martin Luther King, an integrationist.

Coal dealer J. B. White Jr., a spokesman, said a substantial sum was sent "to be used by her as needed" and that more would follow.

Mrs. Curry is in Bellevue hospital, New York, for mental observation. She claims Adrian, Ga., in Emanuel county near Swainsboro, as her home town.

The Rev. Mr. King, who is now in a New York hospital with a touch of pneumonia, was stabbed with a steel paper knife in a Harlem department store Saturday as he autographed copies of his book "Stride Toward Freedom."

QUESTION: When you buy an automobile, do you shop different dealers before you buy?

Elbert Reid—Warehouse Foreman, 1835 S. 14th Street: "When I look for another car I look in the newspapers for Automobile ads. Most of the times when you go and see the cars they don't measure up to the advertisements. At Pioneer Plymouth the cars are even better than the advertisement. They have the best conditioned cars in town, and they give you a full one year written guarantee on both parts and labor. Charlie Bushawn, the salesman who waited on me, sure knows how to satisfy a customer. There is no question where I'll go for my next car, and I'll certainly recommend Pioneer Plymouth at 2323 South Jefferson to all my friends."

Donald H. Fitzenreider — Stock Clerk, 2740A Chariton, St. Louis, Mo. Shop for a new car?—you bet I do. I shop for two things, Price and the reputation of the dealer. I know from experience that it pays to buy from a dealer that will take care of the car after the sale. At Pioneer Plymouth they have about the best reputation in town for honesty and fair dealing. I was surprised to find that their deal saved me about $150.00 over the next best deal. From now on I can't see any point in shopping. I'm going to Pioneer Plymouth, 2323 So. Jefferson, and let one of their courteous salesmen fix me up on a deal and I'll not only save money but time as well.

SYMINGTON DEFENDS ATTACKS ON G.O.P.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

FULTON, Mo., Sept. 23—United States Senator Stuart Symington struck back last night at critics who have charged him with "disservice" to his country by questioning Republican defense policies.

He told a Callaway county Democratic rally that the present G.O.P. strategy is to contend that anything said about the lack of preparedness would hurt the United States by informing the Communists.

This stand, the Missouri Senator declared, amounts to suppression of free speech and the facts about national defense. He said it is essential in a democracy that the people be informed fully.

Symington, Democratic candidate for re-election, also charged the Republican administration lacked leadership in foreign affairs. "We let events create our policy instead of policy creating events," he declared.

About 500 persons attended the rally, at which the Callaway County Democratic Committee presented a plaque to United States Representative Clarence Cannon of Elsberry in recognition of his long service in Congress. Cannon, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, is seeking re-election to his eighteenth consecutive term.

UNION ELECTRIC RATE RISE HEARING IS SET FOR DEC. 1

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 23—The Missouri Public Service Commission today suspended a rate increase sought by Union Electric Co. and set a public hearing on the proposal for Dec. 1.

Under proposed new schedules filed by the electric utility, about $6,478,000 would be added to the electric bills of Missouri customers. The hike would be about 7 per cent of the company's gross revenue of last year.

The suspension order is for 120 days "unless otherwise ordered." Since several communities, including St. Louis county, have announced plans to fight the increase, the Commission is sending notices of the Dec. 1 hearing to cities and communities served by Union Electric.

MAN ATTEMPTING TO LEAP FROM EADS BRIDGE SEIZED

A 79-year-old man was prevented by a passing truck driver from leaping into the Mississippi river from Eads Bridge yesterday, police reported.

Robert Scott, the driver, 1115A Branch street, said the man had one leg over the rail 500 feet east of the toll station. Scott held the man until police arrived. He was taken to Malcolm Bliss Phychopathic Hospital for observation.

The man, who said he has been living in a hotel at 10 North Tenth street, said he had been ill and unable to sleep.

$10,000,000 IN TAXES GOING UNCOLLECTED, SKAGGS SAYS

A total of $10,000,000 in merchants and manufacturing taxes due the city each year is not being collected by the St. Louis License Collector, Ancel A. Skaggs, Republican candidate for the office said yesterday.

Skaggs, addressing a meeting of the Twenty-third Ward Republican Club, said many persons fail to realize the city is being hurt through the lack of collection.

There is little chance for reducing tax rates and lessening the burden on individual taxpayers and small business so long as widespread tax evasion continues, he said.

KHRUSHCHEV SAYS FRANCE, GERMANY ARE ANOTHER AXIS

HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 23 (UPI) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev compared West German Chancellor Adenauer and French Premier De Gaulle with Hitler and Mussolini in an interview published here today.

He likened the new era of co-operation between France and Germany to the Italian-German axis of World War II.

Khrushchev made his statements in an interview printed in the weekly Hamburg political magazine Die Zeit.

Commenting on the recent De Gaulle-Adenauer meeting, Khrushchev said:

"One cannot help but remember another meeting between government chiefs that took place before the war and very obviously resembles the present-day meeting between Chancellor Adenauer and Premier De Gaulle.

"We are thinking of the Hitler-Mussolini meeting in 1934 that led to an agreement of two dictators against the democratic freedom of European peoples."

ALL BUT ONE DISMISSED IN INSULL JR.'S LIBEL SUIT

CHICAGO, Sept. 23 (AP)— United States District Judge Julius H. Miner dismissed yesterday all but one of the defendants in a $4,000,000 libel suit brought by Samuel Insull Jr., son of the late utilities magnate.

Those dismissed were nine Scripps-Howard Newspapers and their editors; Kenneth E. Trombley, author of "The Life and Times of a Happy Liberal;" its publisher, Harper & Bros. of New York, and Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., a Harvard professor. The remaining defendant is Schlesinger's publisher, Houghton Mifflin Co.

Insull alleged the defendants made or published statements damaging to his and his father's reputation. He declared the statements were untrue.

RED CHINA COAL PRODUCTION

TOKYO, Sept. 23 (AP) — Communist China estimates its coal output for 1958 at 210,000,000 tons and predicts it will outstrip Britain next year to become the third biggest producer in the world.

The New China news agency, in a radio report, said production for 1958 is expected to exceed 1957 totals by 8,000,000 tons.

admitted he accepted gifts, I thought it was highly improper and the farther he went the stronger the game became. (His resignation) is just about three months past due."

Milder Comments.

Two leading Democratic spokesmen had gentler words words for Adams.

Adlai Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate in 1952 and 1956, said in Chicago:

"No political party will ever have a monopoly on virtue. But I have nothing to say about Gov. Adams's resignation. I don't believe in kicking a man when he is down, and I wish him well."

Stevenson's 1956 running mate, Senator Estes Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, said:

"I think that Sherman Adams stated his case with great dignity. It is best for the nation, and his party, that having so stated it he did resign."

In contrast, Senator Frank Barrett of Wyoming, a Republican seeking re-election and one of those who has called for Adams's resignation, said Adams did "the only thing he could do in deference to the President."

Senator Andrew F. Schoeppel (Rep.), Kansas, chairman of the Republican senatorial campaign committee, also welcomed Adams's announcement.

"To have remained in the face of the many implications, I feel, would have been detrimental to the Administration as well as to Mr. Adams personally," Schoeppel said in Kewanee, Ill.

Representative Richard H. Simpson of Philadelphia, chairman of the House Republican campaign committee, said Adams, "should have resigned earlier."

Senator Irving M. Ives, (New York), one of the Republican leaders who had pressed for Adams' resignation, asserted: "He did the only thing that he could do . . . if he was going to help the party and the President."

'Damage Is Done'

Senator Thruston B. Morton (Rep.), Kentucky, said he had told White House officials in June that Adams ought to resign then.

"Now that the damage is done, I am not sure there is much gain for the country or for the party," Morton said.

However, Senator J. Glenn Beall (Rep.), Maryland, a candidate for re-election, said he thought Adams "put his country above his personal feelings when he resigned."

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield said, "The tragedy of it is that because of a few minor errors a man who is without a shred of dishonesty is lost to public service."

Republican National Chairman Meade Alcorn put the blame on the Democratic-controlled House subcommittee that investigated Adams's relationship with Goldfine.

"It is tragic and ominous," Alcorn said, "that an honest man can be smeared into leaving office by the most outrageous use of innuendo, and gossip and disregard of American principles of fair play in the history of congressional investigating procedures."

Democratic 'Smear.'

In an interview on the NBC-TV "Today" program, Alcorn said later there had been some criticism of Adams from Republican ranks, but he asserted:

"The resignation was precipitated almost wholly by an unprecedented smear attack by the Democrats."

Alcorn said: "Gov. Adams is an honest man. I never heard even his worst detractor claim there was anything dishonest about him."

Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler said Adams "made no effort to refute the damaging facts of the House investigation which revealed what even the President himself admitted were imprudent acts."

"It was inevitable," said New York's Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman, "that the Republican high command would force Mr. Adams's resignation in the hope of removing him as an issue in the campaign."

Senator John Sparkman (Dem.), Alabama, said, "The demands from Republican candidates virtually forced him out."

Senator Robert S. Kerr (Dem.), Oklahoma, said he looked on Adams personally as an honorable man. But he added: "I can't say that, having kept Adams this long, the President is being especially bold or courageous in letting him go now because Republican candidates are having trouble carrying Adams on their own backs."

Slap at Eisenhower.

Senator Wayne Morse (Dem.), Oregon, said Mr. Eisenhower "has been grossly derelict in keeping pace with his campaign promises by not removing Adams long before this."

Representative Leonor K. Sullivan (Dem.), Missouri, said "He followed the only possible course left for him. He should have quit immediately. The President himself should have acted when the facts were first revealed."

Representative Melvin Price (Dem.), Illinois: "It was political expediency entirely. He practically admitted that, if it weren't for the party's good, he wouldn't have stepped aside. It's a pretty brazen statement."

Representative Frank Karsten (Dem.), Missouri: "The President should have insisted upon his resignation long ago."

Representative Richard Bolling (Dem.), Missouri, said the resignation was "overdue."

Representative George H. Christopher (Dem.), Missouri, commented: "Since he waited this long to resign, he might just as well have stayed. People already have made up their minds about the situation, and the resignation won't make any difference now."

Bernard Schwartz Urges Far-Reaching Investigation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP) —Dr. Bernard Schwartz, the man who started the Sherman Adams controversy, said last night the case showed the need for a far-reaching investigation of government agencies.

He said Adams's resignation "clearly indicates the charges I made were based on sound evidence. The Adams case is a strong indication of the situation in these government agencies and the need for a thorough investigation which the House committee has not given yet."

Schwartz was fired as chief counsel of a legislative oversight subcommittee last Feb. 10. Before he was dismissed, he charged that a White House clique, including Adams, was teaming up with big business interests to influence regulatory agencies.

"The issue was not a vicuna coat," he said. "The issue was the perversion of a vital process of government. The case is an indication of what has been going on for the past few years. If there is any moral, it is the need for a real investigation. Instead, the committee seems to be going to let it all die down quietly."

British Press Seems to Regret Adams's Departure.

LONDON, Sept. 23 (AP)— British newspapers seemed sorry today to see Sherman Adams go.

In continental Europe the resignation news arrived too late for editorial comment, but many newspapers managed to carry the news under a single-column headline on their front pages.

In Britain, two major dailies —the Express and the Mail— carried the resignation announcement under big headlines.

"'Vicuna' Adams quits," declared a matching Mail headline. "Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's top assistant, buckled tonight under an avalanche of public opinion and resigned," the Express said.

Editorially it commented: "The pressures against Adams were too great. Republican leaders spoke against him. Cabinet ministers shunned him. The voters condemned him.

"Now the President faces the final crisis of his career bereft of his most loyal henchman in the White House. Forced to spend more time on the endless tactics of American politics, the President will have to cede even more control of foreign affairs to the State Department.

The Conservative Daily Telegraph, which carried a single column report of the resignation on its front page, published also an analysis of United States politics under the heading "Republicans Find Their Scapegoat."

"Looking for some easily reversible factor to explain their defeat in Maine, Republican candidates renewed their clamor for the resignation of Sherman Adams," the Telegraph said.

Named Aid to Tito.

BELGRADE, Sept. 23 (UPI) — Yugoslav ambassador to Washington Leo Mates has been named executive secretary to President Josip (Tito) Broz, the government said today. Mates replaces Dr. Joza Vilfan in the post which carries the title of Secretary General of the President of the Republic.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23 (AP)—The National Broadcasting Co. yesterday dropped a news commentary program by Clifton Utley, a winner of a du Pont award, one of broadcasting's most respected honors.

NBC announced Utley and two other television stars were being dropped because of low ratings. The others are sports commentator Norman Barry, who had been with NBC for 24 years, and Dorsey Conners, who conducted a household hints program.

Aerial Survey Made of Route Proposed for Ozark Highway

The State Highway Department has made an aerial survey of its route for the Ozark Expressway in a move to speed up work on plans for construction, it was learned today.

The resort to aerial mapping, which accomplished in a few days what would have required several months by ground survey, reflects the determination to go ahead with preliminary work on the expressway despite stalling by the Board of Aldermen.

Engineers now are drafting detailed plans for the $43,900,000 artery, but it will be six months or more before right-of-way plans are completed.

The aldermen have delayed a final decision on the Ozark route through south St. Louis for three and one-half years. The route which the Highway Department has selected as the best from the standpoint of utility, construction cost and number of people to be displaced would require demolition of about 1378 homes in the city.

Pressure on Aldermen.

Aldermen from the wards affected have been subjected to pressure from home owners who want the highway rerouted so as to spare their property. Out of "aldermanic courtesy" to these members, the other aldermen have refrained from forcing a showdown on the controversial question.

Fed up with delay, the Highway Department has decided to go ahead with design of plans for construction and with steps to acquire right-of-way along the route selected by its engineers.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker, who repeatedly has assailed the aldermen's refusal to give the go-ahead signal, said there is precedent for the Highway Department's action. He said that steps to condemn property for the Daniel Boone Expressway through Richmond Heights were taken before the route of that artery through the county finally was approved.

No contracts for construction of the Ozark Expressway are to be let, however, until the Board of Aldermen appropriates funds to pay the city's 10-per cent share of the cost of right-of-way.

It is estimated that the required municipal contribution will be about $1,000,000. Cost of construction, about $31,000,000 in the city, will be borne by the state and the Federal Government.

The route chosen by the highway engineers long since has been approved by the Federal Bureau of Roads, the City Plan Commission, the St. Louis Board of Public Service and the St. Louis County Council.

Proposed Route.

Starting from the Third Street Interregional Highway at Eleventh street and Geyer avenue, the route follows the west side of Thirteenth street to the Cherokee playground, angles eastward to pass St. Agatha Church on the south, and skirts the eastern edge of the Medart Co. plant at 100 Potomac street.

Proceeding southward along the Mississippi river bluff on a line roughly paralleling Kosciusko street, it would pass under the proposed Cahokia bridge approach at Chippewa street, cross Marine avenue at Osage street and Gasconade street at Missouri avenue, traverse the workhouse property, cut across Broadway and then angle westward, crossing Bellerive avenue near Virginia avenue.

Entering Carondelet Park at Holly Hills avenue, the route follows the eastern edge of the park, crosses Loughborough avenue, spans the Missouri Pacific railroad tracks, crosses Koeln avenue and goes over Grand boulevard at Steins street.

Leaving the city at Weber road and Avenue H, it swings westward and follows the Missouri Pacific tracks and Union road all the way to Lindbergh boulevard. The expressway then will continue south, paralleling Lemay Ferry road, as Interstate Route 55 toward Memphis and New Orleans.

MOTORIST GETS 60 DAYS ON DRUNK DRIVING CHARGE

Paul E. Wilkerson, 1900 block of North Market street, was sentenced yesterday to 60 days in the city workhouse by Police Judge Morris Rosenthal after he was found guilty of driving when intoxicated. His driver's license was suspended for 90 days.

Wilkerson, a fitter, was arrested Sunday after his automobile, westbound in North Market, struck a machine traveling in the opposite direction at Hogan street, causing it to crash into parked cars.

Wilkerson denied the charge of drunken driving, but admitted serving three days on a similar charge about three months ago.

FOE OF KLAN MUST GO TO TENNESSEE, SCENE OF ESCAPE

Burton Dodson, who claims he battled a Klu Klux Klan mob in Tennessee 18 years ago and escaped to East St. Louis, was ordered returned to Tennessee today, where he is wanted for murder.

After a hearing, United States District Judge William G. Juergens at East St. Louis ordered that Dodson, 76-year-old Negro, be placed in the custody of federal authorities at Memphis. They can take action on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution or turn him over to local authorities on the murder charge.

Dodson contends his house in Fayette county, Tenn., was surrounded the night of March 23, 1940, by a mob which threatened to hang him. When members of the group fired shots into his house, Dodson returned the fire and a deputy sheriff was killed. He escaped to East St. Louis and has been using the name Charles Taylor.

Tennessee authorities give a different version of the incident. They say a sheriff and four deputies went to Dodson's home to arrest him on a warrant charging felonious assault. Dodson emerged from the house behind members of his family and began shooting, they said. Dodson was arrested in East St. Louis earlier this month on the federal warrant of unlawful flight.

Hoffa, Gibbons

The purpose, he added, is to discuss mutual problems."

Hoffa charged the Senate committee with "conspiring to destroy the Teamsters Union, the most potent labor organization in the world." Members of that committee referred to Teamster officers as "racketeers, hoodlums and scum," Hoffa asserted. "These are the words of irresponsible men."

The Teamsters president described the questions propounded by the Senators and their counsel, Robert F. Kennedy, as "packed and framed to set the witness up for perjury."

'Trying to Make Headlines.'

"Senator Ives belched and bellowed trying to make headlines," Hoffa declared as the conference delegates applauded wildly. Senator Irving M. Ives (Rep.), N. Y. is a member of the racket committee.

Gibbons contended that Senator John L. McClellan (Dem.), Arkansas, committee chairman, "has a personal vendetta against the Teamsters."

"These attacks have come because we have performed such an outstanding job of furthering labor's interests," Gibbons declared. "We are signing the greatest contracts today in our history. They are tremendous milestones in our progress, and these Senate reactionaries are not going to stop us."

Gibbons referred to Attorney Kennedy as "a young millionaire out slumming."

"It galls Bob Kennedy that there can be a union as powerful as ours," Gibbons asserted.

Hoffa earlier acknowledged there were "weaknesses in our union, and we must do all we can to correct them."

But he told the Central Conference of Teamsters as it opened its annual three-day meeting "we have been and are taking action to correct these and other weaknesses that come to our attention."

Hoffa received a standing ovation which lasted several minutes when he entered the meeting room at Hotel Sherman. The delegates cheered and applauded the union leader again when he was introduced at the speaker's stand.

"Today, as never before, the spotlight is being focused on our union," Hoffa said in his message. "The monitors, the Senate investigating commmittee, and the AFL-CIO executive board are expressing concern that the rank-and-file are not properly represented.

'Point Pained Fingers.'

"They point pained fingers when an election does not follow exactly the methods set forth in the constitution and by-laws. They become righteously indignant if a set of local union accounts are not kept in detail. And they measure the entire membership by a few officers who behave badly."

After admitting that "some of these weaknesses do exist," Hoffa declared these "weaknesses are not fundamental" because they are found in some degree in all organizations.

"These are not the significant spots by which to measure our performance," he said. "Why don't the investigators and the monitors inspect the product where it really counts—namely, the wages and conditions under which our members work. Taken as a whole, Teamster wages and conditions are second to none."

The average worker, Hoffa declared, is not concerned with the "niceties of the legal language" in the by-laws of his local union, although he should be.

"It is somewhat understandable why the investigators and the monitors do not comprehend the basic nature of our union, but it is inexcusable for the AFL-CIO executive board to miss the boat. Evidently they are closely following the lead of the investigators. Perhaps some of them are jealous of our power and our performance."

Hoffa declared the AFL-CIO executive body could remove Teamster representatives from city, state and national labor bodies, but it cannot "throw the Teamsters out of the labor movement." He said 1,500,000 Teamsters could not be isolated from the country's main body of labor.

About 800 delegates are attending the meeting as representatives of 325 Teamsters locals from central Canada and 12 Midwestern states, including Missouri and Illinois.

ILLINOIS OK'S DROPPING OF TWO G.M.&O. TRAINS

An application by Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad to discontinue its two remaining passenger trains between St. Louis and Mobile, Ala., was approved today by the Illinois Commerce Commission at Springfield. The order applies between St. Louis and Cairo.

Similar authority was obtained previously from Tennessee and an application is pending before the Alabama Public Service Commission. No authority is needed from Mississippi.

The trains, known as the Mobile-St. Louis Rebels, provide round-trip service and serve East St. Louis, Sparta, Murphysboro, Jonesboro, Tamms and Cairo, in Illinois. Nearly $750,000 was lost in operation of the trains last year, the railroad has stated.

SPARTAN SPARCRAFT
8' AND 10' WIDE
Yes, folks, we only have quality to sell because we feel that when we sell quality we have made a friend. Anyone can build anything down to a price with absolute disregard for quality. We have nothing to hide behind walls and fancy paint. We have on display at all times for your inspection a complete Spartan and Sparcraft shell, showing every phase of construction; in other words you actually see what you are buying. Why not come in and see the difference for yourself. After all, it's your money.

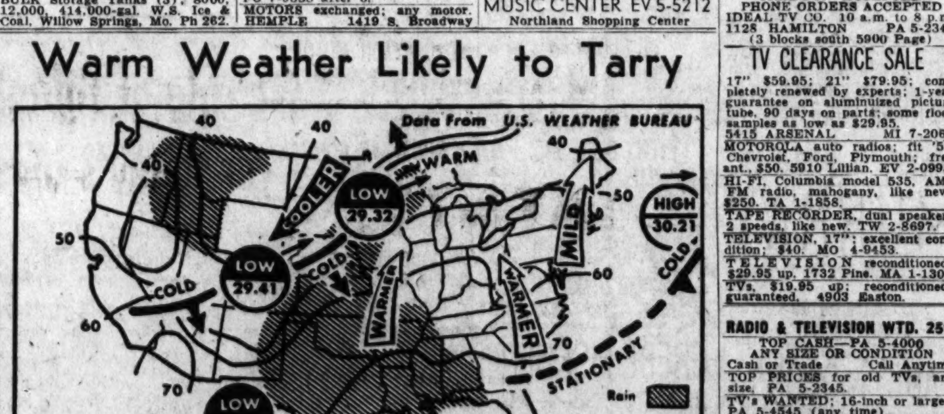
Warm Weather Likely to Tarry



—Associated Press Wirephoto.
Low temperatures and areas of precipitation expected tonight.

Warm weather is expected to continue in the Missouri-Illinois area today and tomorrow, with a gradual increase in southerly and southwesterly winds, the Weather Bureau said today.

The warming trend held temperatures to the upper and middle 60s across Missouri during the night.

However, the region may expect some rainy weather in the next several days, if a storm system which is currently building up across the plains states continues its eastward movement, the bureau said.

Warm, sunny weather was reported in most sections of the nation yesterday. Clear skies covered most of the eastern half of the country, with temperature readings in the 90s reported in the south Atlantic region.

A narrow belt of showers stretched southwest from Lake Superior to southern California. Carlsbad, N.M., was hit by a two-and-one-half inch rain yesterday.

Thundershowers were also reported in several sections of the Gulf region yesterday. Moist air moving northward from the storm center was expected to bring showers late today to southern areas of the Mississippi Valley.

AFL-CIO, UNION OF ORGANIZERS AGREE ON PACT

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—The American Federation of Labor and Congress of Industrial Organizations reached an agreement yesterday with a union of its organizers on their first contract.

The agreement with the Field Representatives Federation provides for pay rises and other improvements. However, nothing is provided for the two organizers who were discharged last January except a nominal agreement to review discharges on the request of workers. The employer will have the final say in the review.

The union was organized about a year and a half ago. At first the federation refused to recognize it and fought it before the National Labor Relations Board on the ground that the organizers were a part of the federation management. The board ruled for the organizers.

Under the pact the union is recognized as the sole bargaining agent for the organizers, who number about 120. It will get a charter of affiliation with the AFL-CIO. The union does not include organizers employed by the federation's affiliated groups.

The standard pay of organizers is increased from $130 a week to $140, retroactive to July 7. They will have a union shop, meaning that new organizers must join within 30 days. The employer will collect union dues on authorization of the member.

Another provision is that the final step in resolving any dispute over interpreting the contract will be a binding decision by two members of the federation's executive council, appointed by President George Meany. This provision is regarded as undesirable by virtually all unions. It was the crux of a dispute between the Kohler Co. of Wisconsin and the United Auto Workers that led to a strike that is now more than four years old.

The rates for severance pay are one week's pay for each year of service. It was agreed that in cases of discharge and rehiring, seniority will be the determining factor where all other factors are equal.

It was agreed that the employer would review the pension program and certain travel expenses, which the union considers inadequate.

NIKE MISSILE TO REPLACE GUN AS R.O.T.C. MARKER

A public ceremony will be held at 11:30 a.m. Saturday for the placing of an Army Nike Ajax missile as a permanent marker to the entrance of the Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps building on the campus of Washington University.

The 33-foot missile will be erected on a concrete block base. Final assembly of the Ajax, which will replace the traditional artillery piece, will start at 9 a.m. Saturday and be done by reservists of Company C, 327th Engineer Battalion.

Ethan A. H. Shepley, chancellor of the university, will be present for the ceremony, as well as civilian and military officials. The missile was shipped here from White Sands Proving Ground, N.M.

NEW AIR-TO-AIR MISSILE CALLED DEADLIEST OF KIND

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—Development of a new air-to-air radar-guided missile described as capable of destroying "an enemy H-bomber in any kind of weather," was announced today by the Air Force and Hughes Aircraft Co.

The new weapon is designated GAR-3, for guided air rocket, and is the fourth in the family of Falcon missiles produced by Hughes.

The new missile can climb far higher than interceptor planes and has "a longer, higher and deadlier reach than that of any air-to-air missile," it was said. One of the chief differences between the new Falcon and other models is a white ceramic nose cone "capable of withstanding a great variety of environments created by both speed and temperature."

PLANE WITH 2 DEAD ENGINES LANDS SAFE IN HONOLULU

HONOLULU, Sept. 23 (AP)—A passenger aboard a four-engine military Air Transport plane which limped into Oahu yesterday with two dead engines says the aircraft had the same trouble previously.

The Super-Constellation landed safe with 38 passengers and 10 crewmen at Hickam Air Force base after a tense flight from Wake Island. Two engines were out and a third was going out when the plane was 200 miles west of Honolulu.

Sgt. 1-C. John F. Woods, a passenger from Ironton, O., said the same thing happened when the plane was going to Wake two days ago. He added, "It took us seven hours to get out of Tachikawa in Japan because of maintenance on the bum engines."

UNIVERSITY CITY TO OPPOSE GAS, POWER RATE BOOSTS

The city council of University City voted last night to oppose the rate increases sought by both Union Electric Co. and Laclede Gas Co.

Marvin E. Boisseau, city attorney and acting city manager, was instructed to intervene in both rate cases before the Missouri Public Service Commission and oppose them.

The St. Louis County Counselor's office has called a meeting of city attorneys of various county municipalities at 9 a.m. Thursday in the County Counselor's office to discuss what kind of action shall be taken at the forthcoming public hearings on the rate proposals.

Text of Adams Radio-TV Talk Announcing Resignation

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP).

Following is the prepared text of Sherman Adams's radio-television broadcast last night announcing his resignation:

SINCE last June a spirited controversy has taken place in which I, Sherman Adams, assistant to the President, have found myself cast in a principal role. This controversy has at times unfortunately displaced public consideration of much more important and far reaching problems that directly affect the welfare of our country and its people.

It is quite probable that a great many of you now listening to me have expressed some time in the course of this controversy and as private citizens your views on the matter. It seems to me that nearly everyone active in public life, in one capacity or another, has done so. I am here tonight to express mine.

Several months ago, a committee of the House of Rrepresentatives started hearings designed to elicit information as to whether or not any person or persons had exerted improper influence upon the regulatory agencies of the government. In the course of those hearings, I testified before that committee.

The sworn testimony that I then gave, together with that of every responsible official of which the committee made inquiry, clearly established that I had never influenced nor attempted to influence any agency in any case, decision, or matter whatsoever.

Despit this fact that this testimony is wholly undisputed, a calculated and contrived effort has nevertheless been made to attack and discredit me. As part of this effort, the committee received completely irresponsible testimony and, without conscience, gave ear to rumor, innuendo and even unsubstantiated gossip.

A campaign of vilification by those who seek personal advantage by my removal from public life has continued up to this very moment. These efforts, it is now clear, have been intended to destroy me and in so doing to embarrass the Administration and the President of the United States.

An easy and obvious way to bring such an attack to an end is to remove the target. There were those who thought I should resign because they felt I had been imprudent in not foreseeing the interpretation that could be placed upon my exchanging gifts with a friend, even of some 15 years standing.

I am sure that many of you have wondered why I have not chosen that course, why—at the very beginning of the controversy—I did not immediately resign. I would like to tell you why.

First, it is not—nor has it ever been—my nature to run in the face of adversity and, in my years of public service—nearly 20 now—I have never once done so.

Second, since I have done no wrong, my resigning could have been construed as an admission that I had, in the atmosphere which has surrounded the controversy.

Third, when a man has been afforded the privilege that has been mine of serving a great American, a great humanitarian, and a great President—when a man has come to understand the selflessness and the dedication with which that President has served all of our people, regardless of race, creed, religious or political persuasion—it poses a decision, as I am sure you can readily appreciate, difficult in the extreme to make.

Against my distaste for giving any grounds whatever to the charge of retreating under fire, against my desire to complete by duty during the remaining two years of the term for which President Eisenhower was elected, I must give full consideration to the effect of my continuing presence on the public scene. Under the circumstances and in light of the events of the past three months in which I have been made to be directly concerned, I must ask myself whether my retention in office might conceivably delay or retard, even in small degree, the achievement of those goals of President Eisenhower which yet lie ahead. Another factor that I feel I must consider is whether the retention of my services might possibly diminish the chances which my party has of regaining control of the Congress in the November elections.

Within the past few days I have reached a decision. Early this morning I flew from Washington to the President's vacation headquarters at Newport. I conferred with him and, in the course of that conference tendered my resignation. This he has accepted, to be effective as soon as an orderly transition can be arranged for the assumption of my duties and responsibilities.

This action of mine is final and unqualified. It is not open to reconsideration.

It is my steadfast belief that the principles and programs for which Dwight Eisenhower stands serve the best interests of our country and, indeed, the people of the free world.

They deserve to be strengthened through the support of everyone of us. I believe that I can now best serve my President, and contribute to the support of his objectives, by the course that I have undertaken to follow:

I am now about to retire, after nearly six years, from the position in which I have served with pride and which I have given by best efforts to hold with honor.

Now nearly 20 years of public service come to a close, but I can say that it has brought a depth of satisfaction that will always be with me.

TEXT OF LETTER BY EISENHOWER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP).

The White House released the following letter from President Eisenhower accepting Adams's resignation:

DEAR SHERMAN:

I deeply deplore the circumstances that have decided you to resign as the assistant to the President.

Your selfless and tireless devotion to the work of the White House and to me personally has been universally recognized. In discharging the responsibilities of your vitally important post, with no hope of reward other than your own satisfaction in knowing that you have served your country well, your total dedication to the nation's welfare has been of the highest possible order.

Your performance has been brilliant, the public has been the beneficiary of your unselfish work. After our six years of intmiate association you have had throughout, my complete trust, confidence and respect.

I accept your resignation with sadness. You will be sorely missed by your colleagues on the staff and by the departments and agencies of the government, with whom you have worked so efficiently.

With warm regard and highest esteem, as ever,

Dwight D. Eisenhower.

ISRAEL GETTING STEADY TRICKLE OF WESTERN ARMS

© New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 — Israel is beginning to receive a small but steady flow of weapons from Britain, France and the United States.

The Israeli government is highly pleased, according to diplomatic informants, by the effect of its campaign since the Iraqi revolution of July 14, to convince the western capitals that Israel is entitled to a "deterrent" to the growing military strength of the United Arab Republic and its allies.

The smallest part of the flow of supplies to Israel is coming from the United States which is supplying some defensiye weapons, mostly anti-tank guns. Recoilless rifles are included.

Britain and France remain Israel's main sources of a small quantity of heavy weapons. Canada, it is understood, is not now selling arms to Israel.

TEAMSTER OFFICER SUES KENNEDY FOR $2,000,000

DETROIT, Sept. 23 (AP)—A damage suit for $2,000,000 was filed today in United States District Court by William E. Bufalino, president of Teamsters Union Local 985, against Robert F. Kennedy, chief counsel of the Senate Rackets Committee.

Bufalino's Teamsters unit is known as the jukebox local. It handles servicing of coin machines. Bufalino testified Sept. 27, 1957, before Senate labor-management investigators.

In his suit, Bufalino said Kennedy had embarked on a personal campaign to discredit him. He gave no details.

Fastest Cook in Italy.

VERONA, Italy, Sept. 23 (UPI)—Hotel owner and cook Oscar Benedetti won the title here yesterday of "fastest cook in Italy" by whipping up a succulent dish of potato dumplings with meat ragout in 13 minutes and 31 seconds.

U.S. TO AIR TAX EXEMPTIONS OF NONPROFIT UNITS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service said today it would open its files Nov. 3 to disclose all approved applications for income tax exemptions granted nonprofit educational, charitable and religious organizations.

The action will be taken under a new law which permits the service to make public the applications together with its reasons for granting the exemption.

A Revenue Service spokesman said both the agency and the Treasury Department favored the change. He said the agency often has been asked by members of Congress and others for explanations of its actions on exemption applications, but has been barred by law from giving any.

There has been debate in Congress over tax exemptions granted a number of organizations, including the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Fund for the Republic.

All approved applications will be available for public inspection, together with any papers submitted in support of them. Provision is made for withholding supporting documents which might disclose defense or trade secrets or other information that would adversely affect the organization.

CITY OK'S PLAN FOR DISTRIBUTOR ROAD DOWNTOWN

Revised plans for a proposed interchange between the Daniel Boone Expressway and a new "distributor" highway near Twentieth and Market streets were approved by the Board of Public Service today.

The distributor highway would connect the three expressways, Daniel Boone, Mark Twain and Ozark when they are completed in the downtown area. The distributor would be in the general area of Twentieth street. It is only in the planning stage at this time.

Plans for the interchange with the Daniel Boone call for a series of ramps coming down from the overhead expressway in the general area west of Union Station. One ramp would enter Pine and another Chestnut street at about Twentieth. A third would enter Chouteau avenue about Mississippi avenue and another would strike LaSalle street a short distance east of Mississippi.

The board set Oct. 28 as the date on which it will receive bids for the construction of the David P. Wohl Community Center to take the place of the fire-damaged Sherman Park Community Center. The Wohl Foundation will contribute $350,000 to the estimated $840,000 cost of the structure. The bids will be let in four categories: construction, estimated at $580,000; plumbing and drainage, $70,000; heating and ventilating, $135,000, and electrical work, $55,000.

Downtown in St. Louis Inc., was granted a permit to employ a firm to put two street-cleaners on the sidewalks of the downtown area to pick up litter six days weekly from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The area to be kept clean is between Third street and Twelfth boulevard from Market street to Franklin avenue.

The permit was made conditional on the civic group's taking out liability insurance to protect the city from damage suits for any injuries that pedestrians might suffer in the operation of the push carts.

A contract for $32,433 was awarded to the Vittert Building Cleaning Co. for cleaning the exterior of Kiel Auditorium. It was the lowest of three bidders. Tuckpointing of the auditorium will be done under a separate contract.

TWO OHIO JAIL ESCAPEES APPREHENDED IN COUNTY

Two escaped Ohio jail prisoners were arrested early today by a St. Louis county policeman who saw them in an automobile on a tavern parking lot at Lindbergh boulevard and Morrow road, and stopped to question them.

The men said they are Winnie E. Sanders, 21 years old, and Elmer Monk, 25, and admitted breaking out of the Coshocton county jail a week ago. Both had been serving terms for burglary, they told Patrolman Howard Murray.

Questioning by Murray revealed that the fugitives rode freight trains to Highland, Ill., where they stole the automobile. The machine developed trouble on Lindbergh boulevard, and Sanders, who was driving, had stopped to check the wiring when Patrolman Murray appeared. The men were booked as fugitives and for interstate transportation of a stolen automobile.

SEA CAPTAIN IS INDICTED FOR SALTY WORDS ON AIR

HOUSTON, Tex., Sept. 23 (AP)—A shrimp boat captain whose language was found too salty for radio waves on the high seas was indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday.

M. C. Martin of Port Isabel, Tex., was accused of "uttering obscene, indecent and profane language by means of radio communication" while aboard ship in the Gulf of Mexico.

The Federal Communications Commission, which monitored radio transmissions from the shrimper Valley Dawn, said complaints had been received from as far away as Mexico.

SHARP GOLD STOCK DROP EASING

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—The sharp drop in the United States gold supply may be ending. It is slowing down after setting a record for any one year.

But today the conditions that led other nations to build up their gold reserves at our expense seem to be going into reverse.

Sam Dawson

Part of the outflow of gold has been due to a sharper drop in United States exports than in its imports, enabling foreign lands to build up their reserves as Americans paid for what they bought abroad.

ALSO HELPING BUILD UP foreign reserves of gold and dollars is the large investment of American corporations abroad, amounting to about four billion dollars last year and bringing the total to 37 billion dollars. Part of the drop in the United States Treasury's gold hoard has been due to other nations selling their holdings of United States securities and putting the money into gold. The net result is that so far this year the United States gold supply has shrunk by about one and three-fourths billion dollars. This is slightly more than the outflow of gold for the entire year of 1950, the previous record, when the Korean war caused the United States to buy heavily from other lands. The gold supply here now is just under 21 billion dollars—and more than ample as legal backing for the volume of currency outstanding.

IN THE FIRST HALF OF the year our exports dipped 20 per cent below the like 1957 period. But the Commerce Department reports that the April-May-June quarter saw improvement over the first three months of this year. Exports seem to have held leveled off during the summer and many hope that other lands will be buying more from us in the months just ahead. Part of this hope is based on the belief that the recovery in United States business will lead to increased imports of foreign materials, giving other nations more of the wherewithal to buy United States finished goods. Imports in the second quarter rose over the first three months of this year, the Commerce Department notes. For the first half as a whole they were only slightly below the first six months of 1957.

THE ENDING OF THE REcession here also is counted upon to rebuild foreign confidence in the United States business and currency and thus end what some have called a flight from the dollar into gold. But more important in that respect probably will be the rise in interest rates and in the yields of United States securities. It was the sharp drop in returns on dollar securities during the easy money period that led many foreigners to sell their holdings and put their funds into gold. Now yields are rising and United States securities look better. And some of the gold buying may have been due to repeated rumors that the price of gold would be raised—that would have given gold purchasers a nice profit. These rumors have quieted down of late under a barrage of denials and the decided coldness of Washington to any gold price tinkering.

THE BUILD-UP IN FOReign gold and dollar reserves has pleased Washington on the whole. Stable currencies abroad are good for world trade and help political stability. As a result the latest rumor revival is the old hope that England in particular may be moving close to the time when it can try free convertibility again. That is, make the pound sterling freely exchangeable for American dollars and release more of its foreign trade from restraints.

No rule of thumb for today's investors...

Should I buy?-Should I sell?

They're tough decisions to make anytime—but especially tough in these days of rapidly changing markets.

There's just no good rule of thumb when it comes to sound investing. That's when you need facts—soundly evaluated . . . soundly applied to your investment goal.

This sounds like a complicated job—and it is. But only up to a point—for you. Because here at Merrill Lynch, we see to it that investors get the material they need in a form that's easy to read, easy to use.

We feel that this is perhaps our most important job. We've put a lot of time, effort, and money into it. And it seems to work.

So if you are an investor—large or small—we'd like you to come in and see us or write us about your investment problems or just about your investments. Our Research Department will provide you with a thorough review of your holdings—no matter what the size. Naturally, the more complete information you give us about your holdings—number of shares, cost, etc.—the more adequate will be our analysis. If you feel that such an analysis might be helpful to you, we'll be happy to mail one if you simply address—

SOYBEANS HIGHER, GRAIN PRICES MIXED

CHICAGO, Sept. 23 (AP)—Soybeans were firm but grains were about steady to weak most of the time today in slow dealings on the Board of Trade. The market mainly was a speculative trading affair with prices generally shifting only small fractions from previous closes. Commercial customers were very scarce and there was only one export buyer. Yugoslavia took about 350,000 bushels of red wheat for shipment next month.

The support for soybeans was scattered and appeared to be thin.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Sept. 23—Cash grain market Tuesday: Wheat receipts 21 cars, 6 sold; corn, 16 cars, 2 sold; oats, none.

Sales were: Wheat, No. 2 mixed $1.87¼; No. 2 yellow hard $1.90½; No. 3 yellow hard $1.92½; No. 2 red $1.89¾; No. 3 red tough $1.82. Corn, No. 2 yellow $1.24.

Bran was unchanged at $35@35.50. Shorts were 50c higher at $42.25@42.75.

Soybean prices were unchanged Tuesday. No. 1 yellow, 30-day shipment, Missouri, $1.97@2 a bushel to producers, country elevators; Illinois, $2@2.03 a bushel. Soybean oil meal, 44 per cent protein, $61.50 a ton bulk, Decatur, Ill.

Final Trading Prices on New York Stock Exchange

A.T.&T. STOCK UP $5 TO $193.75 AT DAY'S PEAK

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (UPI)—Stocks climbed to a new record high today and then backed away from their best levels on profit-taking.

American Telephone & Telegraph turned the tide after an early decline of small proportions. It soared to a new high for the year and at its best level of $193.75 a share was up $5 a share on the day. That meant an enhancement in value of all the shares listed in this issue of more than $350 million.

The real interest centered on American telephone which is held by more people than any other stock.

Low - priced motors and aluminum shares were prominent on the tape. The former were active and the latter strong and active. These two groups fitted well together since there is talk of greater use of aluminum on small cars and some larger ones.

Trading picked up in volume when the market turned up. Tickers ran late shortly after the opening and again just before the close.

Railroad issues perked up with their average showing the best percentage gain of the major sections. Steels swung forward on outlook for a rise to a new high for the year in steel production. Chemicals strengthened. Zenith gained nearly 3 in the televisions and Kroger rose that amount in the stores.

A long list of special issues rose 1 to more than 2 points.

The Associated Press reported that of 1234 issues traded, 617 rose and 372 fell. New highs for the year totaled 126 and new lows 8.

The AP 60 - stock average rose $1.00 to $192.90, topping the previous record of $192.50 reached Friday. The industrials rose $1.00, the rails $1.80 to a new high for the year, and the utilities 30 cents.

Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was 1.88 points higher at 525.89 at the close. The 20 rails rose 2.25 to 142.42 and the 15 utilities gained .08 of a point at 80.20. The 65 stocks advanced 1.03 to 181.75. The rail index and the composite were new 1958 highs.

Standard & Poor's average of 500 stocks was .36 of a point up 49.56 at the close. The 425 industrials rose .40 to 53.06, the 25 rails gained .36 at 30.56 and the 50 utilities advanced .12 to 38.07.

Volume swelled to 3,950,000 shares compared with 3,490,000 yesterday.

Based on the rise in the AP average, the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange rose an estimated $1,286,000,000.

Shipments last month amounted to $29,450,000, which was down $250,000 from July and compared with $78,300,000 a year ago. During the first eight months of this year both orders and shipments have been less than half what they were in the first eight months of 1957.

Byers said: "Net earnings for the combined third and fourth quarters will be at least five times greater than the earnings for these quarters last year.

THE READING FAILROAD skipped a quarterly divided on its common stock for the first time in 45 years. The company hadn't missed a quarter dividend since 1913 when it adopted the system of four dividend payments annually. The last dividend, 25 cents a share, was paid in August. Payments were 50 cents in previous quarters. The railroad board failed to comment on its lack of dividend action, but profits have dropped sharply the past year. Ex-Senator Lehman Says U.S. Should Have Chiang Withdraw Troops From Quemoy, Matsu

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.

FORMER SENATOR HERBERT H. LEHMAN (Dem.), New York, who voted against the Formosa resolution of 1955 because it authorized President Eisenhower to decide whether American military forces should be used to defend Matsu and Quemoy, said today that the United States should arrange for Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek to withdraw his forces promptly from these islands.

In a letter to the national board of the Americans for Democratic Action, meeting here this weekend, the Democratic elder statesman said:

"Not a single American life, not to speak of the peace of the world, should be sacrificed for the defense of Matsu and Quemoy. That defense involves neither moral nor legal principles, nor does it have the justification of vital American interest."

Text of Lehman's Letter.

The text of the letter follows:

"I hope the national board will take a strong and affirmative stand with regard to the threat of war arising from the Administration's recent undertaking to defend Quemoy and Matsu and keep these islands in the hands of the Formosan regime of General Chiang Kai-shek.

"In 1955, I was one of three Senators who voted against the Formosan resolution under whose terms our Government now claims a commitment to defend Quemoy and Matsu. In 1955, when this resolution was before the Senate, the Administration denied that there was such a commitment.

"At the time, I and other opponents of the resolution charged that it was a blank check. It has so turned out to be. That check has now been filled out by the Administration, at the instance of the Formosan government, to read 'Quemoy and Matsu.' This commitment threatens to destroy both the unity of the free nations and the peace of the world.

Points to Contradiction.

"President Eisenhower claims that the principal involved is the question of the use of force to change the present status of the islands. But these tiny offshore islands, sticking in the very throat of the Chinese mainland, have been used by Chiang Kai-shek for the past three years as military bases to apply the threat of force against Communist China—as possible jumping-off places for an invasion of the Chinese mainland—with American help, of course. One-third of Gen. Chiang's total military forces are now stationed on these islands. Indeed, the very presence of this preponderant portion of Chiang's fighting forces on Quemoy and Matsu, an open provocation to Red China, has been cited by President Eisenhower as a justification for our defense of the islands.

"We cannot oppose the use of force by Red China and at the same time support the threat of force by Chiang Kai-shek.

Useful Only to Aggressor.

"Historically and geographically they are part of the mainland of China.

"I am opposed to the Communist regime of China, and all its attitudes and works. I hold no brief for its use of the threat of war to attain its objectives. But its objective, with regard to Quemoy and Matsu, is, unfortunately for us, juridically justified. It is part of the long-standing civil war between the Communist regime and that of Chiang Kai-shek. We have no international right to commit our armed forces to the defense of these islands. That commitment must be liquidated without delay.

"Because the question of the ownership of these islands is, in fact, a threat to world peace, whose breach involves the most catastrophic consequences for all mankind, the immediate object of American policy should be to help bring that question before an international body—either the United Nations or the International Court of Justice.

U. S. Goat as He Sees It.

"Meanwhile, we should use all our influence and authority not to defend the islands, but to secure an arrangement whereby the Formosan regime can promptly withdraw its forces.

"This should, of course, be an objective of the present negotiations in Warsaw.

"Not a single American life, not to speak of the peace of the world, should be sacrificed for the defense of Quemoy and Matsu. That defense involves neither moral nor legal principle, nor does it have the justification of vital American interest.

"If the principle were right, we would be justified in standing for that principle, even at the threat of war—and the free world would stand with us. Then, of course, there would be no war. But it is a dangerous folly to stand isolated and alone at the brink of a world war where the only objective to be gained is a saving of face for Gen. Chiang Kai-shek.

"The world's fate and the fate of freedom are immeasurably more important to the American people than the face of Chiang.

"Red China has no clear right to Formosa. The defense of Formosa against force or the threat of force from Red China is a justifiable obligation of the United States Government. But, as I emphasized in 1955 in the Senate debate, the question of the Quemoy and Matsu islands has no moral, legal or even strategic relationship to the question of Formosa. To confuse the question of Formosa with that of the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu in fact jeopardizes the independence of Formosa."

Lehman was one of three Senators who voted against the Formosa resolution which was primarily concerned with the defense of Formosa and the Pescadores islands against armed attack by the Chinese Communists on the mainland. The others were Democratic Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon and Republican William Langer of North Dakota.

An amendment proposed by Lehman to confine the resolution to this primary objective was rejected 74 to 13. This amendment would have eliminated any guarantees to defend the "related positions and territories" and would have denied the President authority to "take such other measures as he judged to be required."

It is under these authorizations in the resolution that President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have greatly augmented American military forces in the Formosa area while trying to reach an agreement with Red China by the talks in Warsaw between American Ambassador Jacob D. Beam and Communist Ambassador Wang Ping-nan.

Predictions Come True.

During the Senate debate in January 1955, Lehman forecast many of the issues that have arisen in the present crisis.

"There is no question whatsoever," Lehman told the Senate, "that we must and should defend Formosa and the islands immediately adjacent to it.

"But I do not think we are ready to say to anyone, either to the commander of our forces in that area or even to the President of the United States, that we will allow him or anyone else to embroil us in a great war on the mainland of China which may light the fire of a third world war.

"We have a perfectly sound position in defending Formosa, which has not belonged to China for more than 50 years . . . that is not true of Quemoy, Matsu and some of the other islands which are now under discussion. They have always, so far as I know, certainly for centuries, belonged to China. When we intervene in a fight, on Quemoy or Matsu or the Tachen islands, we are directly intervening in a civil war."

The Senators who supported the Lehman amendment were: Harry F. Byrd, Virginia; J. William Fulbright, Arkansas; Hubert H. Humphrey, Minnesota; Estes Kefauver, Tennessee; the late Harley M. Kilgore, West Virginia; Russell B. Long, Louisiana; Patrick V. McNamara, Michigan; Mike Mansfield, Montana; Morse, James E. Murray, Montana; Richard L. Neuberger, Oregon, all Democrats, and Langer.

PEARSON URGES COMMON FOREIGN POLICY FOR NATO

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

BOSTON, Sept. 23—Lester B. Pearson, of Canada, suggested yesterday that the North Atlantic Treaty Organization be developed into a forum where a common foreign policy can be devised for the member nations.

Pearson stressed that the present crisis in the Far East is of vital concern to all NATO countries and that the only way a true Atlantic alliance can last is by the presentation of a common front to the Soviet Union.

Pearson, former Canadian secretary for external affairs, leader of the opposition in the Canadian Parliament and Nobel peace prize winner, made the remarks in a speech last night to the American Council on NATO.

Earlier in the day Pearson was elected chairman of the Atlantic Treaty Association, a private organization in support of NATO, which this week is holding its fourth annual convention at the Babson Institute in Wellesley, Mass.

Stalemate Reported Between U.S., Red China At Warsaw; Issue Now Heads Toward U.N.

By DONALD GRANT
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNITED NATIONS, Sept. 23.

IT IS widely assumed among the best-informed diplomats at the United Nations that talks between Red China and the United States in Warsaw are close to a stalemate, if a stalemate has not in fact already been reached. Attention is now turning to the possibility of bringing the issue before the United Nations.

The issue generally is referred to as "the situation in the Taiwan strait," meaning the firing of Red Chinese guns from the mainland onto the Nationalist-held islands of Quemoy and Matsu a few miles offshore, and the United States support of the Nationalists.

Within the American delegation at the U.N., the opinion is growing that the real issue can be defined as a bid by Communist China for world recognition as a great power—for "legitimacy," in diplomatic parlance.

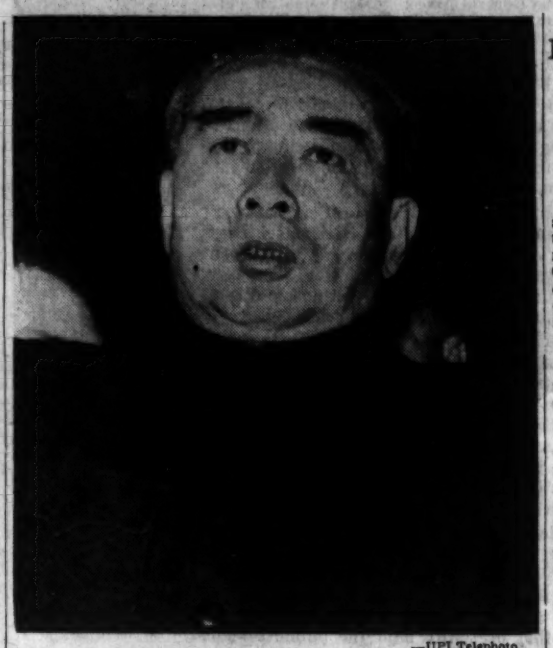
A report has reached the American delegation that Communist Chinese firing on Quemoy, which began Aug. 23, was decided upon as a method of assuring the entry on the U.N. stage—in person—of Chou En-lair, Premier of the People's Republic of China.

Chou Question.

This raises at least two questions. What would be the circumstances which Chou would demand, before he agreed to come to New York? And is the United States likely to agree to the creation of such a situation?

The answer to the second question has, in part, been given. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told the U.N. General Assembly last week that "if it seems that the bilateral talks between ambassadors (at Warsaw) are not going to succeed, the United States reserves the right to bring this matter to the United Nations." Furthermore, both Dulles, privately, and Assistant Secretary of State Francis O. Wilcox, publicly, have said that the United States "would not object" if a representative of Red China were present if and when the off-shore islands issue is discussed in the U.N.

Whether anticipating the results of their actions or not, United States diplomats have already moved a part of the scenery in place for the appearance of the Red Chinese.



—UPI Telephoto.

RED CHINESE PREMIER CHOU EN-LAI

In the opinion of those who have seen him in action, however, Chou En-lai is not a man who is going to be willing to appear in just an old amateur theatrical performance. Last week, members of the Russian delegation were saying they doubted if the Red Chinese would be willing to attend any discussion here, unless they were given full status as members of the United Nations.

Now, however, the Russians are hinting that the point is negotiable. Chou En-lai — or another Red Chinese, such as the new foreign minister, Marshal Chen Yi—will not come to the U.N. as the accused, to be pilloried by the United States, the Russians declare.

"Official Talks."

They do not now rule out the possibility, however, that Chou En-lai, given the dignity due to a visiting head of state, might come to the U.N. to discuss with equals the situation in the Formosa Strait. Already, the Soviet Foreign Minister, Andrei A. Gromyko, in effect told the U.N. yesterday, Red China has achieved legitimacy of a sort, for "the government of the United States is now known to be conducting official talks with the representative of the government of the People's Republic of China" in Warsaw.

The Russians, in other words, acting as the agents of Red China in its bid for world recognition, are attempting to consolidate gains and to push on from there.

Which, of course, raises a third question—what would be the effect on members of the United Nations if Cho En-lai were to make an appearance here?

It is obvious, to our closest friends and allies among the diplomats here, that such an appearance might well be disastrous to the present American China policy.

This writer needs only to remember the conference of Asian and African nations at Bandung, Indonesia, in 1955—where he watched the Chinese Premier in action—to be convinced of the impact Chou En-lai can make. Chou is able, intelligent and infinitely suave in negotiations. He is a Mandarin by background, with both a French and a Chinese education.

But, as a member of the British delegation remarked in a private discussion of the possibility of an appearance here by Chou, "You can be sure that the representative of 600,000,000 Chinese will make himself felt here, no matter whom they send." The British diplomat said an appearance by Chou not only would have an effect on Asian and African delegates, but also on the Latin Americans, "and for that matter on the rest of us, too."

Formosan Discussion Would Mean Appearance of Peiping Spokesman.

What, then, is to be done—to stop the shooting in the Formosa strait without adding to the prestige of Red China?

U.S. Support Doubted.

As Dulles indicated in private talks here, the United States can propose a U.N. item for discussion that puts Red China in the position of the defendant—so that Chou En-lai will refuse to come. So long as the danger of World War III looms in the Formosa strait, however, it will be difficult indeed to find support for such a move, in the opinion of seasoned diplomats normally friendly to our policies.

And it may be even more difficult, in this same opinion, to get a resolution condemning Red China adopted by the General Assembly if a Chinese representative is not even present to offer a defense.

There is very little doubt that the United States has been maneuvered into this position deliberately and shrewdly by the Russians and the Chinese.

Hindsight is perhaps little comfort. For four years, however—as President Eisenhower pointed out in his television address Sept. 12—the Chinese did "not use force for aggressive purposes." Yet during this time, as now, our policy was to keep Red China out of the U.N. We have succeeded.

Only when China began shooting across the straits in 1954 did we agree to direct talks with the Chinese, which then languished. Now China has started shooting again—and we have started talking again. We even have no objections if Chinese diplomats come to the U.N. to discuss the shooting, if the Warsaw talks break down.

To Russian delegates this looks like progress. As for arrangements for bringing the Red Chinese to New York—the Russians add they may be willing to leave that matter up to the United States, too, since our diplomats have suggested it.

Risking War Over Two Islands Height of Folly, Kennedy Holds

Senator Says He Doesn't Want Policy Decided by Chiang Kai-shek or Some Military Commander on Formosa.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

(Copyright 1958, The Pulitzer Publishing Co.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.

MORE FRANKLY than perhaps any critic of Administration foreign policy, Senator John F. Kennedy (Dem.), Massachusetts, has been challenging the Eisenhower-Dulles position regarding the Formosa strait.

Returning from a nation-wide speaking tour prior to his own campaign for re-election in Massachusetts, Kennedy reported that he found almost universal support for his stand on the crisis over Quemoy and Matsu. He told audience after audience that the United States was in danger of being dragged into an atomic war "at a time and place not of our own choosing, in an argument over two islands not essential to our security and by an action of Chiang Kai-shek not initiated with our consent."

Kennedy's stand is particularly significant since he is running hard for the Democratic nomination for President in 1960. His associates are saying confidently at the conclusion of his cross-country tour that he is already so far in front that there is no candidate now in sight who can overtake him.

His Position Risky.

The hazard in attacking Administration policy in the current crisis, as Kennedy well knows, is that the attacker will be accused of dividing the country in a moment of danger. But while he insisted in each speech that he opposed any appeasement, he left no doubt of his conviction that to risk war over the two islands was the height of folly.

"The American people, in my opinion do not want either appeasement or war," if either can be avoided through peaceful negotiations," he said in the prepared text he incorporated in almost every speech. "Neither do they want to become bogged down in an armed conflict over two offshore islands less far from the Chinese mainland than the airport is from this city—islands which are not essential to the defense of Formosa, islands which in themselves are indefensible—for such a war would bring us neither allies, valuable territory nor the support of world opinion.

"But most important of all, whatever the American people may think our policy should be, they want it decided here, in this country, by the American people and their elected representatives. We want the question of peace or war for America to be decided by the Congress as the constitution provides—not by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and not by some military commander on Formosa."

Crosses Party Lines, He Says.

Referring to the repeated calls by the Administration for national unity, Kennedy said that disunity on the issue of Quemoy and Matsu was not limited to any one party. There are critics, according to Kennedy, within the Administration, within the Defense establishment, within the Republican party and among all Americans.

He pointed out that Chiang in an authorized interview had said he would not accept neutralization or demilitarization of the islands. He also noted the statement of an American military spokesman that our planes may decide to pursue Chinese aircraft to the mainland if necessary. He said he found this deeply disturbing.

As he noted in discussing the Quemoy-Matsu crisis, Kennedy was one of 14 Senators who supported an amendment in 1955 which would specifically have excluded the islands from the jurisdiction given President Eisenhower to use American armed force in the defense of Formosa. That was when the Administration called on Congress for a resolution authorizing the President to decide when an attack in the Formosa Strait endangered Chiang's stronghold of Formosa. The Administration has repeatedly cited that resolution and the fact that only four negative votes were cast against it in the Senate and the House as giving

Not This Unicameral

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

According to the news accounts Mr. Larkin and his Committee for Legislative Improvement will support a unicameral amendment which would abolish the State Senate of 34 members and retain the 157 members of the House of Representatives as the state's only legislative body.

It is generally agreed that the only fair basis of representation is one of a ratio of nearly compact geographical areas.

Missouri's historical arrangement of House representation based on counties results in great discrimination of representation against cities in a state where 61 per cent of the population is urban and where rural areas are steadily being drained of population in migration to cities or to other states.

According to an analysis of apportionment of state legislatures made by the National Municipal Review in 1956, Missouri's senatorial districts rank third fairest in the nation, yet our lower house ranks forty-first in fairness, since 24 per cent of the state's population controls a majority of the seats.

There are many compelling arguments for popular support of a unicameral legislature, the chief one being to secure a small, more effective, simplified and representative lawmaking body.

Calling an already crowded House a Unicameral Legislature (and tripling the salaries of the 157 members while freezing in an inequitable method of popular representation) would not accomplish these aims.

Mrs. Virgil Loeb

In Our Picture Window

Southern politicians such as Gov. Faubus and Almond never seem to tire of prating that the Federal Government is but a creation of the states and that its powers are derived from the states. I seem to recall, however, that our Constitution begins thus: "We the people . . . ordain and establish this Constitution . . ." It says nothing about "We the states." May we not conclude that the loudest crowing about "states' rights" is done by those who have the least concern for individual rights, such as those alluded to in our Bill of Rights?

As an American citizen temporarily living abroad, I wince every time I read about Little Rock in a foreign newspaper or see a cartoon of Faubus wearing a swastika armband. How can our country win friends and influence people when such messes in our own picture window continue to attract the world's attention?

Leaders of Principle

Instead of criticizing and abusing President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles for their firm stand on the Formosan situation, let us thank God we still have leaders who have moral principles by which they make their decisions and can clearly distinguish between right and wrong rather than what is temporarily expedient or inexpedient.

Simply because Quemoy and Matsu are only three miles from mainland China, is not a reason for Communist China to use force to take them.

They together with Formosa are islands which have become a refuge for those Chinese who do not want to live under Communist rule. They have never been governed by Communist China, which now has no right to take them by force.

Tribute to Francis Barnes

The resignation of Francis Barnes as chairman of the Housing and Land Clearance Authorities of St. Louis County leaves a void which will be hard to fill. It is regrettable that when a man of his caliber works so hard and so well in helping solve a complex problem, he must suffer the calumny of little minds.

We here in the Authority would like to express our public thanks to Mr. Barnes for a job well done.

They Too Can Rise

Gov. Faubus's great mistake a year ago — that of refusing to honor the order of the Supreme Court from the very beginning — has created the very violence he now uses as an excuse to continue his shameful farce.

Let us hope Faubus will soon realize his mistake, for the violent and the rabblerousers are not so much concerned with their hate for the Negro as with their own inferiority.

For these are the people who need sympathy and good leadership in the right direction. They are afraid that the only thing they feel superior to is to be taken away and, like children, they must be taught that they too can rise right along with the Negro.

Sherman Adams Gets Out

By far the best thing in Sherman Adams's radio and television performance was his resignation. He was as self-righteous as ever. He was so coldly prideful and devoid of regret that the early part of his remarks might have been leading up to a decision to go on riding out the storm, on the ground that he had done no wrong.

His first point was that the House subcommittee investigating the independent regulatory agencies had presented no evidence that he had ever "influenced or attempted to influence any officer or employe of any agency in any case, decision or matter whatsoever." His second point was that he was the victim of a "calculated, contrived campaign of vilification" designed to "destroy" him and to embarrass the Eisenhower Administration and to hinder its program.

Neither of these points stands up to even the simplest analysis. When Mr. Adams concluded his vague, undocumented profession of innocence, the sworn record remained unchanged.

Mr. Adams did call members of the regulatory commissions on behalf of Bernard Goldfine, whose businesses were in trouble with the Federal Government. He did get attention and information and results for his industrialist friend to whom he had been indebted for gifts and favors for years. He did use his influence for Goldfine in what amounted to a business relationship, as evidenced by the fact that the many instances of hotel hospitality, the expensive rug (which Mr. Adams said was a "loan") and the vicuna coat were charged off as tax-deductible business expense.

A career public servant at the Federal Trade Commission recommended that a Goldfine company be prosecuted for mislabeling its products. This was in fulfillment of an act of Congress passed to protect the American people against dishonesty in manufacturing and selling. Yet after Mr. Adams intervened the recommendation was overruled by the FTC and the prosecution forestalled.

How could Sherman Adams expect anyone to believe that his personal interest was not a factor in this decision? He had more to do than anyone else with the selection of the present membership of the FTC. He had the power to fire as well, as shown by the discharge of Richard A. Mack from the Federal Communications Commission after Mack got the Administration into hot water over a TV license. He held the power of both official life and death.

Sherman Adams used White House influence improperly every time he interested himself in any proceeding before the FTC, the SEC or any other agency on behalf of Bernard Goldfine or anyone else. And he himself testified to many such calls to commission chairmen and others.

Mr. Adams's record in the Dixon-Yates case ought to have caused his resignation in the first Eisenhower term. He pulled wire after wire to cripple the TVA through the federal commissions. In the end, and under public fire, the Dixon-Yates contract had to be repudiated by the Administration which had blessed it and for months defended it. Yet Sherman Adams did no wrong!

Mr. Adams's second point is as weak as his first. A large majority of the Republican nominees for the Senate had called for his resignation. They did so on the ground that his official conduct had cancelled out the 1952 campaign speeches, including Mr. Adams's own, that the Eisenhower Administration would be as clean as the proverbial hound's tooth. Did he mean to say that these men in his own party who face a tough election have vilified him? That is his implication.

The most regrettable part of the Sherman Adams scandal is that President Eisenhower sees no wrong in it. After nearly six years in office he, like his chief aid, thinks it is all right for his Administration to bring pressure on the independent agencies which set rates and fares and standards of truthfulness in advertising and grant radio and television licenses worth into the millions of dollars.

The conclusion is inescapable that Sherman Adams is quitting only because he was too heavy a political load for his party to carry up the road that leads to Nov. 4. There was a time last June when President Eisenhower could have handled the Adams case creditably. Now the resignation comes grudgingly much too late, and in a spectacular setting that only dramatizes the ugly facts.

For Mideastern Stability

While the furor over the Chinese islands on one side of Asia goes on, there is hope that the crisis on the other side of the vast continent is about to be resolved. With Gen. Fuad Chehab taking over the presidency from Camille Chamoun, the internal phase of the struggle in Lebanon may be near an end. And U.N. Secretary General Hammarskjold is back in New York with a formula for ending external pressures of Arabs against Arabs.

Mr. Hammarskjold's report on his trip to the Middle East is due by Sept. 30. Diplomats have disclosed that it calls for a "United Nations presence" in the area and that this has at least the preliminary approval of Lebanon, Jordan and the United Arab Republic. Secretary Dulles has said that the United States "is somewhat, although not wholly, reassured."

Under the Hammarskjold plan, a "watchdog committee" would be established to "represent the conscience of the U.N." It would be headed by a roving ambassador. Its main office would be in Amman, Jordan. There would be brapch offices in Beirut, Lebanon, and in Damascus in the United Arab Republic. The Damascus office is a noteworthy concession by President Nasser. The U.N. staff would receive complaints and investigate charges of interference by one Arab state in the affairs of another.

The plan could make possible the departure of the remaining 9000 American troops in Lebanon. Yet the U.N. representatives hardly could assure King Hussein of Jordan of the protection now afforded by British soldiers. His position would depend on Nasser's sincerity. The best hope is in the unanimity with which rival Arab states sponsored the resolution requesting the U.N. Secretary General to make "practical arrangements" to facilitate the departure of foreign troops.

Mr. Hammarskjold was unable to achieve agreement on the exact size and jurisdiction of the U.N. "presence." These details are now being discussed in New York. Each party has its trump cards, but none of these will be played if the Arabs want to show that their asserted unity is genuine, and that they can live in peace with each other without the reluctant surveillance of American Marines and British paratroopers.

Two States Defy Themselves

> The state shall ever maintain a general, suitable and efficient system of free schools . . . Arkansas Constitution.

Both The Arkansas Gazette in Little Rock and The Virginian-Pilot in Norfolk have raised the question of whether their two states are defying their own constitutions in closing public schools and attempting to supplant them with private schools to avoid integration.

How do the segregationist officials answer? The answer of Virginia's Byrd machine is that "efficient" schools are 100 per cent segregated. The answer of Gov. Faubus is that the Arkansas Constitution does not spell out the maintenance of high schools.

It is possible that the states' courts would uphold such twisted interpretations of their constitutions. It is even possible that the people of Arkansas and Virginia would accept the wreckage of their public school systems as the price for segregation, though we doubt it. Even so, it is unlikely that the two states can buy school segregation at that or any price.

Federal courts have ruled in the past that the test of any public institution is its support by public money. If the two states use their funds for segregated private schools, these will be subject to the same court directives that presently bind the public schools to integrate. And Gov. Faubus is pledged to close integrated schools.

As The Arkansas Gazette says of the state-imposed dilemma, "Our final choice is most likely to be between public schools that meet the requirements of federal law, or no public schools at all." That is plain talk which should appeal to responsible citizens to defend public education.

United We Give

The $8,598,000 campaign for the United Fund which has just been launched gives Greater St. Louisans the opportunity for the fourth year to function as a community. In no other way than by united effort can all the health, welfare and character-building needs of the community be taken properly into account. One hundred and twenty-two agencies are concerned in this single mighty effort to express man's humanity toward man.

In this vast 122-agency complex the whole must be greater than the sum of its parts. Admire as we will the work of any single agency or group of agencies, it is the work of them all that gets the job done for a city with as many people and as many different needs as ours. And every organization of the 122 is the more effective because it is a part of a co-operative endeavor.

That is what the "United" means in "United Fund." The work of human welfare could never be done so well in St. Louis by individual organizations operating without any regard to each other. Nor could so much money be raised so inexpensively for their support. Here is a thought for every Greater St. Louisan to remember as he reaches for his checkbook or signs a pledge card for payroll deductions.

Lest Stokowski Be Ballet

We sympathize with Leopold Stokowski, who tuned in on WCBS-TV's "Eye on New York" to see and hear himself on a taped telecast discussing the future of American composers, and instead saw and heard a ballet program left over from the preceding week. We sympathize with WCBS-TV, whose hirelings caused the bobble by picking up the wrong tape to feed into the telecasting equipment.

It could happen to anyone. The nature of the error will be recognizable to any projector of home movies who prepares to show his friends and neighbors a reel of his latest travels and finds that he has got on a reel with which he has bored them already. The home projector, however, can simply say, "Oh, pshaw!," jerk off the offending reel, and rummage about among his films until he finds the one he wanted.

No such corrective techniques are at the disposal of the network, apparently. Once the mistake has been made it must be played out to the end. To do otherwise would be too embarrassing, too time-consuming. In coast-to-coast decorum it is better to be repetitious than to give a program the hook or the bell once it has come on-screen. So as far as we can see there is only one thing for it.

The great minds which discovered how to reproduce television on a narrow band of electronic tape are going to have to unravel the mysteries of how to put that tape in a box and label it so that Stokowski and ballet will always come out of their own boxes, and not out of each other's.

Riverfront Parking Solution

The City Administration is giving up the plan for an underground garage on the riverfront. This decision stems from a study of such parking facilities in Kansas City, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles and San Francisco. If good judgment—and in this case Mayor Tucker's engineering background is persuasive—suggests that such a garage would be uneconomical, St. Louis should not be saddled with its cost.

However, if there is to be no underground garage, the pressure increases for creating new parking facilities to offset the loss of the space temporarily made available on the riverfront by the National Park Service. Eero Saarinen, memorial architect, says that a multi-story garage—with space for 2500 cars—can be built at Third and Washington. This would cost about $3000 per car-space compared with an underground cost of about $5000.

If, as Mr. Saarinen says, such a garage will not mar the riverfront park, the city should start as soon as possible to make the necessary arrangements for the use of the site. If possible, the garage should be built soon enough to accommodate at least some of the cars now being left on the shrinking riverfront parking area.

Lesson in Law by the Attorney General

The Constitution Is Basic, the Court Can Interpret It, Nobody Can Flout It

Address by William P. Rogers to the National Conference on Citizenship

Various notions have been circulated by persons opposed to the school decisions. Basically they come down to this: that a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States interpreting the Constitution of the United States is something less than an authoritative expression of the law.

This is an unsound notion which causes misunderstanding and confusion.

When our forefathers, representing the sovereign people, established and ordained the Constitution, they provided that it "shall be the supreme law of the land." Obviously this is a fundamental concept.

The Mirror of Public Opinion

The Constitution, however, is brief and in many important respects is couched in general terms. It is, in Chief Justice Marshall's words, a charter of government "intended to endure for ages to come, and consequently to be adapted to the various crises of human affairs."

Article III provides that "the judicial power of the United States, shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish." To assure the supremacy of the Constitution, the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court was defined to extend to all controversies arising under the Constitution, including, specifically, those to which the states were party.

The establishment of this judicial power was essential to the new plan of government. The framers of our Constitution had experienced government under the Articles of Confederation, which made no provision for a federal judiciary. Under that system, as you will recall, each state jealously preserved the right to be the final judge of its own powers.

The framers were determined that this mistake should not be repeated. They concluded that if a nation were to be forged, an independent federal judiciary must be created to determine, among other things, the Constitutional rights of the individual in relation to one another and in relation to the United States.

The vital role that the court was intended to fill as the final arbiter in constitutional controversies was reaffirmed in the first Judiciary Act of 1789. That act, passed by a Congress in which the framers of the Constitution were the most prominent members, explicitly defined the Supreme Court's jurisdiction to adjudicate cases involving the claim that a state statute, or action taken pursuant to a state law, is repugnant to the Constitution.

The concept that the judiciary finally must determine challenges to the constitutionality of acts of the federal and state governments is central to our political structure. It provides the means by which constitutional conflicts are resolved, the means which enable us to remain a country of numerous states united in a single nation.

To come back to the school segregation cases, the clause in the Constitution which the court was called upon to interpret is the clause in the Fourteenth Amendment guaranteeing "the equal protection of the laws." The court, after long and careful deliberation and by unanimous decision, concluded that a segregated public school system violates that clause.

Of course, persons who disagree with decisions of the court interpreting constitutional rights are free to seek change by the orderly process of constitutional amendments. However, individuals may not determine for themselves when they will obey the decrees of the courts and when they will ignore them. Constitutional rights must not yield to defiance or lawlessness.

Liberty Bell, 1954

The Constitution provides that the President, members of Congress, other federal officials, and the governors, legislators and judicial officers of the states shall be "bound by oath or affirmation to support this Constitution." The duty embraced by the oath of office requires support of the Constitution, not as each individual officer, federal or state, believes it should or might be interpreted, but as it is interpreted by our courts. Similarly each person who owes his allegiance to the United States has this duty. Free government could not long exist otherwise.

The Supreme Court of North Carolina stated in a recent decision related to the school controversy:

". . . the Constitution of the United States takes precedence over the Constitution of North Carolina. . . . In the interpretation of the Constitution of the United States, the Supreme Court of the United States is the final arbiter. Its decision in the Brown case is the law of the land and will remain so unless reversed or altered by constitutional means."

The very court which made that statement had been long and deeply committed to the view that separation of the races in public schools was legally permissible. That did not for one moment blind it to the necessity of recognizing that the ultimate responsibility for interpreting provisions of the Federal Constitution is vested in the Supreme Court of the United States.

No one should overlook the fact that in certain areas of the country there are very difficult problems of adjustment and accommodation. But these difficulties, I am convinced, can be overcome—not, of course, by an attitude of defiance, which is futile and damaging—but by a determination on the part of men of good will to find constructive solutions within the guidelines marked out by the Supreme Court.

In summary, I think the following propositions are clear:

First. The Constitution is the supreme law of the land.

Second. Constitutional provisions take on meaning and content as they are interpreted and applied in specific cases.

Third. The Supreme Court, under our federal system of government, is charged with the ultimate responsibility of interpreting and applying the provisions of the Constitution and adjudicating specific rights which are asserted thereunder.

Fourth. If there is a disagreement with the Constitution as interpreted by the courts, the people have a right to change it by the orderly process of constitutional amendment.

Fifth. There is no right, however, to flout the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States. As the President said, "Every American must understand that if an individual, a community, or a state is going successfully and continuously to defy the Court then there will be anarchy."

Little People

THE MAGIC BARREL, by Bernard Malamud. (Farrar, Straus & Cudahy, 214 pgs., $3.75.)

It would be unfair to say that the author of "The Magic Barrel" is a promising young writer. Bernard Malamud is still young, but already he has won considerable recognition and respect for his skill as a storyteller. His two novels, "The Natural" and "The Assistant," have been highly praised for their originality and authenticity; his short stories are frequently published by leading literary magazines; and recently his talents were given official recognition in the form of an award from the National Institute of Arts and Letters.

Bernard Malamud

Malamud deserves this recognition and respect, for his talents are remarkable. "The Magic Barrel," a collection of 13 of his stories printed in various magazines, will doubtless win him an even wider audience. His stories are nearly always about "little people" — shopkeepers, janitors, tailors—who too often in contemporary fiction are either stereotyped nonentities or objects of synthetic pity. Fortunately, Malamud can be sympathetic without turning sentimental. His pity for their awkward strivings for love and dignity in a harsh world is restrained and chastened by his respect for their individuality.

Perhaps the best story in the collection is the one which gives the book its title. "The Magic Barrel" relates the efforts of a young rabbi to find a suitable wife. His ineptness and impracticality are deftly contrasted with the worldly wisdom of a marriage broker who claims to have so many listings of marriageable young ladies that he has to keeping his records in a barrel.

Bound Together

THE FIRST YEAR OF AMERICAN HERITAGE. (American Heritage, $15.)

Here, brought together in a single rugged binding, are the first six issues of the hard-cover magazine of American history, which is published every other month. The reprint issues are published exactly as they originally appeared, except that the six covers are reproduced on heavy paper. An exceedingly valuable feature is the cumulative index, which serves as key to the varied contents. The issues included: December, 1954, through October, 1955.

The chief interest of the story lies in the skillful depiction of the gulf that separates a young man with ideals from an older man who can think only of deals. The barrel soon loses its magic for the student, but the story's rare combination of realism and idealism works its own kind of magic.

War or Recognition for Peiping?

WASHINGTON.

THERE IS A SPREADING CONVICTION here that the end result of the Far East crisis must be either major war or a success for Communist China's almost psychotic campaign to muscle her way into the United Nations.

Since major war is a nearly unthinkable last resort, many are reaching the conclusion that the galling and terrible dose of American recognition of Red China must be swallowed sooner or later. This is reported not gladly, only factually. Recognition is the ultimate course being increasingly asked by some of our best friends among the Western allies. A considerable number of influential American politicians, particularly among the Democrats, are looking sadly and reluctantly and almost furtively in the same direction.

White

"Furtively" is used because the United States Government, through both the executive department and Congress, is massively and repeatedly committed against acknowledging the existence of a bandit regime.

Diplomatic Humiliation.

Those now speaking privately for a change in this policy are unimpeachably anti-Communists. And some of them, in both the foreign diplomatic and the American political communities, are actually quite conservative in their general political thinking.

To ask the United States to recognize Communist China is to ask us to accept an unexplained diplomatic humiliation —and an undoubtedly cynical accommodation.

These are the people who killed thousands of troops in Korea. These are the people who made unrepented war on the United Nations itself when the U.N. was fighting for collective security in Korea.

These are the people who conspired in the Communist seizure and theft of part of what used to be French Indochina. And these are the people who long ago drove our Nationalist Chinese ally, Chiang Kai-shek, out of mainland China and now distantly besiege him in his last island refuge of Formosa.

Even War for 'Face.'

All this is conceded by these foreign friends—and by those American politicians who now believe it must be faced up to —who press this bitter thing upon us.

Still, they point out that there is a mania in the determination of Red China to bludgeon the world into giving it a quasi-respectability by way of U.N. membership.

They are convinced that Peiping will set the world aflame, in a nuclear flame of total world war if necessary, before it will be long denied this mark of "face."

They believe that even the Russians, who are not notably sensitive about such things are becoming alarmed at how far Peiping might be prepared to go.

They acknowledge that recognition would mean the end of any kind of hope for Chiang beyond the hope of remaining on Formosa with our support.

They do not admit, however —and this is the whole kernel of their argument—that all this need mean the loss to the West of Formosa itself as an anchor in our security line.

No Real Power Loss.

They are suggesting that perhaps we could agree to neutralize the small off-Formosa islands—Quemoy and so on—but accompany this with an all-Western, and not merely American, proclamation that any Communist assault on Formosa itself would mean that we would all go in together, to the end, against that aggression.

They suggest, in a word, that the undeniably heavy loss of American prestige involved in recognition need not mean any net loss in American-Western power.

On the contrary, they say, this kind of settlement would put our Western allies actually on our side for the first time in the Formosa Strait. They are not with us there now, by any means.

This is the sort of proposal, wise or not, that is going to be increasingly heard in Washington by the time the new Congress assembles in January.

Knowland Off the Scene.

How that Congress may respond, should the Administration itself shift ground on recognition in the meantime, no one can say.

One thing, however, may be regarded as absolutely certain: The Senate's heretofore monolithic objection to any kind of recognition will be significantly, though not necessarily critically, weakened. The very heart of that objection has been in a hard Republican core centered around Senator William F. Knowland, the Republican floor leader.

Mr. Knowland, now a candidate for Governor of California, will not again be in a position to supply an adamant anti-recognition leadership. The power equation on the issue, in consequence, will be measurably altered.

MRS. RINEHART DIES, MYSTERY NOVELIST

Wrote Novel a Year for 40 Years—Was 82 Years Old.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (UPI) —Mary Roberts Rinehart, who averaged writing a mystery novel a year for 40 years, died last night in her sleep. She was 82 years old.

Mrs. Rinehart was wealthy from the time she published her first book, "The Circular Staircase." That novel alone was believed to have earned her up to $9,000,000 in stage, screen and television sales. It was dramatized under the title of "The Bat."

She was a prolific writer of not only mysteries but books with a medical theme. Her interest in that subject may be traced to the fact that she married Dr. Stanley M. Rinehart after training as a nurse herself. In World War I she served as a correspondent.

Mrs. Rinehart once described writing as "the hardest work in the world," but she continued to turn out her novels as late as her seventy-sixth year, when she published "The Swimming Pool," a mystery set in Bar Harbor, Me., where she had a home.

Even before publication of that book, it was estimated her novels had sold more than 10,000,000 copies in 13 languages. Most of the novels were serialized in magazines and many were made into movies and television productions.

Forced to Quit Work.

By the Associated Press.

At the age of 80, Mrs. Rinehart was forced to halt her literary work when she contracted writer's cramp.

This was a serious ailment for her, because she wrote all her books in longhand, using one favored fountain pen for 24 years. A painstaking craftsman, she polished her books laboriously, writing at least three drafts for every one. She was unable to write any other way.

While she was writing she followed a rigid schedule, working from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. She produced from 2000 to 6000 words each day.

She began her writing career because of a family setback. The panic of 1907 wiped out family investments and left the Rinehart's $12,000 in debt. She had three young sons at the time she started writing.

Her father, an inventor, committed suicide. Her mother, a helpless invalid, was accidentally scalded to death in her bath, unable to cry out for help. In 1932 her husband died.

Underwent Surgery 15 Times.

She herself underwent surgery 15 times, once for cancer. She survived four heart attacks and, against her doctor's advice, smoked a pack of cigarettes a day until the end of her life.

In 1947, Mrs. Rinehart was involved in real life violence as bizarre as anything in her books. Her 65-year-old Filipino chef, who had worked for her for 25 years, suddenly went berserk and tried to kill her at her Bar Harbor home. Other servants restrained him and she was unhurt. The next day the man hanged himself in jail.

Mrs. Rinehart was born in Pittsburgh in 1876. One of her high school teachers was Willa Cather, the great novelist.

Mrs. Rinehart was a director of Rinehart Co., publishers. Her three sons, all of whom live in the New York metropolitan area, are actively associated with the company—Stanley N. as president, Fred as vice president and Alan as a writer.

More and Better Instruction In Languages Foreseen by Nun

Educator Tells Catholic Women How Demands of Education for International Responsibility Will Be Met.

Tomorrow's classrooms may be a jungle of electronic apparatus with records, tapes and sound booths, from which students will emerge talking in Chinese, Russian and Arabic, Sister Mary Emil I. H. M., Washington (D. C.) educator said here last night.

Education for international responsibility and for survival, inseparable and urgently needed, will require increased teaching of foreign languages, she said.

Teaching facilities and techniques also will change to meet new demands, Sister Mary Emil told the convention of the National Council of Catholic Women at Kiel Auditorium.

"Your child will be handled by a team, with one kind of person making the closed circuit television presentations, another putting on his headphones in the language lab, and still another helping him over individual difficulties with his computing machine," she said.

One Ninth of U. S. Schools.

The nun, executive secretary of the Sister Formation Conference, National Catholic Educational Association, spoke on future trends in the nation's total educational system. The Catholic School system represents one ninth of the total system, she said.

The Catholic system sometimes goes along with the whole system, as when television teaching appears, Sister Mary Emil said.

"Sometimes we are dragged along as when electivism runs riot and we, too, let students substitute driver-training for English literature," she said. "Sometimes we take the lead, as when educators ask, 'How do you train a character, anyway?' and we can show an answer."

One point that is almost certain, she said, is that administration of schools will never again be left as completely to educators as in the past. Russia's apparent seizure upon education as a more important instrument of national strength than military weapons will cause the change, the sister said.

Grimmer, Less Carefree.

As industry and government offer more scholarships to talented students, the educational process will become grimmer and students less carefree, the nun said.

Other changes she said are likely to be seen in the nation's educational system include:

More difficult high-school curricula, with more emphasis on language, science and mathematics, with college-type instruction for the brightest students.

Lengthened school days and school years, "and in spite of this, the number of years of schooling for the average American will surely increase."

Completion of junior college or community college having the same importance as completion of high school today.

Morals of Motoring.

Moral aspects of motor car operation were discussed yesterday by the Rev. James J. Schlafly M.A., director of safety education Diocese of Kansas City-St. Joseph, at a session on traffic safety.

The city street or country highway affords the motorist "a broad field for the practice of Christion charity," Father Schlafly said. "Behind every reasonable traffic regulation stands the moral law ordering us to safeguard our life and that of our neighbor from unnecessary danger.

"If I may borrow a slogan used at the President's Conference for Traffic Safety, 'Christians should drive like Christians, not like the Devil.'"

The five-day convention, attended by about 3500 delegates, ends tomorrow. Workshops and conferences on a variety of subjects are being conducted at morning and afternoon sessions.

UNITED FUND AIDS POLIO VICTIM IN REALIZING CAREER

A 50-year-old poliomyelitis victim was aided in achieving her life-time desire of a career in medicine through the Vocational Counseling Service of St. Louis, a United Fund agency, a spokesman for the Fund reported today.

Mrs. Y came to the Vocational Counseling Service on the recommendation of a psychiatrist. Interviews with a counseling service worker disclosed that she was in desperate need of financial help, but that her crippled condition made her extremely shy and unsure of herself.

Further discussion of her problem revealed that she had once hoped to become a doctor, but was never able to afford the training. As a result of the interviews, arrangements were made for Mrs. Y to train as a medical technician through the Missouri State Rehabilitation Service.

The United Fund is currently conducting its fund-raising campaign.

Morelan was stopped at a motel near Colbert, Okla., last April 5, when fire broke out in a neighboring restaurant. With the aid of another truck driver, Morelan broke down a locked rear door and pulled out a man who was overcome by smoke.

NEW PAINTING MAY BE ART, BUT IS IT MARGARET?

"Oh," said Crozier, "that's not a schooner, that's the Princess's unfulfilled love."

"I spent six months just studying the Princess," Crozier explained. He said he made sketches at concerts and at theaters and often stood outside Clarence House, her London home, just to catch a glimpse of her.

Ashburn Gains Batting Lead as 31 Bucs Fan, Set Two Records

Phillies Capture Twin Bill

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23 (AP)—Richie Ashburn, his bat busy again, has regained the lead from Willie Mays in the National League's tightest race for the batting title since 1954—the year Mays won on the last day of the season.

Ashburn, hitless in three games, swept back into the top spot with a 6-for-10 surge that paid off with a twi-night doubleheader sweep for Philadelphia over the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Phils won the opener, 3-2, in 14 innings, then took the nightcap, 1-0, as 31 Bucs fanned and broke two strikeout records.

Those were the only two games scheduled in the National League yesterday. Baltimore defeated Washington 2-0, a record-tying fourth consecutive shutout defeat for the Senators, in the only American League game scheduled.

Ashburn Gains 5 Points.

Ashburn, whose only batting title came in 1955, picked up five points after going 4-for-4 in the second game for a .343 average. That's one percentage point ahead of the idle Mays, who had .342 after a hot weekend for San Francisco. Mays has five games left, Ashburn four.

The St. Louis Cardinals' Stan Musial, third with .335, has five games left.

Willie was third on the next to last day of the season in '54, but had three hits in the final game for a .345. Teammate Don Mueller had two hits and finished second at .342. Duke Snider of the Dodgers was hitless on the last day and wound up third at .341.

Ashburn, 0-for-11 before getting his 200th hit last night, scored the only run of the nightcap in the seventh inning. He beat out a bunt and stole second. Then he sped all the way home as Pirate Second Baseman Bill Mazeroski struggled to gain his balance after making a nice stop on Ted Kazanski's infield hit.

Jack Sanford (10-13) was the winner with a seven-hitter for his first complete game since July 4, when he beat Milwaukee, 4-0. The big right-hander, last season's Rookie of the Year, hadn't won as a starter since July 30.

Sanford struck out 10, for the total of 31 Pirate strikeouts—a major league record by one club in a doubleheader, including one extra-inning game. The Bucs fanned 21 times in the opener, a major league record for an extra-inning contest.

Morehead Fans 12.

Bobby Young, who had homered in the first inning, scored the tie-breaker in the opener for the Phils, going home on Dave Philley's single off loser Ron Kline (13-16), who went all the way. Jack Meyer (2-6) won it in relief. He fanned seven in his three innings after starter Seth Morehead had struck out 12 in nine innings and Dick Farrell had whiffed two in two innings.

Bennie Daniels (0-3) matched Sanford's seven-hitter for the nightcap defeat.

The old record for most strikeouts by one team in a twin-bill involving an extra-inning game was 27, set by the then Brooklyn Dodgers June 30 last year against the Cubs. The old St. Louis Browns of the American League struck out 20 times in 15 innings against Washington July 25, 1913, for the former one-team, extra-inning game record.

The Senators' fourth straight shutout defeat tied a major league record in which five other clubs have figured: The Browns in 1913, Cincinnati in 1908 and 1931, the Boston Red Sox in 1906, the Boston Braves in 1906 and the Philadelphia Athletics in 1906.

Cards at L.A.

The Cardinals play the final week of the season on the West Coast, starting tonight with a game at Los Angeles. Sam Jones is scheduled to be the Cardinal starter. The Dodgers' probable pitcher is Don Drysdale. The Redbirds conclude the season in a series at San Francisco.

Frisch's Double Was Purely Occidental to Japan's Bozo

By Jack Rice

The promotion of the Cardinals' trip to Japan has included the presence in town recently of Henry Wakabayashi, called "Bozo" everywhere he goes because that name sounds the same and saves time in any language. Bozo is a retired Japanese national hero, a right-hand pitcher of great durability and honored record.

Touring United States baseball players in Japan are familiar, impressive scenery to Bozo. He has pitched in exhibition games against Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Rabbit Maranville, Jimmy Foxx, Lefty O'Doul, Mickey Cochrane and some of the younger sprouts. Bozo is 51 and his better baseball memories are pre-war.

He was an interesting man to Cardinal players. Hitters sidled up to him and asked about Japanese pitchers. Pitchers sidled up to him and asked about Japanese hitters. Bozo stood and smiled and said, "Pretty good" to all sidlers. If asked for details he provided them. Bozo and the representative of the Japanese promoters, Yetsuo Higa, don't want to be boastful. Neither do they want the Cardinals to arrive in Japan complacent and be rocked silly early in the competition. Bozo and Higa have a delicate task, conditioning the Cardinals.

English Twist.

One of the saltiest Cardinals ever, Frank Frisch, once batted against Bozo's pitching in Japan. The one-time manager of the Cardinals Gashouse Gang came to bat at a universally appreciated moment—two out, bases loaded. What followed was a plain triumph over Oriental pitching by Occidental luck.

"I came in as a relief pitcher against Frisch," Bozo said. "Two fast drops, I get two strikes. Frank was batting righthanded against me. Finally he turns around and bats left and I waste two pitches. Then I think he is ripe for another fast drop, at the knees. I throw and he drops his bat and the ball hits it. A double. It was an English—you know, with reverse spin down the third base line."

Bozo's Frisch story contains the moral of Bozo's life, only slightly over-simplified. Moral: accidents have the strangest endings.

Bozo is a Nisei, born at Honolulu in 1907. He drifted to Japan with an Island baseball barnstorming team in 1928 and he stayed while the Japanese drifted toward war with the United States. Bozo was not politically unconcious. He just happened to be much more pitching-conscious during the war-building years. He was willing and eager to play baseball in the United States but no American team ever made the money sound as good. Any red-blooded pitcher understands why Bozo returned to Japanese baseball, telling himself when he thought about it at all that the generals were just making a salary drive and weren't really serious. Too late, he learned they were. He spent World War II as an American citizen playing pro baseball in Japan. He had to win.

"Besides," said Bozo, "I married a Japanese girl. When I finished the barnstorming trip in Japan in 1928 Hosei University at Tokyo offered me a baseball scholarship. Hosei is a member of the Big Six, just like your Big Ten, only instead of football they have baseball. They sent me to a Japanese high school for a year. That regains my amateur status. Japanese schools are very strict about college amateur status, just like your football schools." He seemed serious.

"When I got out of school and turned professional my father-in-law wanted to disown me. He said, 'What the heck, I give you money to spend'." Bozo explained: "He's a millionaire. He makes sake. The best."

Managers All Same.

Wakabayashi pitched professionally in Japan for 19 years. He won 240 games and lost 130 in 15 years with the Osaka Tigers. He managed four years and when the international fate of managers caught up with him he turned to soft drinks, handling a franchise for Higa's distribution of an American cola in Japan.

During his years in Japanese baseball Bozo was an important man in the formation of a Players' League, a pension fund, and establishment of a Commissioner's Office with an effective commissioner. Japanese baseball players once could have given American football coaches lessons in tearing up contracts.

Good business principles have made honorable baseball in Japan so Americanized that a pitcher, Shoichi Kaneda, draws 9,000,000 yen a year and a college player, Shigeo Nagashima, signed last year for 20,000,000 yen. Translated, it's still good. Kaneda gets $27,000 a year and Nagashima signed for $50,000. They could be anybody's son-in-law.

Suspended Trainer Exonerated

Bert Neunlist, Olney (Ill.) trainer, suspended last Friday by Fairmount Park stewards on an alleged "doping" charge, was exonerated at a meeting of the Illinois Racing Board held at Chicago yesterday.

The board, after listening to testimony, decided that the horse, Fire Mac, winner of last Wednesday's ninth race, had not been stimulated and for that reason Neunlist was given a clean bill of health.

The horse, owned by Edgar Kessler of Hamilton, O., was making its first start of the Fairmount meet and paid $8.40 for $2 to win.

The stewards, Clyde Trott, Sterling Hudson and David L. Russell, suspended Neunlist and Owner Kessler after a report from Y. T. Oerter, chief chemist of the Illinois Racing Board, had reported that a saliva sample contained caffeine.

Share Bowling Lead.

The Lindenbusch bowlers gained a 3-0 victory over Kutis to tie Sun Crest for first place in the Metropolitan Classic Scratch League last night at Bowl-Mor. Lindenbusch had top team scores of 1075 and 3140.

Bill Bezdek rolled a 662 high individual total to pace Sun Crest to a 2-1 win over Parentes. Other team results: Pellins 2, Engene Monnigs 1; Cuquets 2, Cliff Antons 1; Phelim O'Tooles 2, Beckeries 1. Frank Carter had a 247 high single.

Duck Hunters: 'Look Hard, Shoot Slower'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—Duck hunters were urged today to "look a little harder and shoot a little slower" so that more canvasbacks and redheads will be spared for next year's nesting.

Ross Leffler, Assistant Secretary of the Interior for Fish and Wildlife, said that more care also would considerably reduce crippling losses of all species of ducks.

Discussing this year's special restrictions on harvesting of canvasbacks and redheads, Leffler said similar limitations on shooting of certain specified species may be a normal thing in the future.

"Some years are good for early nesters and bad for late nesters and sometimes it is just the opposite," he explained. "Some ducks try again if their nest is destroyed, others will not renest. These traits and other eventualities mean that in future years there may be an ample supply of some species and a severe shortage of others, and hunting regulations will have to be fixed accordingly."

He attributed the unfavorable canvasback and redhead situation this year primarily to a combination of heavy hunting pressure and three successive years in which conditions in the nesting areas were adverse.

Duck hunters in the Atlantic, Mississippi and Pacific flyways will be limited this year to not more than two canvasbacks and redheads in the aggregate in the daily bag and not more than four in the aggregate in possession.

Nelson on Star Team 5th Time

MONTREAL, Sept. 23 (UPI)—Rocky Nelson of the Toronto Maple Leafs, winner of the International League's triple batting crown and the most valuable player award, has been named to the league's All-Star team for a record fifth time.

The second-place Leafs also placed another man on the first team while pennant-winning Montreal had four representatives. Columbus placed two men on the squad, and Havana, Richmond and Miami had one each.

Nelson was the only unanimous choice on the team, receiving all 33 votes for first base cast by the league's baseball writers. The 33-year-old slugger batted .326 during the regular campaign, hitting 43 homers and driving in 120 runs.

Outfielders are Solly Drake of Montreal, Jim Pendleton of Columbus and Deron Johnson of Richmond.

Bennie Daniels of Columbus (14-6) was selected the league's best righthanded pitcher and Tom LaSorda of Montreal (18-6) was the lefthanded choice for the team. Toronto's Tim Thompson is the catcher.

Toronto Gains Victory.

TORONTO, Sept. 23 (UPI)—The Toronto Maple Leafs, who have collected 31 hits in their last two playoff games, hope to continue their heavy bombardment tonight when they face the Montreal Royals in the fourth game of the International League's Governors' Cup final.

After dropping the first two games of the best-of-seven series, the Maple Leafs ripped four Montreal pitchers for 15 hits in gaining a 9-3 victory last night. They had totaled 16 safeties in losing the second game, 10-9.

For tonight's important fourth contest, Toronto Manager Dixie Walker planned to start Jack Crimian, veteran right-hander who had a 15-7 record during the regular season. The Royals are expected to counter with Billy Harris, who has won 10 straight games, including three in the playoffs.

Ed Blake cooled off the Royals last night, allowing only three hits over the first seven innings. He wound up with a seven-hitter. Blake also starred at bat, blasting a home run and two singles, knocking in two runs and scoring a pair.

Rocky Nelson and Archie Wilson also homered for the Leafs, while Bob Lennon hit a solo blast for Montreal.

Grid Team Wanted.

Illinois Gridders Given Day of Rest

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Sept. 23 (AP) — Coach Ray Eliot yesterday gave his Illinois football players a day off "to get their snap back."

"They've worked hard for three weeks and need a rest," he said.

Tackles Don Yeazel and Cliff Roberts, and Halfback Joe Krakoski, who missed Saturday's scrimmage with leg injuries, are expected to rejoin the squad.

Guard Bill Burell, still hampered by a hip bruise, may have to miss the Illini's opener with U.C.L.A. Saturday.

Don Fuell Will Enter Nebraska

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 23 (UPI) — Don Fuell, star athlete in a recruiting scandal which led to his lifetime ban in the Southeastern Conference and a three-year probation for Auburn, left for the University of Nebraska yesterday to accept a football scholarship.

"I'm quite sure he has left," Athletic Director Jeff Beard said. "We talked about the scholarship he was offered at Nebraska last week. I told him he could stay here and get his education or go to the Big Eight and play football."

Fuell was a widely-sought quarterback. He enrolled two years ago at Auburn where he was expected to bolster the unbeaten Tigers this fall as a sophomore.

But the National Collegiate Athletic Association placed Auburn on three years' probation for alleged inducements offered the 20-year-old youth to enroll at Auburn and the S.E.C. followed with a lifetime ban on his participation in athletic competion within the conference.

Circuit Judge J. Russell McElroy ruled at Birmingham last week he did not have jurisdiction to hear Fuell's appeal for a writ of mandamus to force the S.E.C. to reinstate him.

The S.E.C. ban would not affect his participation in sports outside the conference although as a transfer student, Fuell would be ineligible for a year.

Remember? 5...15...25 Years Ago

1933—Guillermo (Memo) Luna, slender 23-year-old Mexican lefthander, was bought by the Cardinals for cash and players reported in excess of $75,000. Luna compiled a 17-10 record and had a 2.69 earned-run average in the Pacific Coast League. . . . Satchel Paige pitched the Browns to a 7-3 victory at Detroit, where Marty Marion's last place club beat Fred Hutchinson's sixth-place team a tenth time in 11 tries.

Eddie Haefler starred as Normandy High School opened the local prep football season with a 12-0 victory over Beaumont.

Frick's Condition Good Following Appendix Operation

BRONXVILLE, N.Y., Sept. 23 (UPI)—Ford Frick, 63, commissioner of baseball, underwent an emergency appendectomy during the night at Lawrence Hospital and his condition today was listed as "good."

"The commissioner underwent the operation during the night. His condition today is good," a hospital spokesman said.

Frick was taken to the hospital last night after he suddenly became ill.

Frick, a former sports writer, became commissioner in 1951 after serving as National League president. In 1957, the 16 major league owners voted unanimously to retain him as commissioner until Sept. 21, 1965, but failed to give him a raise. He receives $65,000 a year.

Frick's main concern in recent years has been to try to curb telecasting of major league games into minor league territories. He also is in favor of expansion of the current eight-team National and American League setups into 12-club circuits.

WICHITA, Kan., Sept. 23 (UPI) — Bruce Drake, former Oklahoma University basketball coach who coached the Wichita Vickers to the co-championship of the National Industrial Basketball League last season, has resigned to enter private business in Oklahoma, it was announced today.

Drake has been a coach nearly 30 years.

QB's Calls Defended By Coach

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 23—The Missouri Tigers, who gained but six yards carrying the ball on five fourth-down situations against Vanderbilt last week, set about today to improve their goal-line offense before the Idaho Vandals play here Saturday. The game will be at 2:30 (St. Louis time).

Offense was the main order of the day by Coach Dan Devine, who also hopes to provide instruction on defense against open field possibilities of Tiger opponents. Lack of team speed, he said, makes it imperative that Missouri not give opponents a chance to get started on long gains.

Devine found some encouragement and some disappointment in the Tigers' 12-8 loss to Vanderbilt Saturday, and is looking for another "big tough team, hard to score against" in the Vandal game. He said it took a "aliant fourth quarter by Oregon for a 27-0 win over Idaho last week, and recalls that four Vandals were drafted by professional football a year ago and Missouri had no players considered worthy of draft consideration.

Blames Kicking.

Devine placed blame for Missouri's loss to Vanderbilt on the Tiger kicking game, together with lack of team speed in halting David Ray's 81-yard touchdown dash after a punt. It appeared to the Tiger coach, who had the best seat in the house to see the play, that Ray was blocked out of bounds at midfield on that touchdown run by Norris Stevenson, Tiger sophomore back.

(Don Faurot, athletic director at Missouri U., will show filmed highlights from the Mizzou-Vanderbilt game tonight at 10:45 on KSD-TV.)

Devine had praise for his junior quarterback, Phil Snowden, who he thought called a good game. He blamed failure to score in four tries from the nine-yard line early in the second quarter on poor execution rather than faulty play calling.

"Snowden on previous short-down situations had tried Hank Kuhlmann and a single-wing wedge without results," Devine explained. "So he tried to find something else that would work." And, he added, a good team would have scored, no matter what signal had been called.

Punt Backfired.

He thought Bob Haas, reserve quarterback, used good judgment, too, in letting Jerry Curtright punt, a play that backfired when Curtright's punt carried six yards to give the Commodores the ball on the Tiger 12 and set up what proved to be the winning counter.

"Curtright gets off a punt faster than anyone on the team," he said. "If I had called the signal, I would have had Haas punt. But Curtright should have been the best guy."

Devine said that Dale Pidcock, senior end from St. Louis Southwest High School, suffered a knee injury so severe in the opening minute of the Vanderbilt game that he will be out for the season. He is to undergo surgery tomorrow on the knee cartilege. Because of his limited competition, Missouri can ask the Big Eight Conference to restore his eligibility next year under a hardship rule.

His absence will promote Dan LaRose, Crystal City sophomore, to the No. 1 team, with Joe Rittman of Lee's Summit and Jack Kirkpatrick of Overland backing him up.

LaRose blocked a punt Saturday. Devine also metnioned Mel West and Stephenson as doing a good job as sophomores.

Films of the game showed that a second punt was blocked by Jim Miles, sophomore linebacker from St. Louis.

"We'll have to keep working to correct our mistakes," Devine said. "Eight points should have won for us. The way we play our defense eight points should be enough. But it is a completely new defense and we made mistakes.

Devine said a Tiger bid for a win kept Charlie Rash from attempting his twenty-seventh point conversion after the Tigers' fourth-quarter touchdown.

"We trailed by four points, and went for two points after the touchdown in hope of getting the ball again and setting up a field goal try that would have won," Devine said. But the Tigers never got their hands on the ball again in the final seven minutes of the game after they had pulled up to within striking distance.

Seven Tigers played three-quarters or more, pointing to the lack of depth on the squad.

Jay Lost To Braves For Series

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 23 (AP)—An injury, believed at first to be only minor, has deprived Joey Jay of a chance to pitch for the Milwaukee Braves, in the World Series.

Jay, a 23-year-old right-hander, underwent surgery here last night on the fractured ring finger of his left hand and will be out for the rest of the season. The finger was injured at St. Louis last Wednesday when Jay was struck on the gloved hand by Irv Noren's hot liner.

Manager Fred Haney said he had been counting on Jay as his third starter in the Series.

"Jay had the stuff to give the Yankees trouble," Said Haney. "His fast and slow curves, plus a good fast ball, should have been effective against them."

Jay, 7-5 for the season with an earned run average of 2.13, had been scheduled to start here tonight against Philadelphia, but was replaced by Bob Rush.

The Braves have asked Commissioner Ford Frick to permit the placing of Ernie Johnson on the Series eligibility list in lieu of Jay. Johnson, recently recalled from Wichita, was effective against the Yanks last year in a relief capacity, though losing.

America Cup Yachts Get a Day of Rest

NEWPORT, R.I., Sept. 23 (UPI)—Britain's challengers for the sailboating championship they lost to America in Queen Victoria's day decided today to wait for a breeze stiff enough to move their boat.

The British contenders begged off racing again today after yesterday's deflating contest for the America's Cup ended with the race called off because neither boat could finish within the required five and one-half hours.

Both the American Columbia and Britain's Sceptre had been hoping for a real blow off Newport Harbor in September. So far, the wind has been scarcely enough to waft a feather, let alone a 70-foot sloop.

The United States still led by a 1-0 margin in this world series of sailing with the victor taking the first four of a possible seven races.

Helmsman Briggs Cunningham on Columbia, was walking away with a second race yesterday but he wasn't walking fast enough. When the race was canceled, the American boat led by about the same half-mile margin by which it won the opener Saturday.

The Britons made a battle of it for a time though, yesterday. They grabbed the lead after being out-maneuvered at the start. Then Skipper Graham Mann had to witness the painful sight of Columbia once again overtaking his boat and going ahead.

Wednesday's renewed racing will be over the same 24-mile triangular course that found both craft still four miles from the finish line at time limit.

Bonus Law Committee To Confer

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (UPI)—Major league officials will meet today to try to draft a new baseball bonus rule "with teeth" in it and possible $10,000 limit.

Some of the officials said there was "an excellent chance" that a new rule would be adopted for next year although today's session will be given over solely to recommendations.

Two committees were named in Chicago, Sept. 9, to study the bonus situation and offer a possible solution. Bing Devine of the Cardinals, Joe L. Brown of the Pirates and Chub Feeney of the Giants, were designated to the National League committee, while Frank Lane of the Indians, Parke Carroll of the Athletics, and Bill Walsingham of the Orioles, were named from the American League.

Also named was a minor league committee which is supposed to work together with the major league groups.

The old bonus rule was abolished last December and now the sky is the limit when it comes to signing young prospects.

Commissioner Ford Frick expressed his concern over the payment of more than $6,000,000 to untried youngsters by hungry major league operators and said there is "great need" for a new rule with "teeth in it."

No official action will be taken at today's meeting. However, all recommendations will be submitted at the major-minor meetings in Washington this December when a new rule is expected to be adopted.

Red Sox Recall Eight Minor League Players

BOSTON, Sept. 23 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox announced the purchase of the contracts of eight players from affiliated minor league clubs.

General Manager Joe Cronin called up five players from Minneapolis of the American Assn., two from Memphis of the Southern Assn. and Catcher Joe Theis from Raleigh of the Carolina League.

If Green stays with the parent club he will be the first Negro player in history to make the Red Sox roster.

Jack Tingle Dies; Kentucky and Pro Basketball Player

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 23 (UPI)—Robert Jackson (Jack) Tingle, 33, former University of Kentucky and professional basketball player, died of cancer last night at a hospital here.

A native of Bedford, Ky., Tingle made the All-Southeastern Conference team four consecutive years beginning in 1944—one of three U. of K. players in history to achieve the honor.

He later played professionally for the Washington Capitols, the Minneapolis Lakers and the New York Nationals.

Vandy's Dandy

By Dukes Duford and Amadee

Dave Ray's 81-yard punt return for a touchdown against Missouri must have warmed the heart of his coach, Art Guepe, because Guepe, when he played at Marquette University, was one of the finest run-back men in the nation. From Missouri's 27-yard-line Phil Snowden punted to Vanderbilt's 25. The ball rolled to the 19 where Ray picked it up, took a few steps to his left, then cut sharply to his right. Nearing the farther sideline Ray was hit by Norris Stevenson and almost forced out of bounds. Meantime Vanderbilt teammates had formed a screen and Ray cut sharply to his left again and, running diagonally, he outraced all to the end zone.

Hutchinson Offered Dual Job on Coast

SEATTLE, Wash., Sept. 23 (UPI)—Fred Hutchinson was offered the dual job of manager and general manager of the Seattle Rainiers of the Pacific Coast League.

The offer was made by Emil Sick, owner of the baseball club, at a meeting here. Dewey Soriano, who has been general manager for five years, would take another job in the organization.

Hutchinson, fired last week as manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, was offered a "major league salary" to take the job. However, he said he had promised to talk to a few major league clubs before accepting any post.

Soriano expressed satisfaction at the arrangement, saying "all we want is Hutch back. This is the way it can be done."

Soriano said that combining the two jobs of field manager and general manager enabled Sick to make Hutchinson a large salary offer.

Gallant Man's Leg Injured; May Be Out for the Year

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—Trainer John Nerud said that Gallant Man had suffered a leg injury and would be unable to meet Round Table and other horses in the $100,000-added Woodward Stakes, Saturday at Belmont Park. He may be through with racing for the season.

Gallant Man, a 4-year-old and one of the top candidates for 1958 horse of the year honors, was out for a gallop Sunday at Belmont and later was found to be lame.

Ralph Lowe of Texas, recently sold a three quarters interest in Gallant Man to a syndicate headed by Leslie Combs II of Lexington, Ky., for $1,000,000. Gallant Man is English bred and Irish raised.

Nerud said a splint had developed on the colt's left front leg. It is not a serious injury, being a bony growth on the cannon bone.

The trainer said that treatment would be started, but that in any case it would not be possible to get Gallant Man back in training before Nov. 10.

Rochester to Keep George Sisler Jr.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 23 (UPI)—The executive committee of Rochester Community Baseball, Inc., announced today that George Sisler Jr. would remain as general manager of the International League club for 1959.

The announcement definitely spiked a rumor that Walter Shannon of the St. Louis Cardinals organization might replace Sisler.

The action of the executive committee still is subject to the approval of the R.C.B. board of directors which meets early in October.

"We are very pleased with Sisler's performance as general manager this year," the committee said. "We will be happy to have him with us again next season."

Terms were expected to be the same as those which existed this year, Sisler's fourth with the Red Wings. He replaced Vaughan (Bing) Devine in 1955.

CYC Soccer Entries Close Next Monday

The deadline for teams to enter the C.Y.C. soccer leagues has been extended until next Monday night when a managers meeting will be held at the C.Y.C. office.

Thursday is the deadline for teams desiring to enter the national open and amateur cup competition. There will be a managers meeting Thursday night at 7 o'clock at which time the draw for the Missouri tournament will be made. A referees meeting is scheduled at 8:30.

Newcomers Look Good To Phillip

Julius McCoy, rookie from Michigan State who has been in service two years, is one of the rookies making an impression in the early work of the St. Louis Hawks pro basketball squad.

"All of our rookies have looked good so far but you can't tell a thing unless you see them in competition," commented Coach Andy Phillip.

"McCoy's a great shooter, probably one of the best ever to try for a pro job. But he's got to switch from a forward spot to the backline, and he needs plenty of work on his passing and playmaking."

Phillip, starting his first year as a coach after 12 years as a player in the National Basketball Association, has set a once-a-day workout for the squad this week. The Hawks play the first of three intra-squad games Saturday night at Edwardsville, Ill.

Of the 16 men on the squad only four are rookies. They are McCoy, Tom Hart of Middlebury, Vt., College, who played with McCoy and Frank Selvy in service; Dave Gambee of Oregon State, the Hawks' top draft choice, and Hub Reed, Oklahoma City U. star.

Shapiro Team Wins

Morris Shapiro and cousin Harry Shapiro Jr. shot a low net of 45 over the 14-hole route of the competition to win a Meadowbrook Country Club two-man team golf tournament.

Muhl Stubs His Toe, Indians Face Ladue

By Harold Tuthill

Helping the opposition dedicate a stadium is one of life's little coaching problems, University City's veteran Stub Muhl reflected today as he prepared his Indians for their next football game.

University City will play at Ladue Saturday in what should be one of the real high spots in high school competition this fall. The Indians lost, 13-6, at Mattoon, Ill., last Friday, and it was then that the new field dedication was a factor.

"We met a good team that definitely was as high as it could be," Muhl said. "Mattoon ran hard and did quite a lot of spread work in the victory."

At that University City might have made a better showing, had it not been for the absence of key players. Stan Shapiro, starting tackle, may be out for the season because of an illness. Bill Lochhead, the regular fullback, also was sick. Stan Radinsky, reserve halfback, was injured in the Beaumont game the week previous and will be out for an indefinite period.

In addition, Len Raiffie, a good, all-round athelete, dislocated his shoulder against Mattoon and will be out for a month.

"We missed that little, fast halfback to maneuver," Muhl said.

Muhl disclosed that a return contract with Mattoon calls for a meeting here on a corresponding date in 1959.

There will be a lot of new faces in the University City and Mattoon lineups a year from now, according to Muhl, because both schools have largely senior personnel.

What Might Have Been.

Webster Groves also lost a seven-pointer, 14-7, at Quincy, Ill., although Ray Moss, Statesman coach, believes the game easily could have ended in a tie.

"Nelson Crenshaw ran to Quincy's three-yard line with about a minute and a half to play," Moss said. "We fumbled on the second play, Quincy taking over."

Moss looks for Webster to be improved when it meets Springfield, Mo., Parkview here Saturday in Parkview's opening game. Moss expects Al McArter, Maplewood Legion baseball star, to show up better in his quarterback assignment. Ray Hipp, a 200-pound member of the same Legion team, also is getting a better grasp of the football requirements, and, in addition, John Earnhardt, right halfback, out with illness, probably will return to face Parkview.

Footnote to Victory.

Give credit where credit is due. Du Bourg's 10-7 victory over Kirkwood came about because Ernest Benecke kicked a field goal from the 20-yard line, making it a 30-yard effort, counting the distance to the goal posts. The Du Bourg "spotter" in the press box erroneously identified the kicker as Dave Kroupa, the Cavaliers' classy halfback.

For years high school teams go along without scoring a field goal but last week there were three of them—by Benecke, by Jim Saffley (12 yards) of Wellston and by G. White of Springfield, Ill., Lanphier.

Benecke and White won for their teams, and Saffley's placement gave Wellston a 3-0 lead which it failed to hold, Clayton winning, 6-3.

C.B.C. Runners Win

C.B.C. defeated Kirkwood, 27 to 30, yesterday in a high school cross country track meet at Forest Park. John Reilly of C.B.C. was first, Bob Press of Kirkwood second, Charles Steib and Carl Muckler, both C.B.C., third and fourth. C.B.C.'s record is 3-0.

Floating Defense's Success Dooms Split T, Crisler Says

(This is the first of a series by an outstanding football authority, who played at the University of Chicago, coached at Minnesota, Princeton and Michigan and is now chairman of the Football Rules Committee).

By Fritz Crisler
Michigan U. Athletic Director

Formations are just a passing fad. That is the first point to make when you are considering trends in football.

Another is that really new formations are seldom introduced.

True, the T became popular in the 1940s after the success Clark Shaughnessy had with it at Stanford and California.

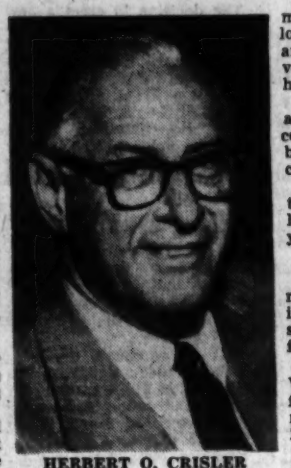
But, Alonzo Stagg also had used the T or variations of it with Chicago back in 1903. He had pitchouts and traps and laterals. The play diagrams were very much the same as they are today.

When the T became popular, you had to put it in or be considered "backward."

That's exactly what I did at Michigan, and we called it the "Alumni T," because it was put in just to satisfy alumni "experts". We only had a few T plays, and our quarterbacks were instructed not to use them much. That kept the old grads from saying "Crisler wasn't progressive".

Switch by Wilkinson.

The Split T is just a fad, too. Coaches apparently are getting away from it now because of the floating defenses being successfully developed. The Split T shows itself or "commits" to one side and there is no effective way of getting back. So, you are getting the pursuit or the float as a successful defensive counter.



HERBERT O. CRISLER

Right after the Oklahoma-Notre Dame game, Sooner Coach Bud Wilkinson cut out the balance in his Split T attack. He was unbalanced even as much as 5-1 in his Orange Bowl game.

You will probably find more coaches going unbalanced this year and maybe to some sort of single-wing offense.

Don't forget, whenever someone introduces or brings back a formation and wins with it, those who have been losing will jump on the bandwagon. That is why so many took up the T during the war.

Then, Wilkinson had great success with the Split T and many coaches who had been losing, swung to that. But, there are no formations guaranteeing victory. It is the horses you have that count.

While coaches, of course, like anything that wins for them, certain formations naturally are better adapted to exploit specific material than others.

With the T and the Split T, the trend has been for big linemen who stand up and give you that quick brush block.

Great Thinkers in Game.

Although really new techniques are few and far between in football, there have been some great thinkers who influenced the game.

There were Stagg, Rockne, Warner, and Doc Williams, offensively. Defensively, you cannot overlook Yost and Bob Zuppke.

Zuppke is remembered by many for his flea flicker plays and offensive strategy like that, but in our Michigan-Illinois games, he always gave me fits on defense. I never knew what he would come up with. He was one of the original defensive strategists.

Rockne, of course, was a great inspirationalist. So was Bill Roper at Princeton. But now, fight talks have gone out of style.

Even during my own coaching career that change came about. I tried to get my teams fired up during my early years at Minnesota and Princeton. But, later on at Michigan, I followed the general pattern and changed.

St. Clair Pro Wins P.G.A. Senior Trip

Clarke Morse, scoring a par 4 on the first extra hole to break a tie, became the St. Louis area qualifier for the expense-paid trip to the P.G.A.'s national senior golf tournament next January at Dunedin, Fla.

Morse, of Belleville's St. Clair club, shot rounds of 73-73, and tied Jim Fogertey, Sunset (71-75), over the regulation 36-hole distance of the trial. After the second round yesterday at Glen Echo Country Club, Fogertey bowed out with a bogey 5 on the 37th hole.

Bob Riley, Forest Park, and Lou Miller, Lockhaven, Alton, finished in a third-place tie with 159. Fred Clarkson, Glen Echo, and Fred Betts, St. Louis Country Club, withdrew from the second round.

Injury Ends U.C.L.A. Tackle's Grid Career

Coach George Dickerson disclosed that Dawson re-injured his shoulder and is through. Dawson had the shoulder operated on after injuring it last year, and was hurt again in the game against Pittsburgh Saturday.

Double Pays $1579 To Nine Bettors

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 23 (AP)—The second highest daily double in the history of Beulah Park race track returned $1579.80 to nine $2 bettors.

Granite Maid scored in the first race, a six-furlong sprint for 3 and 4-year-old maidens, with Jockey Willie Hubbard up. Granite Maid paid $69.40 for a $2 win ticket.

Jockey Ken Durbin rode Brooms Streak, a 10-1 shot, to victory in the second race.

Coincidentally, the "Broom" theme was a carryover from the record daily double payoff at Beulah. A horse named Bamboo Broom, coupled with one called Tropical Sun, returned $1591.20 in the daily double, May 2, 1943.

KARSTEN IN FAVOR OF 8TH, OLIVE SITE

The decision to erect a new federal office building on Market street immediately west of Kiel Auditorium should be reconsidered, United States Representative Frank M. Karsten (Dem.), St. Louis, declared yesterday. He contended that it would be much better to tear down the old Federal Building at Eighth and Olive streets and use that site.

Following a study of potential sites in the downtown area, the General Services Administration last February announced that it had selected the block bounded by Market, Walnut, Fifteenth and Sixteenth streets.

Suit to condemn this site has been filed. Congress has appropriated $11,641,000 to finance construction and architects have been employed to draft the plans.

The Government has not decided what to do with the old building at Eighth and Olive, the right to dispose of this property for private use depending on the outcome of a suit to quiet title.

In a letter to Franklin Floete, GSA administrator, Karsten yesterday declared that it would be very expensive to replace the 20,622 square feet of postal facility space in the old building by leasing space in a downtown building. The Government is paying as much as $4.02 per square foot for office space, he pointed out.

While no definite price for the old Federal Building has been set, figures as low as $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 have been quoted, Karsten continued. The property should be worth far more than this, he insisted, declaring that its value in 1930 had been estimated at $5,000,000.

"I do not plan to sit idly by and see the site at Eighth and Olive streets sold at the ridiculously low prices which have been suggested," Karsten asserted. He urged restudy of the possibility of placing the new office building on this site and retaining a downtown post office there.

FIVE SPORTING GOODS FIRMS FINED IN ANTI-TRUST CASE

CHICAGO, Sept. 23 (AP) — Five of the nation's largest sporting goods firms and six of their officers were fined in United States District Court yesterday after pleading no contest of government anti-trust charges.

Spalding & Bros., Inc., Chicopee, Mass.; MacGregor Sports Products, Inc., Cincinnati, and Hillerich and Bradsby Co., Louisville, Ky.

Judge Michael L. Igoe levied $10,000 fines against True Temper and Wilson, $5000 each against Spalding and MacGregor, $1000 against Hillerich and Bradsby, and $100 each against these individuals: W. G. Rector, president of True Temper; Gordon Leslie, manager of the True Temper plant in Geneva, O.; Fred J. Rowan, president of Wilson; William F. King, executive vice president of Wilson; W. P. Gerould, Spalding president, and Henry P. Cowen, vice president of MacGregor.

YOUNG MAN WHO WAS FOUND SHOT IN HEAD IN PARK DIES

Michael Ferranti, 21 years old, died yesterday at Homer G. Phillips Hospital of a gunshot wound of the head.

A group of youths at a park at Lillian and Oriole avenues told police that Ferranti, recently released from military service, had threatened to end his life. They said he borrowed a .38-caliber pistol Saturday night, and shot himself in the temple Sunday after walking into the park. An inquest will be conducted.

Ferranti, a laborer, lived at 11715 Larimore road, Spanish Lake.

RED BROADCASTS 'OUTGUN' USIA, DIRECTOR SAYS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23 (AP) — George V. Allen, director of the United States Information Agency, said yesterday the United States is being out-gunned in the radio propaganda war in the Near and Middle East and in Africa.

Allen testified before a House Foreign Affairs subcommittee checking up on the agency's operations as a result of recent congressional criticism. Representative Wayne L. Hays (Dem.) Ohio, heads the group.

The USIA created a separate television service yesterday, Allen said the agency is stepping up its TV activities to supplement American commercial output to a growing number of television stations in free world countries.

Romney Wheeler, a National Broadcasting Co. executive and former Associated Press writer in Atlanta and London, has been appointed director of the new service.

FLOYD O. JULIAN PAROLED; FIGURE IN LITZINGER CASE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 23 —Floyd O. Julian, a principal figure in a charge against Sheriff Orion J. Litzinger of St. Louis county of stealing from the state in an extradition case, was paroled today. Litzinger was acquitted of the charge in a trial here last May.

Relatives who were here for Julian's release from Cole County Jail said they would take him to California. The State Board of Probation and Parole said he would be placed on probation there. Julian, 20 years old, was placed in the jail after Litzinger's trial instead of being returned to the Missouri penitentiary, where he was serving a five-year sentence for robbery.

Testimony in Litzinger's trial indicated that the sheriff's wife served as guard on a trip to Los Angeles by Litzinger in 1957 to return Julian, a bail jumper, to Clayton. The state alleged that Litzinger collected $261.61 from the state for expenses of a guard.

AIR MARSHAL PATCH'S WIFE DIES DESPITE RUSH FLIGHT

The plane, scheduled to land at Lyneham, west of London, was diverted to London airport so that Lady Patch could get to a hospital more quickly. Her condition deteriorated during the flight.

the President full power to act.

"I think all of us would support the president in his determination that Communist domination of the Far East must not be permitted," Kennedy said, "and that our commitments to protect Formosa, South Korea, Japan and the Philippines must be honored . . . But that does not mean that the past or present mistakes of this administration are to be immune from criticism.

"We have not yet reached the point where the announced policies of one man, whether he be the President or the Secretary of State, are sufficient to commit the willing efforts of the American people to an atomic war which they neither want nor understand."

Kennedy spoke in 10 states from New Jersey to California and from Oklahoma to Michigan where there were senatorial or gubernatorial contests. In coming into a state where there is a close contest to help the Democratic candidate, he endeared himself to the party workers in that state and this certainly did him no harm in his campaign for delegates to the 1960 convention.

Now back in Massachusetts, Kennedy is planning to go into every village and town as though he himself were in a close race. Few observers would give his Republican opponent, Vincent Celeste, even an outside chance. Kennedy wants to win by an impressive majority and in this way enhance his stature on the national scene.

Family Taking Part.

As in his campaign six years ago, when he defeated the incumbent Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, members of the large Kennedy family will participate. At least two of the Senator's four sisters will tour the state, as well as his mother, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy. His youngest brother, Edward, still a law student at the University of Virginia, has been campaigning all summer and will be the Senator's campaign manager.

Kennedy's critics and rivals may well say that in challenging the Administration on the Quemoy situation he is merely exploiting for his own ends an issue on which public opinion seems to be overwhelmingly against the Eisenhower-Dulles line. But it is a fact that Kennedy has been one of the few critics with sufficient forthrightness to speak his views in an atmosphere in which caution and timidity have been the rule.

BRITAIN AND U. S. RENEW FULBRIGHT SCHOLARSHIP PLAN

© New York Times News Service

LONDON, Sept. 23 — The United States and Britain signed an agreement here yesterday to prolong the Fulbright exchange fellowships for another 10 years.

Notes formally extending the program were signed by David Ormsby-Gore, Minister of state for foreign affairs, and John Hay Whitney, United States Ambassador in London.

The program, which was 10 years old yesterday, provides for an exchange of students, teachers and scholars between the United States and Britain and British colonial territories. It is financed from lease-lend funds at a cost of about $1,000,000 a year.

Named after its originator, Senator William Fulbright, (Dem.), Arkansas, the educational exchange program is also in effect between the United States and 30 other friendlly governments. More than 6600 Britons and Americans have received Fulbright awards in the last 10 years.

Scene of Fatal Collision

Jumbled wreckage blocking main line of Colorado & Southern Railroad in Broomfield, Colo., after head-on collision of passenger and freight trains yesterday. Capricious Coon

Classes at the Ellisville school were disrupted yesterday by the high wire antics of a tame raccoon outside the school. The masked performer so distracted the attention of pupils that teachers finally called the Animal Protective Association of Missouri. For almost two hours agents of the society tried in vain to snare the animal with a noose on the end of a long pole. Finally the animal crawled backwards down the long telescopic noose pole, hopped onto the shoulder of one of the agents and then jumped to the ground where it finally was captured under a truck.

Arrowhead Hunt On the Meramec

IT'S FUNNY how experiences sometimes tie in together. At a casual glance, the Meramec river and the Tyrolean Alps would seem to have little in common. But for small boys, they do.

CLARISSA START

We went out on the Meramec recently on an Indian arrowhead hunting expedition with Bobby and Johnny, their parents, and Cathy, the little girl next door to them. Bobby's father knew, not where they'd buried the arrowheads, but where they might be digging some up, where the St. Louis County Water Co. is laying pipe under the river at Minnehaha Beach.

They came by for us at 11 a.m. and we checked to be sure we had all the things one needs for an arrowhead expedition — hotdogs, hamburgers, stove, buns, mustard, potato chips, grapes, milk, beer, transistor radio, movie camera and shovels. We took off in a blaze of glory, or rather, in the other family's new station wagon.

Soon we were back in our driveway, trailing, not clouds of glory but exhaust fumes. There were some remarks made about automatic gadgets, a call to the service station and we transferred baggage and started out again, this time in our car.

We pulled up at the river's edge with a flourish and promptly stuck in the sand. Fortunately, the water company's crew was at work and two brawny men pushed us out. We set up camp on a level spot near some trees—where the mothers spied a snake coiled about a branch. Bobby's father identified it as harmless, it slithered away, and we assured each other they're more afraid of us than we are of them, a statement I've always somehow doubted.

While the children watched a diver and the dredger the grown-ups cooked. Soon we had barbecued hamburgers, sanded and charred hotdogs, a pile of mussel shells and two dead fish. Momentary excitement ensued when a charge of dynamite was set off to dislodge a log. After lunch, we settled by the river's edge while the children dug in the pebbly beach and floated boats—pieces of wood and discarded beer cans. (Not ours; we conscientiously carried a little bag.)

You know how your memory keeps nudging you, and saying, "When did this happen before?" Suddenly it clicked. In Austria we had taken a Tyrolean Alps tour. The tour itself was not too exciting but it had one high spot, a stop by a lake where the little boy dug in a pebbly beach and floated makeshift boats, and I realized how therapeutic it is for children, and adults, to take time out, even amid the world's wonders, just to dig.

The Meramec isn't as pretty as that Tyrolean lake although it could be a great deal more so. I know this is a highly controversial subject involving bureaus, committees and the Army Engineers, but we mere citizens still think it's a good idea. Even in its present rundown condition, it's a nice place to spend the day. Arrowheads? Oh, we didn't find any. But, like Tyrolean scenery, that doesn't matter to little boys, just so they have a place to dig and boats to float.

Walter Winchell

On Broadway

DEBBIEDDIE ARE NOW Eddie and Debbie. The man who once sent his wife a gift inscribed: "A wonderful thing happened to me today—you" now tells the world he never loved his wife. The girl who confidently declared: "To be very frank about it, when I become Mrs. Eddie Fisher, that's it. I don't ever intend to pick up a newspaper some day and read that we didn't make good on our marriage" now undergoes medical treatment as the consequence of the unhappy headlines. . . . What does it take to make people happy? Money? Fame? Success? Good Health? Children? Youth? The Fishers had it all—and it wasn't enough.

Lurking in the shadows of the melancholy story is a monster called fate—which makes puppets of people. When Mike Todd's plane crashed, it had a shattering effect on the lifes of three people who were far from the scene of the tragedy.

The big financial news of the month was the revelation that Toots Shor peddled his watering-place for $1,500,000. Mr. Shor's reactions on assuming millionaire status were recorded in great detail in numerous colyums. The fact is that Toots was rich long before he got a million dollars. He has a "million" friends.

It's dog-bites-man news—but the Yankees have copped another pennant with the aid of their leading batboy, Miguel Mantle. . . . Mantle once appeared on a TV program with Kim Novak. Afterwards, he gasped: "Boy, is she something! She's a real big girl. Why, she's got a back almost like mine." Mantle is probably the only man who was ever fascinated by Miss Novak's back. Happily, her other dimensions are different. Nevertheless, you cannot blame Mickey for being impressed. There isn't a major league hurler who can pitch a prettier curve than Kimmmmmm.

The Satevepost, which was founded by Benjamin Franklin, opened its pages to the philosophy of a 20th Century scholar named Zsa Zsa. To the astonishment of practically nobody, Double-Z has boldly come out in favor of love and luxury. Miss Gabor, who leads her private life in public, now contends that she never loved Rubirosa. . . . Ricky Nelson is the latest Pied Piper of the teen-agers. He is busily collecting glory and golden trophies. The youngster declares: "Show business is my life and I don't think I need college, so I'm through with studies." When you believe there isn't anything worth learning, it only demonstrates how much you have to learn.

Noel Coward, who is visiting New York, carves words out of marshmallows and concocts witty confections. He is the darling of Mr. and Mrs. Chichi—the very model of a modern major sophisticate. . . . And now, folks, for the startling contrast: Coward doesn't drink. He confesses "drinking bores and upsets me." He also states he is "too old to have that gala feeling. If I stay up all night, it's because I like observing, not to go on any whoopee feast." Noel's idea of great fun: Going to bed early with a good book. Ironically, Mr. Sophisticate lives like the peasant he has scorned in his songs and shows. . . . Gwen Verdon will light up the Roxy's marquee next week in the film version of "Damn Yankees." The film represents her elevation to movie stardom. . . . For many years, Miss Verdon was a jill-of-all-trades in Hollywood. She played bit roles in films, danced in the chorus, served as a stand-in for stars and functioned as a dancing coach. Her most unusual jobs consisted of teaching Jane Russell how to be more sexy and Marilyn Monroe how to be less.

Suburban Living Right in the City

By Warren Kiesewetter
Of the KSD News Staff

SOME PEOPLE think there's just a choice between city and suburban living, that there's nothing in between but truck farming in an area such as Metropolitan St. Louis. They don't know that there is the city subdivision to give you both city and suburban living.

Seven years ago we roosted in a subdivision far on the south side, so far, indeed, that you can feel a cool Gulf breeze on the back of your neck when the rest of the city is sweltering in typical St. Louis summer weather. But we are within the city limits and therefore entitled to name ourselves among that shrinking coterie called St. Louisans.

After eying one another for a few months, swapping post hole diggers, wheelbarrows and advice on crab grass, my neighbors and I decided we had sufficient problems to warrant an ORGANIZATION. This is definitely a suburban trait.

The city dweller normally goes his independent way, borrowing a smidgin of sugar occasionally but characteristically ignoring the major concerns of his neighbor. But not the subdivision dweller. He, like his brother, the suburbanite, cares about his neighbor and wants to help him. Therefore one of the first things they do is organize an Improvement Association.

Ours is the Morganford Park Improvement Association It needles the Public Service Co. for better transportation in our end of town. It sends Santa Claus to all the homes at Christmas, bearing nice toys for the kids and a bracer or two for the male adults encountered along the way. And, of course there are dances, winter and summer, to keep us one happy family, just like Captain Andy shouts to his Showboat audience.

And what is the reason for this drift to subdivision or suburb? Children, naturally. And do we have kids! The statisticians who figure family size probably got the shock of their lives when they hit Morganford Park. None of the homes had more than three bedrooms to begin with, but expansion has taken place in the intervening years.

Some people went further out into the back yard with their construction. Many of these people who don't like to cut grass; thus a smaller lawn does have its advantages. Some have gone up. They simply lifted their roofs about 10 feet and made room for more kids. Some people have apartments in finished basements for their children. But we do make room. At last count there were 60 kids in our block of Robert avenue, only a handful of whom are old enough to know the meaning of a date. The rest of them have bicycles, wagons, scooters, cars, Irish mails and other play paraphernalia which is liberally distributed on the streets and fraternally shared. You may have heard some of those infernal, I mean fraternal, cries, "He's got my bicycle and I'm not going to return his wagon and scooter until he gives it to me." Usually the aggrieved one gets it—right in the kisser. Adults, by and large, wisely remain in the background with iodine and solace when needed.

Families with five or six children are more the rule than the exception in our neighborhood, so our 3-year-old son, Mark, usually has no need for any nursery school to develop his social graces. It's clobber or get clobbered in this school of hard knocks and Mark is getting socially more graceful every day. He can wear a black eye with the aplomb of a dock walloper. You should see him right now. He's sporting not one but two shiners.

Some kids like to travel solo. Such loners have plenty of opportunity to think. Inventions and poetry are produced this way. Some high-powered deviltment, too. But Mark happily is a social butterfly, flitting from playmate to playmate, stopping at home long enough to eat and sleep and say howdy to his brother and sister.

While sipping a cool drink in the back yard the other day (another trait common to the genus subdividis) I heard Mark get the old one-two from two erstwhile pals.

"You can't play."

"Why not?"

"This is only for big boys." came the crusher. After all, the "pals" were 5 years old. Mark mumbled something like, "Aw, go home you bad boys," and left in search of new companions.

But while the demand was never stronger, the supply seemed to have shriveled up and disappeared. Mark went everywhere in the neighborhood, even calling girls, but no one wanted to play.

Fortunately Dave and Johnny were still playing in the driveway and had not gone home as Mark had ordered. Mark paid little attention to them as he sped into the garage, a building greatly favored as an arsenal for children's weapons, if not as a place of safekeeping for the family auto.

Mark obtained a pop gun, the large double-barreled variety, and then approached his friends, i.e. adversaries. In a desperate breathless aside to me Mark whispered, "I just gotta have some one to play with." The two 5-year-olds stood there pop-eyed as Mark announced, "You are going to play with me." Backing up this brink-of-war statesmanship, Mark brandished his gun, blocking Johnny and Dave's retreat to the cardboard fort they were building out of a box I normally use to store the swimming pool.

"You see this gun," said Mark in a convincing manner.

"Yes," chorused the pals.

"Well," said Mark, "I'm going to hit you on the head with it if you don't let me play." And that's how Mark grew two years older in one day.

Fix-It Yourself

THINGS BECOME WORN where they get the most use. This holds true of linoleum flooring as well as anything else.

When a spot in linoleum becomes worn you can either replace all the linoleum or patch the worn spot. Of the two choices, patching is the least expensive by a good deal.

You'll need a piece of new linoleum for the patch and this should be somewhat larger than the area to be patched. Some prefer to use the same pattern and color for the patch as the rest of the flooring while some use a contrasting color or pattern. It's pretty much a matter of choice.

Put the patch right over the worn spot, kneel on it and then take a sharp linoleum knife and cut along the outside edge of the patch and through the worn linoleum under the patch at the same time. Hold the linoleum knife so that the tip points in slightly toward the middle of the patch.

After you have cut completely around the patch, take it up and gently pry up the worn spot that you have cut out around. Scrape off the old linoleum paste from the subflooring, coat with fresh linoleum paste and then set the patch in place.

Wipe away any of the paste that oozes out around the edges and place a heavy object on the patch to hold it down until the paste is dry.

Protective Web for Film Celebrities

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Sept. 23 (UPI).

"BEVERLY HILLS," according to Groucho Marx, the King Leer of television, "has more doctors and lawyers per capita than any other city in the nation."

"This," he says, "makes it clear that it is the sickest and crookedest town in the United States."

The hills of Beverly also contain more movie stars per capita than any other piece of real estate in the world. And this is the headache of Police Chief Clinton H. Anderson.

"But not because of the movie people themselves," he says. "As a whole, they are very well behaved. Our problems come from the outsiders from all over the world who try to intrude on their wealth and privacy. Gigolos, for instance."

GROUCHO MARX

Anderson, 54, referred to the butcher-knife slaying of underworld lothario Johnny Stompanato last April 4 by Lana Turner's daughter, Cheryl Crane, 14.

"Stompanato was a symbol of the lady's man," he said. "We have a lot of these fashion plates around here. They're good dancers and give a semblance of knowing the social graces.

"They look for the lonesome women with money. A lot of these women want to appear at the many social functions with escorts. So these fellows fill the vacuum."

Sometimes honest ambition, as well as opportunism, causes crime among the younger acting hopefuls, Anderson said.

"They want to be more than they are," he explained, "so they try to live in this town, which is way above their heads financially. Before they know it, they're cashing bad checks and doing anything to keep alive.

"And all because someone back in Indiana or Iowa told them that they were handsome or beautiful and should be in the movies or on TV."

Anderson looks like a movie version of a police chief. He resembles J. Edgar Hoover. He wears glasses. His hair is a mixture of steel-gray and white. He has a solid, medium build.

In his 16 years as chief—and 30 years on the force—Anderson has helped increase the protective web around the celebrities who live in this town.

"We have 91 men on the force," he said, "and we can respond to any call within two minutes. Many homes have individual alarm systems, and some persons even have push-button alarms over their beds directly into headquarters.

"Every one of our streets is patroled at least once every 45 minutes, and it's true that sometimes at night we'll pick up people we don't recognize."

All of the city's cocktail bars and better restaurants are under constant surveillance, Anderson said, "for con men and prostitutes who dress up in glad rags and try to move in for a big killing.

"If one or two unescorted women are seen in a few places, they get the word. We have to protect our people. They're too easy to sue."

One of Anderson's fondest dreams is to convince some of his movie friends that they should make more films in which policemen are not portrayed as lunkheads who are the last to solve a crime.

But he admits he doesn't have much hope for success.

"I've discussed the matter a great deal with producer friends," he said. "But the answer is that people resent authority. Kids don't like schoolteachers. Buck privates don't like officers. So producers simply try to satisfy their audiences."

What about Jack Webb, who never guesses wrong on "Dragnet?"

"He's out of my league," said Anderson. "He's a one-man Los Angeles police force."

Newlywed Quarrels

THE HONEYMOON IS OVER, and young Mrs. B. is frightened. "We've been married only five weeks and already we seem to be quarreling continually," she writes me. "The worst of it is that before the wedding we seemed to be wholly compatible—we hardly had a cross word with each other. What's the matter with us? Is this what a wedding ceremony did to us? Is this what is ahead of us for a married lifetime? I'm bewildered and confused, Dr. Popenoe—and I'm scared!"

Unfortunately many young married people have the same experience, Mrs. B. They have not been educated properly, not prepared intelligently, for the new relationship that they were going to encounter after they became man and wife. If you stop to think of some of the changes in their relationship, I think you'll be astonished that quarreling isn't even more frequent.

Let me list a few of them without regard to their order of importance:

Greatly increased intimacy produces greatly increased emotional tension. You are ready to burst into tears, to become angry, to criticize over issues that would not have affected you very much, in earlier months.

Each starts out to be "boss." Before marriage, each of us is more conciliatory than he wants to be; it does not seem like the proper time for a quarrel! But you say to yourself, "After we're married I certainly won't put up with that sort of thing!"

There is no longer the same glamour in daily life that there was previously; we used to appear at our best before each other. You didn't know what your husband looked like when he needed a shave — but you know now, and so on.

Each of you expected something from your marriage that you didn't find in it. More specifically, you had an idea of what a good home is like, based on your early memories of your parents' home. You took it for granted that any good home would be like that; and of course you were determined to have a good home. Unfortunately, your husband had a similar ideal but based on his memories of his own home which was very different from the one in which you grew up. So you're trying to force him to be like your father—which he can't be; while he's trying to mold you into the likeness of his mother, whom you actually don't resemble.

Memo to Men

MEMO TO MEN: If you want the girl you married to be a good wife to you through the years, you'd better understand a few things about women.

A woman will work hard, manage on little, make the most of what she has and put her husband's happiness ahead of her own so long as her husband lets her know he thinks she is one in a million.

Women may go for the strong, silent type when they meet him in fiction or in the movies, but when a woman chooses a man to live with for the rest of her life she wants a man who will talk to her and listen when she needs an understanding audience.

Though a lot of women "wear the pants" and run the family, that's not how women like it. Deep down inside they want a husband who will be head of his house. When a woman takes over the dominant role it's because the man isn't man enough for the job.

The man who talks over his business problems with his wife not only has her on his side, he often finds that the feminine solution to a business problem is direct and realistic.

A wife who is her husband's full business partner is rarely an extravagant woman. The woman who hoodwinks her husband in money matters is almost always a woman who has money doled out to her, or who is put on an allowance like a child.

Since a homemaker doesn't work for a pay check and can't look forward to promotions, her main job satisfaction comes from feeling that her efforts are appreciated by her husband. Any man who ignores that fact is just asking to have a frustrated, unhappy wife.

America's Lag in Physical Fitness

By Bonnie Prudden

(First of a Series)

IN AN AGE that finds new horizons conquered every day, Americans still can't peer beyond their noses when it comes to realizing the necessity of sound, flexible bodies to meet the day-to-day challenges of modern living.

There isn't another nation that is as extravagantly careless as we are about the fitness of our kids. Now trooping back to school for another school year, they are the worst physically equipped in the world.

If you think these are cockeyed statements, consider the results of an international survey based on the famous Kraus-Weber tests of minimum muscular fitness:

▶ 57.9 per cent of the American children examined failed one or more of the six tests. (At the age of 6, a shocking 82 per cent failed.) What was the failure rate for European youngsters? A mere 8.7 per cent.

▶ 44.3 per cent of the American children failed the flexibility test. Only 8.7 per cent of the Europeans failed it.

▶ 35 per cent of the American children failed one or more of the five strength tests. Only 1.1 per cent of the European children failed any of them.

If you're still not convinced, consider these test figures: The rate of failure in little Guatemala, often looked upon as a backward country, was 21 per cent—but for 6-year-olds it was zero. In Japan it was 15 per cent; in India, 39 per cent.

The six simple tests which produced these figures have nothing to do with a child's athletic ability. They simply measure his ability to meet minimum — not maximum, but minimum — standards of muscular fitness. Here they are, and you might want to try them on your youngsters at home:

Test 1: The child lies flat on his back, legs straight, hands clasped behind his neck, feet held down. He must roll himself up to a sitting position.

Test 2: Same position as in Test 1, except that this time the legs are bent at the knees. Again, all the child is asked to do is roll himself up to a sitting position.

Test 3: Flat on his back, hands behind his neck, the child must raise his legs 10 inches off the floor, keeping his knees straight, and hold them there for 10 seconds.

Test 4: The child lies on his stomach with a pillow placed under his hips. With his feet held down by the parent (or sis or brother), he must raise his chest, head and shoulders and hold them up for 10 seconds.

Test 5: Same position as in Test 4. This time the child must raise his legs while keeping his knees straight and hold the position for 10 seconds. Hold down the upper body.

Test 6: The child stands straight, then bends from the waist, knees straight, and touches the floor, holding the position for three seconds. In other words, this is "touching the toes" — and it's the test most often failed.

What's behind our shameful failure rate?

Parents certainly are to blame. Exercise, for some strange reason, seems to have become taboo in the home. We pamper our kids and aid and abet them in the "art" of mechanized, soft living.

Schools are perhaps the chief culprits. The plain fact is that 91 per cent of the elementary schools in the United States, in the year 1958, do not have gymnasiums.

Sure, new schools by the scores have been built in the postwar years, and all of them have spanking new gymnasiums. But for every one that has a gym, nine still do not.

Our physical education programs have gone game-happy. Games are fine, but with limited hours for them and 30 kids trying to get one shot at one basket with one basketball, how much exercise do they provide? What's wrong with calisthenics and gymnastics, which 1000 kids could do at once?

As for the colleges, most of them have gorgeous athletic plants. But is physical education required after the freshman year? It is not. So the young men and women, upon whom the growth and vitality of this country depend, after four years of higher education spend most of their time building up tensions and becoming prime candidates for the Society of Aching Backs.

What can we do about this sorry situation?

First off, we parents can start doing things with our kids. Not an occasional round of golf, or an occasional game of tennis, or an occasional anything. But day in, day out exercise. We can play with them, walk with them, run with them, do situps with them—anything to make physical activity as much a part of their daily lives as breathing.

Our schools can make physical education as integral a part of the curriculum as the ABCs. Let's start using those mats that gather dust on gymnasium walls. Let's start giving every child a chance to play, to move his body—even if we have to start doing situps in the corridors, as some schools already have done.

The situation cannot be changed by order of higher authorities. No decree will give parents strong, healthy children. Parents will have to give the schools strong, healthy children and then demand that they be kept so.

Those statistics that show our kids growing worse and worse physically each day aren't going to be reversed by anything but a change in spirit on the part of all of us.

The Author--Fitness Expert

BONNIE PRUDDEN is one of the country's outstanding authorities on physical fitness who has devoted much of her time to a crusade to make Americans more fitness conscious.

Miss Prudden deplores the fact that in this enlightened age many United States schools — particularly grade schools — don't have an organized physical education program—and in a vast majority of others the activity setup is so inadequate that the average child doesn't even get a chance to participate.

Miss Prudden is founder and director of the Institute for Physical Fitness in White Plains, N.Y., where she conducts daily classes. She recently received an honorary degree, in recognition of her work, from Springfield College. It was an international survey conducted by her which prompted President Eisenhower to establish his Council on Youth Fitness two years ago. She has been a member of the council since its inception.

Bridge Deck

OUR FRIEND Edward S. Ellenbogen of Port Chester, N.Y., won a top-on-the-board through a lapse of memory when he and Mrs. Edna L. May of New Rochelle, N.Y., met today's hand in a recent duplicate match. They bid five diamonds and made six, being the only pair to reach game on the hand.

At every other table, North opened one no-trump and if East over-called with two hearts, North doubled and South took out to three diamonds, which became the final contract. At those tables where East took no action, South responded two diamonds, which North passed.

As Ellenbogen and Mrs. May do not open four-card majors, his normal opening would also have been one no-trump, but he forgot this point and bid one spade. He doubled the two-heart overcall to show his strong hand and South said three hearts, a cue bid in East's suit which requested North to show a minor suit. North, lacking a four-card minor, bid three no-trump and when South took out to four diamonds, he raised to game.

Mrs. May had no trouble making her five-diamond contract with an overtrick. She took the heart opening with the ace and led the jack of clubs, topping East's king with the ace. She led the 10 of diamonds and finessed it, driving out the ace. That was the only trick for the defense. Declarer ruffed the heart return, drew the remaining trumps and claimed the rest for six-odd, losing only to the ace of trumps.

Case of the Hidden Bacilli

By John F. Allen

SOMETIMES a disease hides itself away so cleverly in a recess of the human body that not all the skills of an expert diagnostician, not all the known laboratory tests can uncover a clue to its whereabouts.

Then it is time—with all means of direct attack repulsed—to try a sort of flanking movement, and to turn to the internist's powerful ally, the surgeon.

Thus the case of a 40-year-old school teacher named Margaret Mason, who first saw her doctor with complaints of high fever and pains in her chest. Since these and other less obvious symptoms appeared to point to pleurisy—a painful inflammation of the chest cavity lining—Miss Mason was put to bed and treated with aureomycin, a "wonder drug" usually successful against the condition. She failed to respond, and her busy family physician, unable to find any other reason for her fever and pain, sent her to an internist.

The internist, even with all his skills—based on years of specialized postgraduate training—found himself equally frustrated. These facts he found by questioning Miss Mason, by reading her record and through various standard tests: no past serious illness or surgery, no family history of disease, no exposure to industrial poisoning, no immoderate habits, no sign of organic disease.

Yet her intermittent pains were sharper than ever in her chest and had spread to her left shoulder; her fever ranged between 100.5 and 105 degrees. She had palpitations of the heart and a rapid pulse.

The internist listened long to her chest with his stethoscope, but could hear no friction rub—a sound like that of a squeaking shoe, heard when the inflamed pleural tissue rubs together. However, a fluoroscopic examination of the chest showed that the heart was enlarged, that its beats were restricted in activity. Laboratory tests proved that Miss Mason was anemic and had a rapid blood sedimentation rate (a sure sign of infection).

All of these facts added up to only one conclusion. Miss Mason was suffering from a chronic systemic disease, not simply an acute inflammatory condition. Of all the systemic diseases which might be responsible for her particular set of symptoms, three seemed the most likely candidates: Hodgkin's Disease (a sort of slow-growing cancer characterized by enlargement of the lymph glands and spleen), disseminated lupus (an inflammatory disease which can involve almost any part of the body and which may be allergic in origin) and tuberculosis.

The next step after this three-way diagnostic hypothesis was to give Miss Mason every known test designed to prove or disprove the presence of each. Discouragingly enough, all tests were negative.

Now came the flanking attack. The only recourse left open to the internist was to try on Miss Mason the various drugs proved by past experience to be effective against the disease she might have.

The first handy choice was streptomycin — another "wonder drug"—because it is known to be effective against tuberculosis. Miss Mason's temperature dropped, and the first crack in the blank wall seemed to be opening. But still there was no real proof, and then her temperature rose again.

The weary internist went back over the patient's physical and laboratory findings, but still could come no closer to putting his finger on a definite clue. The diagnosis of tuberculosis is not a light one; it commits the patient to a long period of treatment, and without uncontrovertible evidence, the internist was not happy.

Yet, there was enough of a hint in the success of the streptomycin, brief as it was, to warrant stronger measures of the same sort. So Miss Mason was placed on a regimin of isonlazid, a highly regarded drug used specifically against TB. Sure enough, her fever fell to normal, and she was sent home and kept on the drug.

But why, the internist kept asking himself, does she show no single outward evidence of the disease? No tuberculosis bacilli could be found in her sputum or anywhere else; there was no sign of lung involvement.

One possibility remained: that Miss Mason had a rare form of the disease, tuberculosis involving the liver and the lymph nodes of the abdomen. Only a surgical biopsy—a bit of tissue snipped from the suspected area and studied for the presence of TB bacilli—could prove or disprove the truth of this tentative diagnosis.

So the internist, now close to the end of his diagnostic rope, turned to the surgeon, and an exploratory examination of Miss Mason's abdomen was carried out, and bits taken from a lymph node and the liver.

Tests removed the last doubt; Miss Mason was suffering from glandular tuberculosis, a noncontagious, well-disguised type of the disease, but a type no less dangerous to its victim than the more familiar TB of the lungs.

Miss Mason was sent to a tuberculosis sanitarium for three months of bed rest and drug therapy, and then to the home of a relative for further rest and medication. Now, after a year of such treatment, she is free of fever and pain, her blood count and sedimentation rate are normal, she has gained 15 pounds, and has returned to her classrooms.

Elizabeth Brandon Sets Wedding Date

By Peggy Johnson

MISS ELIZABETH HATLER BRANDON, whose engagement to John Woodring Studt was announced in July, has set Oct. 18 as her wedding date. The marriage will take place at 8 o'clock in the evening at Ladue Chapel with the Rev. Dr. W. Davidson McDowell officiating. The prospective bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrew Brandon, 8 Willow Hill road, Ladue, will give the reception at St. Louis Woman's Club after the ceremony.

—Jules Pieslow Photograph.
MISS BROWNLEE . . . To Be Honor Attendant.

Miss Brandon has asked Miss Kathryn Brownlee to serve as her honor attendant. Bridesmaids will be Mrs. Stuart Symington Jr., the former Miss Janey Studt, the prospective bridegroom's sister, Mrs. George S. Fowler Jr. (Gayle Whittemore), Miss Joan Schlueter, and three former roommates of the bride-elect at Vassar College, Miss Gillian Attfield, Binghampton, N. Y.; Miss Elizabeth Ann Jones, Montclair, N. J., and Miss Carol Ann Krause, Milwaukee.

Mr. Studt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney M. Studt who occupy the penthouse apartment at 10 South Brentwood boulevard, Clayton, will announce his attendants at a later date.

Bryan-Howe Wedding In California.

OF INTEREST IN ST. LOUIS is the wedding Sept. 13 of Miss Judith Joyce Howe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Howe, Rancho Santa Fe, Calif., to J. Shepard Bryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. Taylor Bryan Jr., 4629 Pershing place. The bridegroom's parents and Mr. and Mrs. Leicester B. Faust, Chesterfield, who had been vacationing in Hawaii, were in Rancho Santa Fe for the wedding.

The historic mission church of San Luis Rey was decorated with white gladiolas and chrysanthemums and lighted with candles. During the early afternoon ceremony, performed by the Rev. Anthony Soto, a choir of Franciscan Brothers sang. After the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Howe gave a garden reception at their home, Juan Osouna Ranch.

Mrs. Vlad Marsh, came from Germany where Lt. Marsh is a jet pilot, to be her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Susan Gooch, La Jolla; and Miss Gwendolyn Martyn, San Francisco, and Frances Stith, a cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

P. Taylor Bryan III, St. Louis, was best man for his brother. Ushers were the bride's brothers J. Copeland Howe and John Edward Howe Jr.; Robert Jennings and Palmer Clarkson Casey, Los Angeles, whose mother is the former Miss Marie Clarkson of St. Louis.

The bride wore an ivory pleated net and chantilly lace gown and an heirloom Spanish lace mantilla. She carried a prayer book covered with a shower of white moth orchids. Her adult attendants were in mist green taffeta and organza while the junior bridesmaid wore yellow organdy. They carried straw baskets from which cascaded yellow chrysanthemums.

Martha Carr's OPINION

Dear Martha:

MY DAUGHTER is engaged to a Mama's boy and I can't talk her out of it. This boy refuses to think for himself on anything. His mother even goes with him to buy his clothes (he's 24). She handles his money, banks so much a week and gives him an allowance. If he is at our home too late, she will call and suggest that it's time for him to come home, and he does as she says. He has a good job and is a fine boy in many ways. But we know they can't be happy. How can we persuade her of this?

MOTHER.

You probably can't. She'll have to persuade herself. Just as you want him to make his decisions, so she must make hers. But I agree with you that she'll be crawling right under his mother's thumb if she marries him now. Ask her to wait a little while. It may not give him time to grow up, but it may give her time to wake up.

Dear Martha:

I HAVE BEEN GOING WITH a man from the plant where I work but my parents don't want me to see him any more. He is 38 and I am 23. He brings me home every day after work and he acts likes he loves me. Last weekend, another fellow called and asked for a date and I accepted it. Then this man heard about it and he was so furious that he slapped me. I told my parents because I was so hurt and they forbade me to see him. Then the next day at the plant he came to me and apologized. He even had tears in his eyes and I know he was sincere. I let him take me home but he let me out of the car a block away so my folks wouldn't know it. We've been doing this all week and my parents think I've broken off with him. I don't like to deceive them but don't you think I have the right to decide for myself? SUNNY.

Not unless you're grown-up enough to rebel at being slapped around by a bully, and big enough not to stoop to deceit. Your parents are right. Listen to them.

IN ANSWER TO Bridegroom's Mother: As soon as the engagements becomes known, you and your husband are expected to call on the bride-elect's parents.

Are you planning a party for the kindergarten crowd? Send today for Martha Carr's free leaflet, Let's Have a Party, which will help you with ideas for invitations, games, decorations, refreshments. Be sure to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Eleanor Roosevelt

Make-Believe Diplomacy

LENINGRAD, Sept. 23.

I HAVE JUST RECEIVED in my mail an editorial that was published in the New York Post on Aug. 31, and one sentence in particular strikes a responsive chord so far as I am concerned. This sentence reads: "What we need now —and there is no moment to lose—is a diplomatic counter-offensive based on a new China policy."

I did read a news bulletin from the American Embassy in Moscow about two weeks ago, giving a full account of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles's press conference at that time, and I must confess it made me unhappy.

For a long time we tried to make believe that Russia did not exist because we hoped something we did not like would miraculously disappear. It has not disappeared. We are in danger of making the same mistake about Communist China. We do not like her present government and we think if we make believe long enough that it doesn't exist, it will disappear. I very much fear this is dangerous dreaming.

We must accept realities: Do we want peace or destruction? Do we just talk about peaceful co-existence, or do we mean to try it?

WE CAME UP to Leningrad by train and were met cordially and presented with big bouquets of flowers as we got off the train. Our acting president of the American Association for the United Nations, Oscar de Lima, has his wife and three little girls with him, and there were flowers for them. The children are never forgotten, it seems, in Russia. These youngsters are beautifully brought up and are very good travelers. I hope the Russians think all our children are as well-behaved!

We had a final meeting here with the co-operating U.N. group, but since the Leningrad chapter is concerned only with activities in this area the discussions were very limited. Much good will was shown, however.

We had some time to see the sights and visited the log cabin in which Peter the Great lived while he built this city. It is now encased in a brick house to preserve it, but one can walk around inside the brick inclosure and see all the furnishings of the cabin through the windows. When the cabin's wooden shutters were closed at night it must have been completely without air, and in the summer it must have been very hot. The weather here at the moment is lovely, although at times quite cool.

I think this is one of the really beautiful cities of the world. There are parks and monuments everywhere and houses with lovely facades. The French influence is very evident. It is a more sophisticated, cosmopolitan city than is Moscow, and yet I think Moscow is more interesting. That may be because in Moscow one feels more keenly the changes that are taking place from day to day in so many lives.

One of the Russians at the meeting gave me a copy of an article he had written for the American Economic Association Bulletin on building our trade with the Communist countries as a way to increase the cause of peace in the world. I found it interesting, and I hope it will be read by those in America who are in a position to evaluate this article better than I can.

Emily Post

Social Problems

DEAR MRS. POST: I tried to say goodby to a friend before she left for an extended European trip but something interfered and I never got to see her. I explained this to her when she returned but she seemed very much put out and I don't think she believed I tried to see her. This brings up the question: Shouldn't people who are going away for any length of time actually be the ones to make the effort to say goodby to their friends and not the other way round?

Answer: There is no rule that covers this. In general, you are right because unless the one going away says goodby how can she expect all her friends to know she is leaving.

Some Uncommon Visitors

By Adele Starbird

ADELE STARBIRD

The lady from Trinidad wanted more than anything else to be driven out into the country. In all their travels in Canada and the United States they had seen farmlands only from the air. So she and some of the men were taken out to the Meramec Valley and beyond, where they could see the blue rims of the Ozarks.

"NICE BIT OF WORK," said the gentleman on my left with quiet satisfaction.

It was last Wednesday evening and the Cardinals were playing the Braves at Busch Stadium. Among the spectators were executives from universities of the British Commonwealth, who for four days were the guests of Chancellor and Mrs. Shepley of Washington University.

With their long experience in sports they were quick to seize the fine points of baseball. Some of them kept score. I noticed one rather shy lady who laughed with pleasure whenever the Cardinals scored. The gentleman from India, who is a famous surgeon and has operated on Gandhi and Nehru, was impressive in a Cardinal cap. Both pennants and caps were bought to take back as souvenirs to the children.

You never know in advance what visitors from other shores will want to see. I was sure that the British wouldn't be interested in our historical sites. After all, I argued, William the Conqueror landed in England in 1066, and Pierre Laclede started St. Louis in 1764. "Nothing we have will look old to them."

Well, they wanted to see it just the same. Having done their homework before their arrival, they were very firm about doing the sights. "I can't face my children if I haven't seen the Showboat," said the lady from Manchester.

So we did the levee. "A bit dingy, don't you think?" asked the gentleman from Sheffield. I had to admit that it was, but I urged him to come back in 20 years and see it in all its glory of gardens and its Saarinen arch.

Every last man and woman of them went to Shaw's Garden, some of them twice. They exclaimed over the pond lilies of many colors and the orchids. I wondered if the masses of heliotrope reminded them of Hampton Court. I, who associate heliotrope with two blossoms in a little flowerpot, am always overwhelmed when I see it in lavish sheets of abundant bloom. It is wonderful to see enough heliotrope, all that anybody could possibly desire; it is a symbol of beautiful excess. The world then is not limited to my two little blossome in a clay pot! I hoped the British would notice how much heliotrope we had, but they took it as a matter of course, and I was too proud to mention it. A parvenu in heliotrope, I pretended to the purple.

One afternoon during a lull, I said to the gentleman from Reading that his group was unique. "You alone of all our European visitors have not demanded to see the confluence of the Mississippi and the Missouri, and I am so grateful. In the first place, it is hard to reach, and in the second place there is nothing to see there."

Before he could answer, Eileen Wolff said, "Oh, but there is somebody here who wants to see the confluence. He spoke of it yesterday."

They were unique in more ways than one. After weeks of intensive travel they were consistently amiable and charming, high-spirited and responsive, and they endeared themselves to us.

"Lots of fun, aren't they?" was the frequent remark.

DAVE GARROWAY'S "Today" program will undergo a major format change beginning Oct. 6. For one thing, it will greatly expand its news coverage, under news editor Frank Blair. There will be regular daily "columns" by the department editors, Jack Lescoulie, Betsy Palmer and Charles Van Doren, who joins the staff that week.

JIM DAVIS . . . Stars as fire department rescue expert in "Rescue 8" series starting on KSD-TV Sept. 29.

More than 97 per cent of the nation's viewers are within areas where they can see color telecasts. There are 281 stations equipped to broadcast network color television, and 101 of these can originate their own color film broadcasts.

When Liberace returns to television Oct. 31 he will have singers Dick Roman and Marilynn Lovell as part of his staff.

Walter Brennan, star of "The Real McCoys" and a veteran motion picture star, got his start in movies by falling off horses, for which he was paid $1 a tumble.

"The Price Is Right" is moving on KSD-TV to 7:30 tomorrow night, from its former spot at 9 p.m. Thursday. "Dragnet," formerly a 7:30 p.m. Thursday show, is moving to a new time, 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, beginning today.

Different Eye Colors

By Ramon Coffman

WHEN WE SPEAK of a person with blue eyes or brown eyes, we refer to small portions of the eyes. The colored part of a human eye is in plain view, but most of the eye is hidden.

The human eye is almost, but not quite, a perfect sphere. The diameter is about one inch in the case of an average adult.

The name "iris" is used for the colored part of the eye. The iris is a circular formation of muscles. It may be compared in general shape to a doughnut, but is rather thin.

Aside from blue, green, gray or brown, the iris may be hazel, even violet. Beautiful girls with violet eyes are famed in song and story, but they are rare. Do you personally know any girl with violet eyes?

Hazel eyes are brownish, but have lighter tinges, as green, blue or amber. People tell me that I have hazel eyes, but I should have trouble in describing the exact coloring.

Q. Why does the iris of the human eye differ in color?

A. Differences are due to the amount and placing of the pigment. Dark brown eyes have a good deal of pigment spread all through the iris. Blue eyes have pigment at the back of the iris, but are transparent, or almost so, in the front.

A true albino eye is described as one which is pink or reddish because it is without pigment. We might wonder how it could have any coloring without pigment. The answer is that the iris is transparent, and at the back of the iris we see a network of blood vessels, giving the reddish cast.

Q. Does a person ever have one eye with one color, one with another?

A. This does happen, but it is rare. An American president, James Buchanan, had a medium blue eye, along with an eye so dark that people called it black.
